Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

3 Helicopters Downed

SAIGON — New fighting erupted yesterday in the battle-worn Que Son Valley and surrounding area south of Da Nang where the Communists launched assaults that downed three U.S. helicopters and caused 31 American casualties.

Military spokesmen said the helicopters were ferrying troops of the 198th Light Infantry brigade into the foothills of the valley just south of Da Nang.

Barricades Removed

LONDONDERRY, NORTHERN IRELAND—Residents of Londonderry's Roman Catholic Royside district began dismantling barricades yesterday and replacing them with white lines across the streets.

Troops stood by as eight barricades were removed and members of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association painted the lines without incident.

Con-Con Voting Today

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine townships.

Four of the 16 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislature elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

Open New Hall Bid

Bids for the municipal complex to be constructed at Biesterfeld Road and Wellington Avenue in Elk Grove Village will be opened today at 3 p.m. in the village board chambers.

It will be the second time in two months that the board has had a bid opening for the project. Earlier, bids came in about $150,000 more than the estimated cost of the project, slightly more than $1 million.

Following the opening bids will be reviewed by the village architect, Otis & Associates of Northbrook. A recommendation will be presented to the village board for the awarding of contracts at the board's regular meeting at 8 p.m. today.

IF ALL GOES WELL, construction should begin in a couple of weeks, said

Trustee George Coney, chairman of the capital improvements committee.

"We should be in the building by late fall next year," continued Coney, "if everything goes well."

Coney appeared confident that the bids would not come in high, as they did last month.

"We cut out over $100,000," he said, explaining that a change in the method of heating was responsible for most of the cut.

"I DON'T KNOW what we'll do if they come in too high again," he said.

The complex, to be built at the southeast corner of Biesterfeld and Wellington, will consist of a village hall, police headquarters and central fire station. The building will be one story tall and contain a full basement.

The present offices used by village personnel will probably be retained for use by the street and water department. These offices were built about eight years ago, said Coney, as an addition to the village garage at 666 Landmeier Road.

Prior to the village offices being housed there, some business was done at the police station on Landmeier Road. Most of the work, however, was done at home, said Coney.

BEFORE THE POLICE station was constructed, about 10 years ago, police were quartered in a barn on Tonne Road, south of Laurel Street, added Coney.

That was 13 years ago when the village was incorporated.

Crash Kills Area Man

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexicana Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

Arnold Freise, 1004 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, was unofficially reported killed in the crash.

Information on passengers injured or killed was not available yesterday afternoon from the airlines. Mexican authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

OTHER PASSENGERS from the area who were on the plane were Mrs. Arnold Freise, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clausung, all from Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton from unincorporated Wheeling.

The three Arlington Heights couples were members of Club International, a vacation savings club. They had taken trips together before and were planning to go to Europe next year.

All the Arlington Heights residents are members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The Rev. Robert Bartz, pastor of the church, flew to Mexico City yesterday afternoon.

Freise, 53, was vice president and sales manager for Piepenbrink Movers in Rolling Meadows. He was recently appointed as a director of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. He was a former operator of Parkway Liquors, 17 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

AT ST. PETER LUTHERAN Church, Freise was the chairman of the board of elders and chairman of the Lutheran Layman's League.

He is survived by his wife, Verna, and two children, Mrs. Carol Schroeder and Roger, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in California.

Mrs. Freise reportedly helped another crash victim, Mrs. Meyer, out of her chair after the crash. Mrs. Freise was reportedly in a hospital.

Ralph Meyer, a building inspector for the Village of Arlington Heights, was reported missing. His wife, Elizabeth, "Libby," called home to tell her family that she was in the hospital and was all right. She said she didn't know where her husband was. They live at 706 N. Mitchell.

MEYER WAS ON the building committee when St. Peter's built its new church in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausung, 717 S. Evergreen Ave., were reported injured and in a hospital. Clausung used to be an auditor for the church books at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton were reported injured. They were married Saturday and were en route to Acapulco for their honeymoon.

The nonstop flight from Chicago to Mexico City included 118 persons. The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane crashed into a lake about a mile from the end of the runway. While attempting to land, the plane hit the ground and split into three pieces.

Walsh Backs Schlickman

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Schlickman's experience in local government, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

"Problems of zoning, flooding and elections have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington."

Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other

BETWEEN SNACKS, 15 Elk Grove Village Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls worked long hours Saturday putting together mailers which will be sent to residents and the industrial park asking donations to the United Fund. The mailers, prepared at the home of Mrs. Wallace Kuehl, fund president, 1201 Maple Lane, will reach area homes about Oct. 2.

'69 Fund Goal Set

The local goal for the 1969 United Fund campaign has been set at $9,500, according to Mrs. Wallace Kuehl, president of the Elk Grove Village United Fund Board.

The local campaign will again be conducted as part of the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy, Mrs. Kuehl said yesterday, offering residents the opportunity to make one gift where they work or to give at home. In either case, Elk Grove Village will benefit from the gift, she said.

"While the approved budget for the fund and its agencies totals $28,700," Mrs. Kuehl said, "we are required to raise only $9,500 locally. The remainder comes from the over-all Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy."

LAST YEAR THE Elk Grove Village fund received $27,225, of which $5,750 was raised in the local phase of the campaign.

This year's local drive will get under way Oct. 2 and will concentrate on contributions from the industrial park, local businesses and professional people in the village, as well as residents who are not solicited at their place of employment.

Agencies supported by the United Fund are Chicago Area Campfire Girls Council, Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Family Counseling Service, Northwest Boy Scouts Council, Northwest Girl Scouts Council, Northwest Mental Health Clinic and the USO.

"We have a fine campaign organization," Mrs. Kuehl added, "and I have confidence our neighbors will respond generously when they are asked. The fund represents the American volunteer way of doing things and provides an annual measure of the extent of our concern for others and the quality of our mercy and of our citizenship."

Board Sets Three Zoning Hearings

Three public hearings have been scheduled Oct. 3 in Elk Grove Village by the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals.

Frank E. O'Reilly is seeking a change from M-1 (restricted manufacturing) to B-4 (general service) for construction of a restaurant on 1½ acres east of Bu-Sa Road, about 184 feet north of Imperial Court.

Frank Neidhart is petitioning for B-5 (general commercial) zoning, a change from R-3 (single-family) for 9½ acres. Proposed use of the tract, north of Devon Avenue and west of Tonne Road, is as a wholesale and retail shopping center.

Neidhart also is petitioning for an identical zoning change for 3/4 of an acre on the north side of Devon Avenue, about 1,040 feet east of Ridge Avenue, for a television repair shop.

All three hearings will be held in the Elk Grove Village Hall, 66 Landmeier Road, beginning at 3 p.m.

Lighted School Ready

"We feel like producers of a Broadway show before opening night," said Leah Cummins. She was referring to the preparations for the final meeting of Elk Grove Village residents on the lighted schoolhouse program.

Mrs. Cummins, director of community education, and Suzanne Olson, Supt. of park district recreation, finalized plans Monday for the project presentation today at Mark Hopkins School at 8 p.m. The two groups are co-sponsors.

The purpose of the lighted schoolhouse program is to convert school buildings from the traditional use to a community civic center at night for almost any use for children and adults.

AT LEAST FIVE coffee hours were held throughout the summer to determine direction of the interests in the program. From the suggestions, Mrs. Cummins and Miss Olson have compiled a schedule of courses to meet the interests of the community. The schedule will be presented tonight. Interested persons may register for a course before leaving.

Courses to be offered are ballet and tap dancing, crafts, couples recreation, rapid reading, local government, typing, slide rule, marriage and family, first aid and ceramics.

A film, "To Touch A Child," produced by the Mott Foundation of Flint, Mich., will be shown prior to the sign-up period. The film reveals activities of the lighted schoolhouse program in Flint.

This type of program was established there 30 years ago where 5 per cent of additional tax money provides all the schools in the area with 50 per cent more operation time for the community.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Cummins, the program does not just provide way-out courses. It is something that relates to the quality of living and the strengthening of individuals.

The courses have been specially designed to the interests of the people in the Mark Hopkins area.

"They will have first options on signing up and then the program will be offered to everyone in Dist. 59," Mrs. Cummins said. "They're getting first crack because it is the pilot school," she explained.

If enough people sign up for the courses, they will be ready to get underway as early as next week.

Tour New Centex Park

Trains, buses and helicopters were all used for broker's day at the opening of 600-acre Centex Schaumburg Industrial Park held recently.

The industrial park, largest in the village, is bounded by Wise, Rodenberg, Irving Park and Roselle roads. The park is being planned by Bennett and Kahnweiler, industrial developers.

More than 125 Chicago area real estate brokers were taken to Schaumburg on a special "Bennett and Kahnweiler express" train from the Loop to Roselle. Buses took brokers to site. At the park they were given helicopter rides to view the property and then heard a presentation by Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher and Marshall Bennett, Louis S. Kahnweiler and Jim Dana, all of B & K.

BROKERS HEARD HOW the same development team that put together Centex Industrial Park in Elk Grove Village, Centex Corp. of Dallas, the Pritzker family of Chicago and Bennett and Kahnweiler, had again combined forces to open the new 600-acre park.

Brokers also heard how the new Elgin-O'Hare expressway will go through the center of the park. The first stage of the new highway is expected to be completed by 1971 and the second stage by 1973.

Atcher told the brokers that Schaumburg is the fastest growing population area in the state and that projections indicate that its population by 1980 will exceed 250,000, making it the second largest city in Illinois.

The mayor added that planned unit development has been an integral part of Schaumburg's master plan, limiting the ratio of population to industry.

BENNETT SAID the Centex people had looked toward Schaumburg as their next logical step in development as early as 1961 but felt that they should wait until they had developed Centex further. At present, 1,400 of the total 1,800 usable acres of Centex have been leased or sold.

Bennett and Kahnweiler also manage 17 other industrial park developments in the Chicago area as well as the 600-acre Montebello Industrial Park in Denver, Colo., adjacent to Stapleton International Airport.

They also were involved in brokerage business that has exceeded $50 million for each year of the past six years. The firm is 20 years old.

IT'S AN UPSIDE-DOWN WORLD to these two youngsters at the Prospect Heights Nursery School in the Prospect Heights Community Church. A trip to the Hawthorne Mel-lody Farm is planned for the pre-schoolers tomorrow. The youngsters meet three times a week at the school, which began its 23rd year of operations last Monday.

School Has Foreign Flavor

by SUE CARSON

An international flavor is apparent at Wheeling High School this fall. Several students from countries throughout the world are enrolled at the school.

From South Africa comes Marilyn Janks, who is sponsored by the American Field Service organization. Marilyn is a senior this year.

Marilyn is staying with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Steinman and their family in Prospect Heights. Their daughter, Lynne, is a student at Wheeling High.

NORA VECCHI of Argentina, also a senior, is sponsored by the Wheeling Rotary Club. She is living with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Keene of Wheeling, who have two children enrolled at the high school.

Also enrolled, although not sponsored by any organization, are seniors Paul Greenblatt of England and Grace Yang of the Republic of China and junior Jorge Fernandez of Mexico. The latter three are staying with relatives in the area.

Grace and Jorge are starting their second year at Wheeling High this fall. The others are enrolled for the first time.

What do they think of the classes? Reactions on this topic were varied.

"CLASSES ARE MORE interesting here," commented Marilyn. "Teachers here encourage their students to think for themselves more so than in South Africa."

"In my country, students are more 'spoon fed' since curriculum is standardized throughout the schools. This is because all students are given the same matriculation exam after 12 years of schooling."

"Also, classes here are more varied. Dramatics, sociology and economics, for example, are university courses in South Africa."

"Classes here are a lot easier than in China," Grace said. "I think it's because teachers in China force students to learn more."

NORA SAID THAT although "I've only been here 20 days, I'm really enjoying it." Paul and Jorge agreed that classes seem to be easier in the United States than in their respective countries.

"In Mexico, students take more subjects. Eight subjects are offered each day and the classes are rotated during the week, so that not all are offered every day," Jorge explained.

Jorge said his father encouraged him to go to school in this country so he could learn to speak English well. "The only real way to learn a language is to live among the people," he said.

PAUL SAID THE English system of education is harder than the American. He said English students attend school until the age of 11. Then they must pass an examination if they are to attend a grammar school, which will prepare them to enroll in college.

What do they think of American people, particularly students?

Marilyn said she thought American boys seem "young."

"This is probably because South African girls are used to dating boys several years older than they are," she stated. She added that on the whole American students are "more individualistic and less reserved" than South Africans.

Grace said she thought the American boys were more mature than those in her country, but added that Chinese boys were more polite than Americans.

"THE AMERICAN girls are a bit more boisterous than the English ones," commented Paul.

Jorge said that on the whole the American people have been friendly to him. "There are places, though, in the South especially where there are signs saying 'No Negroes or Mexicans allowed,'" he said.

Plans for the future?

Marilyn will return to South Africa next summer and enroll in a university, where she plans to study dramatics. AFS students from South Africa almost always say they want to visit the United States again, though, and I'll probably feel the same when I return home," she said.

NORA ALSO PLANS to return to school in Argentina when her year in this country is over. "I would like to come back, though," she added.

Grace plans to be around for a while, as she hopes to attend the University of Illinois next fall.

Paul also hopes to attend an American college and perhaps even settle here permanently since, as he puts it, "I think there's more opportunity over here."

Jorge plans to study engineering at the University of Mexico, but "I would be glad to come back," he said.

AMERICAN STUDENTS are "more independent" than Chinese students, according to Grace Yang of the Republic of China. Grace started her second year at Wheeling High School this fall. Grace is one of six foreign students at Wheeling High this fall.

MRS. RONALD FOURNIER of 595 Birchwood, Elk Grove Village, recently gave a demonstration before Salt Creek School students on how to make a tissue paper collage. A member of the Des Plaines Art Guild, Mrs. Fournier is giving demonstrations in all Dist. 59 schools. She will be at Robert Frost School today.

Ghosts in the Sex Education Class Closet

by MURRAY DUBIN

(Some of what follows are excerpts from the August edition of the American School Board Journal which featured an 11-page article on sex education written by Joanne Zazzaro.)

Sex education. Two words that arouse emotion from Johnny's parents.

Two words that everyone has an opinion about.

Two words that many people don't understand.

Two words that have bent, baffled and broken America's school boards.

Who are today's critics of sex education?

What do they want?

Dist. 21 Refuses MOTOREDE Time

Irrman Mueller, chairman of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove MOTOREDE (Movement to Restore Decency) Committee, has been refused time on the agenda of Wheeling School Dist. 21 to discuss the family living and sex education program in the district, according to Supt. Kenneth Gill.

Mueller asked to speak to the board concerning the procedure for withdrawing from the sex education program at the board meeting this Thursday.

Gill said he had refused Mueller's request to speak because he thought that the board "has already discussed this topic thoroughly."

Mueller has attended several board meetings in recent months to voice his objections to the program.

How should a school board react?

THESE POINTS WERE discussed in an 11-page article entitled "The War on Sex Education," which appeared in the American School Board Journal, a publication for school board members.

Before delving into each point, the journal admitted that the campaign against sex education is enjoying varying degrees of success.

"Boardmen in hamlets and cities from east to west shared with the journal their often painful, always frustrating experiences in fending off attacks on their districts' sex education programs and in attempting, under fire, to salvage as much as possible the objectives of the program."

THE JOURNAL STATED that classification of sex education opponents varies under local conditions, but four major types of people involved in the anti-sex education could be found:

— "Members of far-right groups such as the Christian Crusade and the John Birch Society. Although they are in the minority (for example, local Birch MOTOREDE committees, front groups representing the Movement to Restore Decency, are made up of 10 per cent Birchers and 90 per cent other citizens), they are highly organized and financed, can obtain necessary propaganda with hardly more than snapping their fingers, and have succeeded in enlisting uninformed, unsuspecting citizens in the movement."

— "Religious fundamentalists who consider school sex education not only anti-religious and anti-God, but sometimes a means to destroy religion as well. Sex education must be taught within the context of strict morality, they say; only the home and the church know how to teach morals."

"HOW CAN TEACHERS and school boards who represent every shade of gray morality, to whom morality is all a matter of opinion, convey the proper values to their students, fundamentalists ask. This group usually abhors mention of premarital intercourse, petting, masturbation and homosexuality in sex education."

— "Parents who are shocked at even the most factual biological instruction in the human reproduction process and who make easy prey for organized critics. Clinical names of bodily organs horrify these opponents, who usually have not read books using clinical terms, have never seen analysis or description of anatomical or sexual functions, generally received no sex education as youngsters and claim to have achieved happiness without it."

— "Well-meaning parents, stable families, who always had faith in their school board until they were inundated at laundromats, service stations, beauty parlors and other places of business with materials distributed by sex education arch-opponents."

"They are frustrated, confused, disturbed and have begun to believe there must be something valid in the criticism leveled by 'all those' materials."

Some common claims made by sex education critics which the magazine listed are:

— "Sex education is a communist plot to destroy the morals of youth (a tenet of both the Christian Crusade and the John Birch Society)."

— "Sex education is an invasion of the privacy of the family, of the God-given right of parents alone to teach the subject."

— "Sex education in school is presented exclusively of God, moral values and clear delineation of 'rights' and 'wrongs.'"

— "Some sex education is good, but this particular program goes much too far, starts too early and may be psychologically damaging."

— "Schools don't have qualified personnel to teach so delicate a subject as sex education."

The journal article said behind most claims "is the fear that information about sex breaks down modesty and encourages early experimentation, that youngsters will try out everything they've learned about sex as soon as the opportunity presents itself."

THE JOURNAL SAID the tactics of sex education opponents vary very little. In a cross-country check of school districts involved in the sex education controversy, 13 elements in a pattern were spotted. They are:

1 — "Committees spring up. Some local anti-sex education committees arise from strictly local origin; others are front groups for far-right groups such as the John Birch Society. . . All of the committees are bent upon arousing the general public to dangers they see as inherent in school sex education."

2 — "Speakers arrive on the scene. Sex education opposition groups sponsor outside speakers to assist in spreading the alarm. . . Seldom familiar with the sex education program locally, these speakers tend to direct their attacks at the much broader target of the very concept of sex education in schools."

3 — "Some churches give support. Especially in the Bible Belt states, sex education opposition frequently has originated with religious fundamentalists who consider sex a moral issue to be dealt with only by the home and the church."

4 — "MEETINGS ARE disrupted. If any one tactic is more prevalent than others used by sex education opponents, this is it."

5 — "Half-truths and dubious documentation start making the rounds. . . innuendo and inference cannot be tracked down and easily exposed as nothing more than the seeds of suspicion."

6 — "Emotional appeals are made. Seemingly throwing reason to the wind, many opponents prefer to discuss the local sex education program in terms of 'Communist plots,' 'moral degeneracy' and 'sexual indoctrination of youth.'"

7 — "Teachers and other school people become suspect. Time and time again, critics have accused school boards of 'lying' about or 'hiding' the 'real' materials to be used in a local sex education program especially when they can find nothing objectionable with materials they have been invited to review."

8 — "Publications are passed around. Probably the Christian Crusade booklet,

'Is the School House the Place to Teach Raw Sex?', has received the widest distribution of all anti-sex education propaganda, but John Birch Society and American Education Lobby materials would run a close second."

9 — "LETTER-WRITING starts. Local newspapers, especially the small town weeklies, enticed so often by the slightest sensationalism, have allotted plenty of space in their letters-to-the-editor columns for sex education critics to present their case."

10 — "Radio and TV get into the act."

11 — "Pressure is put on public officials. Agitating for passage of statutes prohibiting sex education in public schools, opponents have used every conceivable means—petitions, letters, telegrams, group visits—to exert enough pressure on public officials to provoke, at the very least, legislative hearings on certain established programs."

12 — "Dark hints of future evil are issued. Especially in school districts with limited pilot programs in sex education, opponents charge the models are 'just a beginning' in an all-out effort to put 'sex,'

'pornography,' 'dirty talk' in every classroom."

13 — "Threats and intimidation become commonplace. To silence disagreement and impose their views, sex education opponents have threatened school boards with lawsuits, recall elections, defeat of bond issues."

THE JOURNAL SUGGESTED that school board members have a first-hand knowledge of their own district's sex education program and maintain written policies on public hearings and written statements of complaints.

The journal also suggested that intensive in-service training for teachers who are to teach sex education is provided.

The 11-page article which is obviously for sex education in the schools, concludes by saying that sex education "will never mature and approach excellence until those who confuse sex education with subversion are stopped from stunting its growth."

Klein To Speak Before GOP

Herbert G. Klein, director of communications for the Nixon Administration, will keynote the annual banquet of the Hanover Township Regular Republican Organization Oct. 3.

The banquet, to be at Villa Olivia Country Club in Bartlett, will be the area GOP's sixth annual fund-raising affair.

Jerome Mann, banquet chairman, said ticket sales have topped the 200 mark with more than two weeks to go — "An unprecedented preliminary response."

TOP POLITICAL FIGURES, both state and national, are in the vanguard of persons buying tickets for the event, Mann said. They include Congressman Robert McClory, Congresswoman Charlotte T. Reid, State Sen. John A. Graham, William N. Erickson, Cook County commissioner, State Reps. Eugene F. Schlickman and David J. Regner.

Harold E. Rainville, long time aide to the late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, is also expected at the head table.

Several of the candidates seeking the 13th U. S. Congressional seat vacated by Donald Rumsfeld will also attend.

All the hubbub is heightened by the prospect of seeing and being seen by President Nixon's close White House advisor.

THE FRIENDSHIP between the President and Klein began in 1946 during Nixon's first congressional campaign. Klein has worked in all of the President's campaigns since then.

Before being appointed to the new policy position, a cabinet-level post, by President Nixon, Klein was manager of communications for the Nixon-Agnew campaign. He had responsibility for campaign press and communications activities, and served as a key member of the Nixon strategy team.

Klein resigned as editor of the San Diego Union to assume his campaign duties. He began in newspapering in 1940 as a copy boy. He worked his way up to executive editor of the Union. In 1959, he became its editor.

DURING WORLD WAR II he served in the U.S. Navy. He recently retired from the Naval Reserve with the rank of commander.

Reservations for the Oct. 3 banquet Klein will address may be made at $15 per couple with Claudia Cato, Hanover Township committeewoman at 6 Big Oaks Road, Streamwood, 289-3664. Township committeeman for Hanover is Eugene T. Devitt.

Freak Auto Accident Kills 1

A 27-year-old woman was killed at 2:05 a.m. Saturday on the Northwest Tollway, just beneath the Higgins Road overpass, when a 20-pound rock was thrown through the windshield of the car in which she was riding. The overpass is near Hoffman Estates.

The victim was Mrs. Barbara Snyder, 122 S. Jackson, Batavia. She was riding in a car driven by a friend, Harold Dennon, 288 Rosewood, Aurora. Both had worked for the same employer at one time. The rock was thrown by an unknown subject, according to Dist. 15 State Police.

ANYONE TRAVELING on Higgins Road between Routes 53 and 59 Saturday between 1:30 and 2:30 a.m., who saw cars or persons near the Higgins overpass on the Northwest Tollway, is asked to call 654-3384 with all information.

Mrs. Snyder was pronounced dead at Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

Trouble Brews Over a Prince

by BARRY JAMES

MADRID (UPI)—The naming of Prince Juan Carlos of Borbon as eventual king of Spain has thrown the country's only legal political party, the Fascist-style Falange Espanola, into disarray.

The controversy over Juan Carlos may be its death knell. The Falange, Spain's only legal party since the civil war, seems to be coming apart at the seams.

Many rank and file members of the Falange, weaned on the party's violent anti-monarchist sentiments, were dismayed by the way Falangists in the Cortes (parliament) voted last month in favor of Chief of State Francisco Franco's nomination of Juan Carlos.

Only 28 of the 519 Cortes representatives who were there abstained or voted against the nomination. With Franco staring at them coldly, the rest declared in favor of the Prince, although one made his feelings clear when he said he was voting "Si...for Franco."

As a result of their affirmative vote, 28 Cortes representatives face possible expulsion from the "Jose Antonio Circle," a doctrinaire inner group which attempts to keep alive the ideas of Falange founder Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera.

The founder's sister, Pilar, is among those who may be expelled, which is indicative of the depth of the split. Another is Jose Antonio Elola, who was chief of the Falangist youth for 15 years. More than one million Spaniards passed through the youth organization while it was under him.

"They taught us to hate the monarchy, and in particular the Borbons," said one of the ex-members. "Our chiefs used to order us to stage demonstrations and hurl rotten tomatoes every time Juan Carlos appeared in public. Now we see the spectacle of Elola voting for the installation of a monarch, and a Borbon one at that. What are we supposed to believe?"

The militant Fascism of the Falange died long ago, although many government officials still pay lip service to the principles of the national-syndicalist state.

Groups such as the Jose Antonio Circle are drifting leftward into a position opposed to the "official" Falange, represented by such people as Jose Solis, secretary general of the national movement and boss of the state syndicates.

The movement is an organization of the groups which supported Franco in the civil war and is dominated by the Falange. Legislation is pending to open the organization to "associations of public opinion" which may in time further weaken the Falange's hold.

Former members of the Falangist youth who are dissatisfied with the Falange as it now stands are forming an association called Spanish social reform which has leftist tendencies.

One important factor in the demise of the Falange is the generation gap. Youngsters still join the Falangist youth, but the organization has become Spain's equivalent of the Boy Scouts.

Deaths Elsewhere

Mrs. Helen D. Jenkins, 71, of Des Plaines, was pronounced dead on arrival Friday at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. Funeral services were held yesterday in Des Plaines, with the Rev. Ernest T. Grant presiding. Burial was in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Among survivors is a daughter, Mrs. Jean Engel of Long Grove.

From Cards Come Words

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ever wonder how "passing the buck," "calling the turn," "fourflusher" and "standpatter" got into the language?

They're among many colorful expressions and words that originated with playing cards or card games and were adopted for general use.

"Passing the buck" goes back to frontier days when the dealer in a poker game often was selected by placing a knife in front of him on the card table. Since knife handles at the time were made of buckhorn, the mark of the dealer was commonly known as the "buck." If a man didn't choose to deal a hand, he was allowed to pass the buck to the next player at his left.

President Harry S. Truman put a reverse twist on the expression. A sign on his desk read: "The buck stops here."

Many other everyday expressions derive from poker, among them, according to historians at the Bicycle Playing Card Bureau, "blue chip," now used in Wall Street to describe high grade stocks; "lit-ting the jackpot," "putting all your cards on the table," "everything aboveboard."

From the argot of poker come such other additions to the American idiom as "ante up," "back to back," "stacked deck," "ace in the hole," "poker face" and "fourflusher." And a poker term made its way into the Congressional Record many years back when Rep. Mark Hanna of Ohio referred to his ultra conservative fellow Republican congressmen as "standpatters."

Faro, a card game popular in America a century ago, added other expressions to the language. "Calling the turn" was first used in faro, where it refers to the ability to predict correctly the order of the last three cards in the faro box. Another faro expression still in the language is "copper a bet" — to bet on a card to lose by placing a copper coin on the checks.

In the game of euchre, if you fail to win three tricks after having made the trump, you have been outwitted or euchred. And when a man says he's got "trouble in spades," there's no doubt he's scoring double in bad luck.

Mathewson: Return More Income Tax Money to States

The federal government should return 5 per cent of U.S. income taxes collected to state governments to relieve local tax burdens and solve specific monetary problems affecting state and city administrations, Joseph Mathewson, Republican candidate for Congress from the 13th District, urged this week in a position paper.

"In 1967 this system would have brought about $169 million to the State of Illinois," Mathewson said. Such funds returned to states should be used without restriction, he said, suggesting they be controlled by state legislatures.

"If a legislature desired to route a portion of the federal funds to city governments, this could be done with disclosure requirement," he proposed.

MATHEWSON SAID this system would not only pare federal administrative costs, but would also provide quicker distribution of funds and greater satisfaction to local taxpayers.

"Programs in job training, education, housing and urban mass transit are essentially local. Responsibility for their execution rests with local officials who must answer to their immediate electorate. Taxpayers can best influence government action and spending at the local level."

Reducing federal taxes as state and local taxes rise would be another solution to righting the imbalance in the federal taxation system, Mathewson said.

"Increasing state and local taxes may indicate nothing more than inflation, but more often these days it indicates an intention to respond more adequately to the needs of the community."

"We must begin to reduce federal taxes now. I favor the $6.8 billion reduction passed by the House and now before the Senate Finance Committee. This provides for rate reductions of about 5 per cent in the brackets above those where the standard deduction and proposed 'low income allowance' are ordinarily applied."

IN ADDITION to the untold billions which could be saved through better governmental management, at least $11.3 billion could be cut from the current budget without impairing federal service to the people, and this saving could come from just two areas — space and defense, Mathewson said.

He recommended cutting current space outlays from $3.9 billion to $3 billion through stretching out planned programs. "Desirable and exciting though these programs may be, they are not essential," he stated.

The Department of Defense now spends over $80 billion annually. The largest savings can be found there, Mathewson maintained.

"These minimum savings of $11.3 billion are enough to permit the $6.8 billion tax reduction, provide a budget surplus to fight inflation, and still provide some increase in funds to deal with our most pressing domestic problems — those of the urban areas."

"More federal money is not the only hope for improving life in the cities. Tax incentives should be created to encourage companies to train and educate the hard-core unemployed. Business needs more skilled workers in both white and blue-collar categories."

"Many Chicago area companies have already demonstrated how the talents and abilities of free enterprise can help solve social problems while also meeting company needs for skilled men and women," Mathewson said.

Nimrod Urges Popular Vote

Abraham Lincoln's vision of a government of the people, by the people, for the people can become a practical reality with the passage of the popular vote amendment for Presidential elections, according to John J. Nimrod, 13th District Republican candidate for Congress.

In a message to Illinois Senators Charles Percy and Ralph T. Smith, Nimrod urged them to enlist the support of their fellow senators to ensure passage of the amendment.

"Voters would feel more directly involved in government if they knew their individual votes, rather than the electoral college, decided presidential elections," Nimrod said. "A popular vote plan would also arouse greater voter interest and curiosity in the qualifications of each candidate."

RECOMMENDING a careful study of Rep. Edward J. Derwinski's "district plan," Nimrod also praised the House of Representatives in Washington for its vote of 339 to 70 in favor of the amendment.

"The overwhelming victory in the House indicates the Senate will also pass the amendment with the necessary two-thirds majority."

More than 1,500 Republican supporters of Nimrod for Congress will attend a $50-a-plate "Winner's Dinner" in his honor at Arlington Park Towers, Arlington Park Race Track, Thursday. Entertainer will be songstar Hildegarde, who stayed over after concluding her Camelia House engagement at the Drake Hotel in order to "sing for John."

John L. Colmar, Northfield, and John H. Schwarten Jr., Wilmette, co-chairmen of Nimrod for Congress Finance Committee which is sponsoring the dinner, said radio-TV news reporter Steve Schickel of WGN will be master of ceremonies at the dinner.

Evanston Aldermen Endorse Sam Young

Samuel H. Young, GOP candidate for 13th District congressman, has been endorsed by three Evanston aldermen.

The aldermen, William A. Nott, Russell B. Wiscomb and Quail M. Ward, said they were throwing their support to Young as "the best qualified candidate in the race."

Nott formerly served on a campaign committee for Alban Weber, Northwestern University legal counsel, who dropped out of the congressional primary race Sept. 4.

The aldermen's endorsement statement for Young declared:

"AS THE BEST qualified candidate, Sam Young has a better knowledge of the district and its people than any of his opponents. Young was a resident of Evanston for seven years and has developed a keen understanding and awareness of the city and its people. He is more in tune with the thinking of North Shore voters than any of the other aspirants for Don Humphreys' Congressional seat."

The three Evanston aldermen will work for Young as his Evanston co-campaign managers. They join Edgar Vanneman, former 7th Ward Evanston alderman, and attorney Ted Bates who also serve as township campaign co-chairmen.

"I warmly welcome the support of Aldermen Nott, Wiscomb and Ward," Young said. "They bring to our growing organization respected leadership and representation in a major area of the District."

Young, of Glenview, has been endorsed by the Northfield, Elk Grove and Schaumburg Regular Republican organizations.

Schlickman Names $$ Chief

Ronald F. Wittmeyer has been named finance coordinator for Eugene F. Schlickman's campaign for the Republican nomination for Congress in the 13th District.

Wittmeyer is supervising all fund-raising activities of the Schlickman campaign, under the direction of a financial advisory committee.

Wittmeyer, elected in April as a member of the Wheeling Township Board of Directors, is a resident of Arlington Heights. He is a precinct captain and a block worker for the township Republican organization.

WITTMAYER IS associated in the insurance and investment business with Paul W. Marquette & Robert C. Bade, whose offices are in Des Plaines and Arlington Heights. He has served as a director of the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce & Industry, on the American Red Cross speakers bureau, as a Cub Scout master and as March of Dimes chairman for Mount Prospect.

Roe Gets Peace Backing

Yale Roe, GOP Congressional candidate who has campaigned on the position that "Vietnam is not worth one more American life," has received the endorsement of the 13th District Politics for Peace organization.

Roe is the first Republican to be backed by the peace group, which claims to have several hundred members and a mailing list of several thousand persons known to oppose the country's involvement in Vietnam. The organization came into being in 1967 to oppose the reelection of Lyndon Johnson.

Roe has argued that the United States is militarily overextended and should not be fighting on the Asian mainland.

"VIETNAM CLEARLY is not vital to American security," Roe said. "Moreover I question the moral position of supporting the Thieu-Ky regime."

"The reality is that the United States is trying to disengage from Vietnam. It must follow, therefore, that we must end our participation in this war at the soonest possible moment. To delay is to condemn to death at least 200 American boys every week."

"We should recall," Roe continued, "that the French ultimately ended their involvement in Algeria, with the result that both countries were better off once hostilities were ended."

"We have nothing to gain by remaining in Vietnam. We have much to lose . . . more American lives, a further disruption to our economy, the expenditure of $30 billion a year that drives up the prices of our food, clothing and other necessities, and the waste of those vast sums which could be better spent correcting our social needs at home such as education, housing and the rehabilitation of our cities."

Baird Appointed To Mark's Group

John W. Baird, president of Baird & Warner, Inc., has been appointed chairman of the Gerald Marks' campaign for Congress.

Baird, of Winnetka, is a director of the Metropolitan Area Housing and Planning Council, and is president of the North-eastern Illinois Planning Commission board of commissioners.

Marks has an evening coffee hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Mel Davis of Glenview, today.

The Republican candidate then speaks at the Buffalo Grove Jaycees candidates night, Village Hall, Buffalo Grove.

The former Metropolitan Sanitary District trustee will be a speaker Wednesday at a meeting sponsored by the Committee on Lake Michigan Pollution at the Sheridan Sports Yacht Club, Winnetka.

Marks will attend Thursday a meeting sponsored by the Wilmette League of Women Voters where Sen. Charles Percy is to speak.

Brask Is Named Coordinator

Gerald I. Brask of Arlington Heights has been appointed a Wheeling Township area coordinator in the congressional primary campaign of Philip M. Crane.

"I have known and admired Phil Crane's brand of Republicanism for many years," Brask said. "So when he entered the campaign my decision to support him and work hard for his election was an easy one."

"When you assess Crane's qualifications against other candidates, there isn't much of a comparison. Philip Crane is clearly the candidate of highest caliber and clearest credentials."

Brask is director of the precinct captain training program for the GOP in Wheeling Township. He is captain of the 63rd Precinct. Brask was an area chairman in a 1965 school referendum and director of the Wheeling Township Republican organization in 1968.

Northwest 'Y' Sets Seminar on Finances

The Northwest Suburban YMCA is sponsoring a seminar on finance Wednesday, beginning at 8 p.m. at 300 Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines.

The seminar will cover the benefits of mutual funds and the changing role of life insurance for modern day needs.

Persons with family financial problems may make an appointment with the instructor to work out a solution at the close of the class.

The seminar will be conducted by Herbert M. Karschner, financial consultant for the Des Plaines Publishing Co. and regional director in the Northwest suburbs for the Finance Forum of America.

For further information, call the Northwest Suburban YMCA at 296-3376.

Southern Illinois University has awarded degrees to 10 area students at its late summer commencement.

Ronald F. Hopkins of 2 University Drive, Buffalo Grove, received a master of science degree.

Bachelor of arts degrees were awarded Julie A. Barnett of 610 S. Louis, Samuel R. DiGregor of 1113 Cherrywood Drive and Kevin P. Marek of 304 S. Emerson, all of Mount Prospect.

Bachelor of science degrees went to Michael L. Fitzpatrick of 715 N. Kaspar and Robert A. Lindsey of 406 S. Belmont, both of Arlington Heights; Robert J. Hendrickson of Mount Prospect; James H. Koller of Route 1, Palatine; Betty Jane Brylinke of 306 N. Park, Prospect Heights; and Janice J. Carlstrand of 3918 Wren Court, Rolling Meadows.

Parks," during the Congress for Recreation and Parks held last week at the Conrad Hilton in Chicago. The convention was sponsored by the National Recreation and Park Association.

Panel members included Mrs. Chapman, a park district director and an elected park board member. The purpose of the discussion was to show the difference between how park officials view their work and how the public views the parks.

MRS. CHAPMAN said too often park officials operate on the "squeaky wheel" theory. Persons who complain about parks and activities are the ones park districts hear from and try to satisfy, she said.

The same theory is true to some extent in legislative work, Mrs. Chapman said. The citizens who complain are the ones who are using park facilities.

"You have to reach out to the people who don't reach out to you," the state legislator said.

The panel discussion began with a tape recording of man-on-the-street interviews made in Nebraska. Persons interviewed said they liked the parks, but added they hadn't been to one for two or three years.

ONE OF THE MAIN conclusions drawn by the panelists was that park districts need to motivate the citizens who know nothing about or rarely use park facilities. Park districts also need to provide programs that will interest citizens who do not take part in programs now because there is nothing which interests them.

Eugene Pomerance, park commissioner from Elmhurst who was on the panel, said he thought park districts will have to be willing to advertise their programs and facilities to try to reach citizens.

Mrs. Chapman said park districts have the responsibility to provide programs to interest residents who have not participated in park activities before.

Young Names Impey

Richard W. Impey, 621 S. Bristol, Arlington Heights, has been named South Arlington Heights area chairman in the 13th District congressional campaign of Samuel H. Young.

Roy A. Bressler, Wheeling Township campaign chairman for Young, made the announcement Monday. "We are indeed pleased to have a man with Dick Impey's impressive professional and civic credentials join us," Bressler said.

Impey, a partner in the Chicago law firm of DesJardins, Berens and Impey, is also owner of Gallery of Homes Northwest, realty firm at 314 S. Arlington Heights Road.

He was among the early supporter of Donald Rumsfeld, former 13th District congressman whose seat Young seeks. Rumsfeld resigned the post to head the federal Office of Economic Opportunity. Impey campaigned for Rumsfeld in 1962 and again in 1964 and 1966.

Impey is vice chairman of the Clearbrook school for Retarded Children in Rolling Meadows and a charter member of the Southminster United Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights.

Five Get Grants

Five area residents, students at Northern Illinois University, have received stipends as part of a $25,000 award in federal grants for fellowships, traineeships and departmental support for the coming year in the field of special education.

The fellowships and traineeships are part of the scholarship program administered by the Division of Training Programs, Bureau of Education of the Handicapped, U.S. Office of Education.

Two of the students have received fellowships paying a $2,200 stipend, plus tuition and fees. They are Martha Zara of 720 N. Clark Drive, Palatine, who will study in the area of learning disabilities, and Edwin Hill of 831 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, who will concentrate on the visually handicapped.

Students who have received senior traineeships of an $800 stipend plus tuition and fees include Cheryl Snider of 1903 E. Jonquil Terrace, Arlington Heights, studying the physically handicapped, and Leslie Ann Griffith of 621 N. Forest Ave., Mount Prospect, who is studying in the area of the visually handicapped.

Ellen Sawyer of 303 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights, was awarded a junior traineeship in the area of the physically handicapped.

OFFICIATING AT THE dedication Saturday of the John Cardinal Cody training center for the blind mentally retarded at Little City was the man for whom the facility is named, the Archbishop of Chicago. Assisting him in unveiling the sign is Sherman Abrams, president of the Little City Foundation. The facility is first of its kind in the Chicago area.

Cody Center Is Dedicated

The first pupils for the John Cardinal Cody Training Center for the blind mentally handicapped at Little City in Palatine will be admitted within the next month, according to Supt. Donald Becker. Initially, 24 students will be admitted.

A $300,000 building, the Cody training center, was dedicated Saturday by Archbishop John Cardinal Cody of the Chicago Archdiocese.

Other participants in the Saturday ceremony were Russ Stewart, chairman of the board of Field Communications Corp. who headed the fund-raising campaign for the Cody training center; Becker; Judge Joseph A. Power, new president of Little City Foundation, and Sherman Abrams, outgoing president.

LITTLE CITY, a residential community for the mentally retarded, is celebrating its 10th anniversary this year.

Cody training center is the first facility in the Chicago area for treating the blind mentally retarded (multiple handicapped), those described by Cardinal Cody as "God's little children."

"The establishment of an active training and treatment center at Little City for the multiple handicapped will help fill a void now present in the care of those who are retarded," he said.

He expressed the hope that this pilot project will offer a promise for habilitation of the blind retarded which will ultimately return them to the community and to live a normal pattern of life.

THE JOHN Cardinal Cody training center will allow Little City's professional staff to obtain base-line data on the behavior of the blind, mentally retarded child

Approximately $200,000 has been collected through fund-raising efforts for the Cody training center over two years. The training center will house two students per room in separate wings for boys and girls.

Judge Joseph A. Power will be installed at 8 p.m. tomorrow as president of Little City Foundation in ceremonies at the Sherman House. Judge Power is presiding judge of the criminal division of the Cook County Circuit Court. He has served as secretary of Little City Foundation for the last two years.

The Almanac

by United Press International

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 23, the 266th day of 1969 with 99 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1779 the USS Bonhomme Richard, commanded by American naval hero John Paul Jones, defeated the British frigate Serapis in a battle off the coast of Scotland.

In 1926 Jack Dempsey lost the heavyweight boxing championship to Gene Tunney in Philadelphia.

In 1943 the United States, Britain, Russia and China established the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to help war-liberated areas of the world.

In 1950 the U. S. Congress adopted the Internal Security Act, providing for registration of Communists. Communist registration later was ruled unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court.

A thought for the Day: John Paul Jones said during a battle with British forces, "I have just begun to fight."

Teens Campaign For Sam LaSusa

Campaigning for Sam LaSusa, a candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention, during the last few weeks has been conducted by a group of young people in the suburban area.

Working to achieve responsibility as young leaders, the group is doing its part to win votes for LaSusa.

The teens would like to see "people who stand up for what they believe in."

From the college crowd, Gerald Kykisz, a student at YMCA Community College, and Thomas Jarczyk from Harper Junior College are part of the Con-Con candidate's campaign crew.

Students at St. Viator High School, Kevin Caffrey, Dennis Forman, Terry Culens, Bill Hake, Gary Wenzel and Dan Kivlahan are working for LaSusa, too.

Other teens participating in the campaign include Scott Harper, a senior at Palatine High School, and Sue Beatty, a junior at Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

Arlington 'Neighbors' Wed

Two families residing a short distance apart on N. Kennicott Avenue, Arlington Heights, were united by marriage Aug. 23. That afternoon Jay Keller, son of the Alex Kellers of 1016 N. Kennicott, took as his bride the former Jean Swenson, whose family lives at number 223.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Swenson, hosted a reception in their home after the ceremony in the First United Methodist Church. Fifty guests greeted the newlyweds and wished them well before the couple left for Huron S.D., where the groom attends Huron College.

THE DOUBLE RING rites were performed by the Rev. C. Mixon. The bride wore a floor-length A-line gown of white voile in an eyelash pattern, featuring a high neckline, long sleeves and a white satin ribbon and bow at the empire waistline. Her elbow-length illusion veil was held in place by an organza headpiece studded with seed pearls. Her bouquet was composed of white and yellow daisies and tied with long white streamers.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Keller

Janine Lugosi of Mount Prospect was maid of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of pale yellow and carrying a nosegay of mixed miniature flowers. Jim Kunberger of Barrington was best man.

The brothers of the bridal pair, Randy Swenson and Wayne Keller, seated the wedding guests.

FOR THE AFTERNOON festivities, Mrs. Swenson wore an apricot lace dress with a matching orchid corsage, and Mrs. Keller wore blue lace with a white orchid.

The bride, a graduate of Arlington High School, studied at Harper College and for the past year has been working in the counseling center at Harper. The groom also attended Arlington High School and then Chicago City Junior College and Roosevelt University. He is majoring in business administration at Huron College.

Blue Skies Ordered for House Walk

"Hopefully, we'll have friendly blue skies for our October House Walk Friday, Oct. 24," predicted Mrs. Myron Hartley at a kick-off meeting for the walk held last week. Mrs. Hartley, general chairman, also announced that the walk will begin at 10 a.m., but will close at 4 p.m., slightly earlier than last year.

Traffic patterns, arts and crafts also were discussed by committee members at the kick-off meeting. Talents of members will be displayed in an arts and crafts show and sale in the Clarence A. Hendrickson home which is included in the tour. The Countryside Art Gallery will exhibit in the "barn" behind the Hendricksons' provincial stone manse.

ALSO INCLUDED in the tour is the townhouse home of the Charles H. Looks where the molding of fancy mints will be demonstrated by Mrs. Melvin Kurtz. The atrium ranch home of Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Jacobs and the owner-designed unique residence of the Fred Johnsons are other tour homes.

A fashion show is planned to entertain walkers who stop for refreshments and conversation at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel's blue and gold Paramount Ballroom.

Tickets, for an "early-bird" donation of $2, can be reserved by calling Mrs. Fred Jasper, 253-4700, or her committee, Mrs.

John Flaherty, 358-9494, Mrs. James Drake, 253-0351, or Mrs. Frank Sesterhenn, 253-0356. At-the-door tours will be available for $3.

MRS. HARTLEY'S housewalk committee members include: general planning, Mrs. Stephen Jurco, Mrs. Theodore Samuelson, Mrs. M. L. Kurtz, Mrs. Paul Brna, Mrs. G. T. Beckley; invitation artwork, Mrs. Richard Sims; mailing, Mrs. Carlton D. Albright; traffic patterns, Mrs. Gordon A. Zwissler and Mrs. Cecil Lovewell; arts and crafts sale, Mrs. Eldred Koenig and Mrs. Oliver Davenport; hostesses, Mrs. Louis Runge and Mrs. Laddie Poduska; publicity, Mrs. Edwin Getting and Mrs. C. R. Barton.

ROARING 20's COSTUMES were donned by members of the Service League for Handicapped Children when they staged a benefit party earlier this month. Mrs. William Stueber, Mrs. John Griffin, Mrs. Ernest W. Simmons Jr., and Mrs. Emil Hanner, were among area members greeting

Bride Wears 1880's Gown

An heirloom wedding gown from the 1880's, complete with crystal beads, silk cording and bustle styling, was worn by Len Everett Hachmeister's bride, the former Miss Jessica Neal Portmann, at their Aug. 31 wedding. The gown was of satin tulle and the train was of heirloom Brussels lace, and to complete the ensemble, the bride carried an old fashioned bouquet.

Len, a '63 graduate of Prospect High School, is the son of former Mount Prospect residents, the Robert Earl Hachmeisters, now of West Bend, Wis. Jessica is the daughter of the Ralph Fuller Portmanns, and the service took place in their Glendale, Ohio, home with family and close friends present.

James Carruthers, mayor of Glendale, performed the ceremony.

THE BRIDEGROOM'S sister, Miss Terry Hachmeister, was maid of honor, and Miss Debbie McDermott, cousin of the bride from Atlanta, Ga., was bridesmaid. Kirk Shelby Portmann, brother of the bride, was best man, and Jerry Motusek of Schiller Park, ushered.

The new Mrs. Hachmeister is a graduate of the American School in Lugano, Switzerland, and had studied at Miami and Boston Universities. Mr. Hachmeister, a graduate of Carroll College, Waukesha, Wis., will receive his master's degree from Miami University this fall.

The newlyweds will reside in Seattle, Wash., where Mr. Hachmeister will work toward his doctorate in bio-physics.

Infant Welfare Sets Bridge Tournament

A marathon bridge tournament begins in the northwest suburbs next month sponsored by the Mount Prospect Center of Infant Welfare.

All women residents of the area are invited to play in the seventh annual marathon. Each team of partners will play once a month for seven months. Permanent partners play a different pair of opponents each month at a time convenient to all.

AN AWARD DESSERT play-off will be held at the end of the tournament.

Bridge marathon chairman, Mrs. Robert Magnus, will do the scheduling and is scorekeeper. Those interested in registering may call her at 259-8325. Wednesday, Oct. 1, is registration deadline.

Churches Assist Sewing Class For Spanish-American Women

A patchwork quilt may be a symbol of ecumenism for the Arlington Heights community.

Sewing classes for Spanish-American women have found a number of factions in the Arlington Heights community pulling together to turn out clothing and bedding.

"We've had such a beautiful response from the migrant community, we can't keep up with the supply of material," said Mrs. Richard Cowen in asking for fabric donations.

The United Congregational Church of Christ, 1001 W. Kirchhoff, Arlington Heights provides space for the 9:30 a.m. Wednesday day meetings, and women from St. James, Our Lady of the Wayside, Southminster, First Methodist, and Congregational have been volunteering their sewing talents. The Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows has been alerting its people in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Rolling Meadows to the classes.

Mrs. Cowen said the ladies are considering an informal quilting bee using the scrap material. They plan to sell the quilt to purchase more material.

Mrs. Cowen invites inquiries as to service volunteers or fabric donations at 392-3732.

Mrs. Simon Hosts La Leche League

LaLeche League of Mount Prospect will hold the first meeting of a new series covering the breastfed baby tomorrow (Wednesday). Mrs. Robert Simon, 129 N. Stratton Lane, Mount Prospect, will be the hostess for the 8:30 p.m. session.

Discussion by the mothers, led by Mrs. Robert Lange, will include nursing as a protection against allergies and infections, breast cancer and infection, mothers who are Rh negative or who have had Caesareans, the premature baby and nursing twins.

The League, now in its 13th year, is international in scope with more than 600 groups in the United States and foreign countries.

Women interested in learning more about breastfeeding are encouraged to attend Wednesday's informal gathering of nursing mothers and babies. Further information may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Simon at 299-2168.

"SHOP EARLY" is the motto of St. Thomas of Villanova Women's Club, Palatine, as members sponsor Christmas card parties for club fund-raisers. Parties are held regularly in their homes, where guests are invited to shop for cards, wrappings and novelty items such as Mrs. John Riess, chairman, at left, shows Mrs. Thomas Cavenagh. Women interested in hosting a party are asked to call Mrs. Riess at 358-5583.

Pair Leaves Church in a 'Tin Lizzy'

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Bearden III

When Frances Mary Palmatier and Robert C. Bearden III left the church following their Aug. 30 wedding and reception in First United Methodist Church of Arlington Heights, they drove off in a 1923 Model T Ford roadster. However, at the home of her parents, the Francos N. Palmatiers, 468 S. Patton, Arlington Heights, the newlyweds switched cars for their honeymoon trip to Green Lake, Wis.

Frances first met her groom, son of the Robert C. Bearden of Naperville, on her first blind date. Both are studying at the University of Illinois; the bride is a '66 graduate of Arlington High School, a senior, and her groom is in graduate school. Robert was graduated from Northern Illinois in June with a B.S. in economics. The newlyweds are making their home in Chicago.

Rev. Kenneth G. Lemmel officiated at the 2 p.m. service and Mr. Palmatier gave his daughter in marriage. Purple asters, white gladioli and white mums decorated the altar for the double ring service.

FOR HER MARRIAGE, Frances wore a gown designed and made by herself. It was a Juliet dress of white Normandy voile fashioned with fitted bodice, long, sheer, puffed sleeves and a gathered skirt with slightly-raised waistline encircled by a long sash. She also made her floor-length veil and her headpiece of matching voile, and she carried a small cascade of white roses, mums and lilac-colored stephanotis.

The bride's maid of honor was her twin sister, Nancy Palmatier, and bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Judy Bearden of Naperville, and Denise Higgins of Rolling Meadows. All wore lilac Normandy voile gowns with tucked bodices and skirts that fell to the floor in folds. Their sleeves were also sheer and puffed, and they carried white baskets with purple asters, lilac pompons, pink miniature carnations and white daisies.

Nancy returned from Europe just four days before the wedding. Another sister, Sue, was soloist for the service, and sister, Patty, attended the guest book at the reception held in the church's Fellowship Hall.

Vic Jagielka of Cicero served as the groom's best man, and ushers were Ed Laing of Mount Prospect, Jim Gallagher of Arlington Heights, the bride's brothers, David and Bruce Palmatier, and Keith Higgins of Rolling Meadows.

Nuptials, a 'Family Affair'

Patricia Lee Armel's three brothers and two sisters all took part in her wedding to Craig Frank Marek on Aug. 16. Her sister, Sharon, was maid of honor; 4-year-old Leanne was flower girl; 6-year-old Joseph was ring bearer; 8-year-old Thomas was junior usher, and 11-year-old Jim served as acolyte.

The Arnel brothers and sisters are the children of the Lyle C. Armels, 2511 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, and the groom is the son of the Frank J. Mareks, 122 Kingman Lane, Hoffman Estates.

The wedding took place during a 3 p.m. nuptial mass in St. Edna's Catholic Church in Arlington Heights with Rev. Edward Graco officiating. Two standing, all-white floral arrangements were at the altar as Mr. Armel gave his daughter in marriage.

A SILK ORGANZA, empire gown with Alencon lace and pearls was Patricia's choice in wedding gown. It was fashioned with a sculptured neckline, fitted bodice, short Kabuki sleeves and chapel train trimmed with the lace. Her nylon illusion veil was double, and it fell from an Alencon lace bow on a half hat crown highlighted with pearls.

Her bouquet was of white orchids and stephanotis with streamers of baby ivy.

Sharon's gown, also an empire, was of pink chiffon accented with ruffles on the long sleeves and at the hem of the floor-length skirt. She wore a matching petal face frame crown and carried a streamer of gladioli and pink carnations.

As bridesmaids, Mrs. Thomas Lenhart of Hoffman Estates, Choris Marek of Hoffman Estates, sister of the groom, and Donna Frederick of Rolling Meadows, wore gowns identical to the maid of honor's gown. Their flowers were also the same.

Leanne was in a pink nylon floor-length gown and carried a white lace basket of pink carnations.

THE BRIDE'S mother also chose pink, a 3-piece silk shantung ensemble with beaded bodice. The groom's mother chose a 2-piece turquoise ensemble with rhinestone bow accenting the empire waist. Both mothers had corsages of white orchids.

Attending the groom as best man was Thomas Harris of Hoffman Estates. Ushers were his college roommate, Steve Marsh of Freeport, and George Schenck and Pat Johnson of Hoffman Estates.

The dinner reception was held at the Holiday Inn of Rolling Meadows where the King Jaro Orchestra, of which the groom is a member, provided the music. The newlyweds honeymooned for eight days in the Bahamas and are now residing in an apartment in DeKalb where the groom is a senior at Northern Illinois University. He is a graduate of Palatine High School.

The bride, who has studied at the University of Dayton and Northeastern Teachers College, is planning to complete her education at Northern Illinois. Until her marriage she was employed at Western Electric in Rolling Meadows.

Two Mismatched Men

Felix and Oscar are a mismatched couple in Neil Simon's celebrated comedy "The Odd Couple," to be presented Oct. 3, 4, 10 and 11 at Hersey High School by the members of the Village Theatre.

The play centers around two men, Felix Ungar, who is divorced and living in blissful squalor, and his fastidious friend, Oscar Madison, unhappily about to join Felix in his bachelor pad.

Two British "birds" are introduced as a sidekick, and a handful of poker-playing cronies add to the mirth when the "odd couple" attempts to live together.

Patrick O'Dea, a veteran member of Village Theatre who plays Oscar, describes his theatrical career as a gradual progression from dashing young princes in earlier children's plays to old man Gant in "Look Homeward, Angel."

GP Crew Busy Behind Stage

An organized production crew is as necessary for a polished performance as the actors themselves.

Working as "chief" behind stage for the Guild Players production of "A Streetcar Named Desire" is Dick Kelly, production manager. The set is designed by Ken Bostelle, who is also acting out front in the role of Mitch.

Lighting will be handled by Vic Simone, sound by Arch Ward, and the set is being painted and decorated by Peggy Payne.

Costumes design is by Louise Parenti, and Norma Simone is in charge of make-up. Lorraine Howe is finding the necessary furniture and all other innumerable props are being handled by Gerald Ferrell.

The drama by Tennessee Williams will be staged Sept. 27 and Oct. 3 and 4 in Tefft Junior High School, Route 19, Irving Park Road, Streamwood. Phone 894-6381 for ticket information.

Tom Ventress

BOB HAWLEY is Felix Ungar, the hopelessly domestic roommate who cuts the crusts off sandwiches. Hawley has played in over 50 productions for Village Theatre including "Come Blow Your Horn," and "Any Wednesday."

The two English cuties will be played by Carol O'Dea and Pat Smith.

The four card-playing comics are George Corral as Speed, Pete Piper as Vinnie, Hank Vandenberg as Murray and Harry Brown as Roy.

The play is under the direction of Tom Ventress, who also directed "Any Wednesday" for Village Theatre.

For tickets or information, phone Barbara Thiel, patron sales chairman, 392-8973 or Village Theatre box office, CL 9-3200.

The Way We See It

Reform Still Ignored

The U. S. Post Office came up with the evidence last week to prove what a lot of people already knew: mail service is pretty bad.

The self-incrimination was provided in the National Service Index Report, which detailed the first official survey ever made on how long it takes to deliver domestic mail.

Among the basic conclusions: mail takes longer to travel between the nation's big cities than between other points; the average first class letter generally arrives sooner than an air mail letter; same-day delivery is so rare as to be almost a myth.

None of this, of course, is news to those citizens who have waited and complained about poor postal service.

But it is news that the Post Office has confirmed it, and it again inspires the question: whatever happened to postal reform?

More than a year has passed since the Kappel Commission stirred headlines with its report concluding that the Post Office should be eliminated as a cabinet-level department, be removed from politics, and be made a self-supporting, government-owned corporation.

The better part of a year has passed since Postmaster General Winton M. Blount observed that mail service has been the victim of "decades of mismanagement."

And a half-year has passed since

President Nixon pledged his administration to break "the cycle of greater and greater postal deficits and more and more rate increases" — a pledge that was accompanied by an appeal for yet another increase in postal rates.

Congress remains a major villain as the cry for a revolution in the postal structure goes unheard — as Congressmen continue to protect the political influence and patronage they hold so dear in postal operations.

We have said it before and we say it again: it is time for someone — in the White House and the Congress — to take the lead and transform the entire system into an efficient and politics-free service.

So It's Hair — So What?

by BRAD BREKKE

What's all this fuss about long hair? What's the matter with school officials, anyway?

If a man wants to look like Buffalo Bill, why not let him? I wouldn't mind if he smelled like a buffalo, as long as he promised not to get too close to me.

Last year the fuss was over a long-haired student up in Wheeling. This year a storm of protest has broken out in Barrington. I wonder where the flap over long tresses will erupt next.

I can't figure it out. Why bar a student from classes just because of his long locks?

THERE ARE some who think long hair looks feminine. Others feel students with long hair are asserting their masculinity. And still others view it as a sign of rebellion. So what's the difference?

David Miller, the senior from Barrington, wasn't fighting or disorderly or even smoking on the sly in the school washroom.

He simply wanted to register for school. But school officials said he wasn't conforming to the high school dress code. So they gave him a choice. Get it cut or get out.

Well, he left. But he didn't just leave. He stood bold and thumbed his nose at the code and the persons who wrote it. And if that wasn't enough, he took them to court.

AND LAST week he won round one. He was ordered back to school after obtaining a temporary injunction in Federal Court and can keep his long hair, at least until this Thursday, when a final decision will be given in his case.

But for some residents of Barrington, barring David Miller from classes was hardly enough. He had to be made to pay for what he was doing.

So they started dumping garbage on his lawn. And they made crank and obscene phone calls to his home. And they even threatened to have the varsity football team "get him down with a pair of scissors and cut his hair."

AND IF that wasn't enough, there was the scandalous talk around town. And several letters to the editor of Barrington's weekly newspaper.

"He's a communist... you can tell by his long hair."

"He's a pig... I wouldn't let him in my home."

"It's disgusting. Embarrassing."

"It's shameful, really... why it's the talk of the town."

"It's his parents' fault, too lax... that boy has no respect for authority... flaunting our school dress code like that!"

"I've never met him personally, but he must be mean and nasty and ugly to do what he's doing."

must be mean and nasty and ugly to do what he's doing."

"You're right. We have to protect our schools, our children and our beautiful community from people like him. I wish he'd go somewhere else with his long hair."

GROWN PERSONS, all of them, and mature, respectable and responsible, to be sure.

Only, I wonder.

I wonder what it is that drives some of us to slander a boy like David, just 17 years old, whose only crime is that he seeks to be himself.

If he wants to look like a Madison Avenue huckster or Buffalo Bill, isn't that his business?

Do long locks actually cause disciplinary problems in high school? And isn't student respect something a teacher earns?

Personally, I dislike long hair, sideburns, beards, "granny" glasses and about 26,000 other things in this world.

But the public schools today aren't private military academies. A student has some rights, doesn't he? A right to be an individual?

AND WE wonder and scratch our heads about the generation gap. But sometimes it's the gap between our ears that confounds us.

The district set out to make an example of David. But if you ask me, David made an example of them. And it's nothing to laugh about. Actually, it's rather sad. Barrington's my hometown too.

A Farewell to the Track?

by JAMES VESELY

I see by the papers that something is brewing again at Arlington Park. Somebody reported that the executives over there are shifting stocks around and generally behaving like corporate moguls.

All this has nothing to do with me. I own no shares in Arlington Park or in the outfit that owns it, Gulf and Western.

But I guess I share the same curiosity about the track that many local residents have expressed. We never get close to the executive suites of the companies that run a place like Arlington Park but it is kind of interesting to drive down Euclid along the track fence and try to imagine what is cooking behind the grandstand.

THE LATEST REPORTS say that a major portion of the shares of the track have been transferred to the man who runs land development for G and W.

That seems to be in with the general posture the corporation has taken all along in terms of developing the land for other than track use. The single most dominant theme of the track's presentation last week in annexation hearings before the village board was land development.

Mr. John Greek, the resident of Fort Lee, N. J., who is real estate consultant to Gulf and Western, pointed his finger at Arlington Heights that night and said he is out to make a buck.

More power to him. Dollars at Arlington Park means dollars for the village eventually.

BUT GREEK had another audience that night. In addition to members of the local communities, Greek was also speaking to racing fans and horsemen. And if I heard him right, I heard the first whisper of the end of Arlington Track.

The property now used by the track facilities is simply too valuable for its own good. The track itself can only be used for a portion of the year. The other times it sits idle. It contributes nothing that an enclosed facility could not contribute in terms of crowds and revenue. As an attraction for conventions, it is still too limited in its productive time to justify the land use.

All this has been said before, of course, but it has never been said quite so plainly by the Gulf and Western people. In the peculiar language of corporate finances, Gulf and Western may be shouting their intentions to us.

Five years from now when the track is gone, we may find that it was all spelled out last weekend when the handwriting was put on the stock certificates.

Critic's Corner

In Cabaret's Spotlight: Prejudice

by MARK COHEN

The eve of Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, found me in the dimly red-lighted room of a Palatine cabaret, sipping screwdrivers amidst the din of alcoholic laughter. I watched a performer-friend move among the crowds as he punned with the patrons to win their favor. His often-discussed talent had brought me to the night spot where I hoped to hear the sounds of his voice and the melodious music of the band.

As I toasted the New Year, my friend, the profits of publicity filling his mind, introduced me to his inebriated fans as a Jewish fellow from New York.

SOMEHOW IT seemed necessary to draw the proper picture: to paint my religious beliefs over my image so that my blood and genes were smothered in the "racial" strains of Judaism.

Somewhere in a distant community the sounds of the Shofar, the ram's horn, had resounded its faltering T'kiah summoning the people to God's Court of Judgment. Tonight, I reflected, perhaps I was not able to attend. But amidst the hideous laughter of the moment I learned the fallaciousness of my thoughts.

From the table where my friend sat came the words of a blond-haired woman.

"A Jew! A Jew! Throw him in the gas chamber. Throw him in the gas chamber," she cried. The crowd's approval moved the woman to rise from her chair and shout her message to all present:

"A JEW! A Jew! Throw him in the gas chamber. Throw him in the gas chamber."

Anger forced my face into a calm stare.

I remembered the numbered arm of my barber and the tales he told me of days in a German concentration camp. His brothers and sisters, his wife and his children, were burned in the crematory. At night the fumes from the furnaces filled his nostrils with the odor of their tortured death. When he awoke to the horror of the morning he was forced to collect the bodies of the dead in a push cart to remove the stench of their deeds from the soldiers' presence.

As my thoughts returned to the present, my eyes focused on my friend, who, sensing his vulnerability, smiled his way to the stage. Perhaps out of sincerity, or perhaps out of pure utility, he attempted to rectify the situation, shouting:

"This is Yom Kippur, the Jewish New Year. I guess you all know and heard Havankilla."

The sonorous sounds of his voice filled the room with words of the traditional song. Middle age couples bathed in alcohol and excitement celebrated the ignominy of the moment as they danced about the table. They laughed as they mispronounced words they couldn't understand and their gestures mocked the potent sanctity of the holiday. A group gathered in the back couldn't resist asserting their questionable Christianity shouting, "This is a Protestant gathering over here."

HANDS SMACKED the air as the dancing group moved clumsily to the traditional music of the entertainer. A woman fell over her partner who slapped her casually on the rear, as they stumbled about the table.

Still trying to reconcile the moment for utility, the performer imitated the prayerful soul singing of the cantor. But his melodious efforts were swallowed by the sounds of liquored laughter. And the more he sang the louder the mocking laughter became.

The entertainment gradually shifted toward themes of love, and drummers played solos that would have captivated any audience. A man moved from a table in the rear and placed his hands gently on my shoulders. Almost involuntarily my shoulders shrugged away his pretentiousness. Overwhelmed with disgust I sat as I watched the people slobber about the floor.

I REMEMBERED the people I had met during my first weeks as a reporter in the Northwest suburbs. There was a warmth and friendliness that seemed to permeate the air. The cold suspiciousness and the arrogance that so often characterizes life in my native New York was drowned in the congeniality of the Midwest. Although I often disagreed with their opinions, I soon learned to admire and respect the people I met.

But the ugliness of the evening seemed to pollute the soul of the community. I wondered what prejudice lurked behind those amiable smiles.

I thought, I must not bury goodness in the stench of an ugly moment.

Somehow, even in a Palatine cabaret, I could not escape the Courtroom of God.

Education-Con-Con Concern

All of us want the best possible education for our children. We want them to grow up with freedom of choice — learning many points of view and being free to question and discuss them.

So did our forefathers. This is why the American Constitution stands for separation of church and state. This is why our present Illinois Constitution (adopted nearly 100 years ago) specifically forbids state aid to support and sustain schools controlled by churches.

On Tuesday, you will vote for two delegates to Con-Con, the convention to rewrite the Illinois Constitution.

THIS MAY BE the most important election you will ever vote in, for the new Constitution we will live under will determine your life, and your children's lives, for many years to come.

If you believe, as I do, that we should continue the Constitutional tradition of separation of church and state; if you want your tax money to be used solely for public schools open to all where children cannot be dismissed because of physical, emotional, or social handicaps; if you want your tax funds used solely by public schools where children are taught only by state-certified teachers, various unbiased and factual textbooks are available to children, and ideas and philosophies are discussed in a climate of openness and freedom — then you will choose your Con-Con delegates from those who share these views.

From my conversations with them, I believe William Engelhardt, Annis Bush, and Mary Carlson believe that the part of the present Illinois Constitution which forbids aid to schools controlled by churches should be preserved.

Quarterback's Job: Get To The Goal Line

Scrimmage Lines

by LARRY MLYNCHAK

THOUGH MOST of its residents and its suburbs might hate to hear it, Chicago is the Second City. Even in the sports world. And mostly because of the New York City writers.

Contrary to what a life-long Chicago resident would say, New York City is the hub of the country. It is in New York City where the publicity of athletes starts and ends.

New York City is the central control for sports news spread across the country. It is where the Associated Press and United Press International wire services have central headquarters. The New York Times has its own wire service. The country's chief sports columnists, Dick Young, and Red Smith, Arthur Daley, write most of their columns from New York.

And in most copy produced by the columnists and wire services is on New York City athletes — Knicks, Mets, Yankees, Rangers, Jets and Giants. After all, why should a wire service sports writer take a long trip from home to, say, Houston or Kansas City, when there are plenty of sports personalities right in New York. And the country is flooded with stories on the Knicks, Mets, Yankees, etc.

The publicity put forth from New York at times will place out of proportion the abilities of the athletes. Take Whitney Ford for instance.

Ford was a great pitcher, we're not taking anything from that. He won 236 major league games. But when you think back, you can realize that Ford was one of the most publicized pitchers in the major leagues for more than a decade. In fact, Ford was more publicized than Warren Spahn and Robin Roberts despite the fact that Ford was not nearly as good a pitcher. Imagine if Spahn pitched in New York City. With his 363 victories he would have been proclaimed as perhaps The All-Time great pitcher in the game. But on many occasions Spahn took the back seat to Ford as did Roberts who won 50 more games than Ford.

Gi Hodges, Joe DiMaggio, Yogi Berra, Johnny Mize, Roger Maris, Roy Campanella, Bill Dickey and Bobby Thomson were all regarded as great sluggers. But did you know that Rocky Colavito hit more home runs than any of them? Probably not. The others played in New York. Colavito did not.

It goes on further — the publicity given New York athletes.

Take the case of Babe Ruth. Ruth has been said to be a good outfielder, not great, but adequate. History records that Babe Herman was one of the worst outfielders in major league history. But Herman had a .971 fielding percentage and Ruth's was three points lower at .968.

For years we heard that Pee Wee Reese was one of the better shortstops of all time when he played for the Brooklyn Dodgers. Reese's lifetime batting average was .269. One player we hear little about is Jim Fregosi. His lifetime average is .272 and his fielding percentage is on par with Reese's.

While at the position of shortstop, remember all the publicity that came out of Fort Lauderdale (Yankee spring training camp) about Tom Tresh and Phil Linz. They were supposed to be the replacements for Tony Kubek. Tresh and Linz have done little since their rookie year of 1962.

The power of the New York City press is endless. Ask Ted Williams. In 1941 Williams hit .406, the last of the .400 hitters. But he was not voted as the Most Valuable Player. Joe DiMaggio was.

And in 1957 Williams hit .388 and had 38 home runs. But he was not the MVP. A New York Yankee was — Mickey Mantle. Mantle hit four less home runs and hit 23 points lower than Williams.

For years Cleo Boyer of the Yankees was considered the top fielding third baseman in baseball. But statistics will prove that Brooks Robinson and Ron Santo had every bit as good a fielding percentage as Boyer. Would have Boyer been regarded a great third baseman if he had not played in New York?

Del Shofner was a good pass receiver with the Los Angeles Rams before he was traded to the New York Giants. But as soon as he got to the Giants he was considered great.

Pat Summerall was a better kicker with the old Chicago Cardinals than he was with the Giants but most football fans remember Summerall exclusively with the Giants.

And how about Alex Webster and Frank Gifford? They never gained more than 800 yards yet they are said to be two of the greatest running backs in pro football history. Why? Because they played for the New York Giants.

We could go on forever. Would Hank Aaron be called the greatest of the last decade if he played in New York? More than likely. Would Bill Mazeroski have been the most heralded second baseman of the 1960's if he played in New York? Of course. And at the present, the New York writers are flooding the country with stories on the Mets. What have we heard about the Minnesota Twins? Very little.

To a resident of Chicago, the power of the New York press might be blunted somewhat because of the Chicago press. Instead of filling its papers with wire service stories from New York, the Chicago papers have their own news in the Bears, Cubs, Bulls and White Sox. But in towns where no professional team is in a near vicinity, all that is publicized are New York Yankees, New York Mets, New York Knicks, New York Giants, et al.

This column is not saying that professionals like Webster, Gifford, Shofner, Berra, Mize, Campanella and company were not good players. But what I am trying to say is: when somebody says that so-and-so was a great player, do not be hasty to agree. That player might have played in New York City.

And New York City might have made him a better player than he ever was.

by LARRY MLYNCHAK

When the gun sounds ending the football game, the quarterback who is walking off the field is extremely tired. Physically tired.

He has been chased and clobbered by defensive men who outweigh him by 20 to 70 pounds. At times he has had to block. At times he has had to run the ball. At times he is standing in the middle of the field waiting futilely for a receiver to break in the open field. The quarterback has been dead game for charging tackles.

Indeed, the quarterback is physically whipped. But, if the quarterback is the complete quarterback, he is more tired mentally than anything else.

Imagine what a quarterback has to think about while the game is in progress. There he is in the huddle about to call a play. Let's see what he has to think about while the game is in progress. There he is in the huddle about to call a play. Let's see what he has to think about.

He must know how much time is left in the quarter. What is the quarter? What down? How much yardage is needed for the first down? Which plays have been working? Which have not? Which defense should be presented on the upcoming play? What play will the defense be expecting? What are his team's strengths? What are his team's weaknesses? How about the defense's strengths and weaknesses? What if the defense goes in to a 4-3? Or a 5-4? What will work if the defenses are stacked? Which way will the tackles stunt? Can a blitz be expected?

What about the players he is looking at in the huddle. Has the fullback been running too many plays? Is he tired? Did the guard get the wind knocked out of him on that last play? Can he carry out a block on this play?

The weather. Is it raining too hard? Are the officials keeping the ball dry enough in the rain? Is the grass too slippery for certain plays?

He must think back now. What did the game plan say? Is the defensive linebacker still have trouble with his ankle? Is the tackle standing up looking for the ball? What play will work?

The quarterback must reach back into his mind like this on every play. The good quarterback, that is. Coaches can quickly recognize if their quarterbacks can think quickly and accurately to handle the tough patterns such as above on each and every play.

Some coaches call every play for their quarterbacks. And the team that must have the coach call the play is at a disadvantage. There is so much more that a quarterback can see in the middle of the field than a coach can see on the bench.

The quarterback is, after all, within a few feet of all the action. It is the quarterback who can see what the defense is doing. It is the quarterback who can tell who is hurt and who isn't. The coach is 30 yards away from the action. How can he possibly know what the quarterback can know?

NOBODY'S GOT IT. Arlington's John Kuykendall, left, and Palatine's Chris Andriano bump into each other in an attempt to haul in a pass in action

Saturday on Ost Field. The pass dropped incomplete. Palatine defeated the Cardinals 11-0 in the Mid-Suburban League opener.

We are a little bit ahead of ourselves right now and we should go back to earlier in the week.

A week ago a member of the coaching staff was scouting today's opponent. He took notes on the opposition's defense. He wrote down the strengths and weaknesses of every player on the team. He tries to find out what defense the team likes to use on different situations. The scout discovers who's aggressive, who's overly aggressive, which defensive back can be beat on a deep pattern. He can find out which player is lazy on the field.

A day later the scout meets with the other members of his coaching staff. The staff studies the opposing team's defense and tries to come to one basic conclusion: "The plays we can use against our opposition to move the ball."

Each coach knows his own team's strengths and he attempts to use his strengths against his opponent's weaknesses. Sometimes the coach will be forced to use his strengths against the opponent's strengths. The stronger take all.

During the week the coaches meet with their quarterbacks to inform the quarterbacks everything the scout has learned about the upcoming opponent.

The coaches give the quarterbacks what is known as a game plan. Teams have as many as 100 plays and the purpose of the game plan is to reduce the 100 plays to approximately 15 — the 15 plays that should work against this opponent.

During the first quarter the coaches and quarterback will discover that some of these 15 plays will not work at all. They may also discover that a couple of the other 85 plays, which previously were dis-

When time is running short, the quarterback should call passes (an incomplete pass stops the clock) and end runs (when a ball carrier is forced out of bounds the clock is stopped).

WEATHER — When the offensive team is running into the wind, it should limit its passes. The offensive team should also use up the clock. Plays should be run off at a slower pace. When the team is running with its back to the wind, it should run off each play quickly one after another. The more plays a team can run with the wind, the better.

If it is raining, a number of plays must be eliminated. A team can still use passes if the quarterback knows how to throw a wet ball. A little tip: if the ball is wet, the quarterback should not grip the ball as tightly as when throwing a dry ball. A quarterback should practice with a wet football during the week on occasion.

PLACE ON FIELD — From the goal line to the 15 yard line of the offensive team is the danger zone. No pitchouts or passes should be used since these are the most dangerous plays. Double reverses and the like should not be used. Straight ahead power plays and an occasional end sweep are the best plays.

From the 20 yard line to the opponent's 30, the team should use any play that has been working or any play that was recommended in the game plan.

When a team is inside the opponent's 30 yard line he should remember that he has four downs to get a first down instead of three. Inside the opponent's 30, the quarterback does not have to call a pun.

How to Watch Football

carded, may be successful in moving the ball.

When we say that the quarterback knows more about what is going on on the field than the coach, is not to imply that the quarterback is smarter than the coach. The coach, of course, has vastly more knowledge of the game and more practical experience. But there are a few intangibles that the quarterback can find out on the field that the coach can not.

The perfect combination has the quarterback calling his own plays with suggestions, and sometimes orders, from the coach on play selection. The coach may see something that the less-experienced quarterback may not.

The quarterback and the coach must take into consideration everything that we have already mentioned. If the coach and quarterback work together and are smart enough and attentive enough, they will come up with tough plays that will move the ball for good yardage with regularity.

Here are a number of items which influence the decisions of coaches and quarterbacks.

TIME — The quarterback who does not take a look at the scoreboard clock after every play is committing a grave sin. If there is a lot of time (meaning at least four or five minutes) left in the half, the quarterback should try to control the ball as long as possible. Running plays take up the most time. The more time the offensive team spends on the field the less time the same team's defense has to be on the field. It is tougher to play defense than offense. Besides, if the offense makes a mistake in blocking it has three plays to make up for it. If the defense makes a mistake, it could result in a touchdown.

SCORE — If the team is behind, it should open up its offense and even gamble at times to score. If ahead, the team should be more conservative.

OPPONENT — The game plan will tell much about the strengths and weaknesses of the opponent. The quarterback and coach will try to attack the weaknesses and avoid the strengths.

A defense will shift according to the down and yardage and place on the field and the quarterback must recognize these changes.

If the defensive team puts in a new player on the field, the quarterback should recognize this immediately and run the next play right at the new player. Another tip to the quarterback: if a defensive man's jersey is clean he has either just come on the field or he isn't making very many tackles. Run right at him once or twice to find out if he could be a weak link in the defense.

Each defensive formation has its strengths and weaknesses just like offensive formations. A 4-3-4 is strong against the pass, weaker against the run. A 6-3-2 is stronger against the run than the pass.

The quarterback, with study of films and the game plan, should be able to recognize the defense as he calls signals.

Many quarterbacks make the mistake of looking down at the center when calling signals instead of surveying the defense. The quarterback should look over the defense when calling signals because the defense might show a weakness that can be exploited on the next play.

If the quarterback and coach have the knowledge and inexperience in the game of football and combine what they know on the sidelines or in the dressing room at halftime, they will come up with enough plays to move the ball down the field with regularity.

And that is what offensive football is all about.

Grid Defenses Have Many Plays

by LUCK WILLOUR

"The best offense is a good defense" is a saying that football fans have come to accept as a fundamental of the game. For every offense relies on its defense to make its job a little easier.

The offense relies on the defense to stop the other team, to keep it from scoring. But more than that, the defense is expected to get the offense the ball in good field position, somewhere around its own 40-yard line.

Field position is of extreme importance to the offense. Few teams have the ability to march 70 or 80 yards down the field for a touchdown — running 17 or 18 plays — without making a mistake. Fumbles, interceptions, mixed up assignments are all bound to happen in a drive of that duration, and it's up to the defense to make sure that they do happen.

To make sure that offensive blunders do occur, defenses have many plays, ranging from blitzing the passer in the hopes that he will throw wildly or fumble to switching the line rushing assignments. Other things that can be done by the defense to confuse the offense include trying to knock down a receiver at the line of scrimmage, and changing the type of defense to confuse the blocking assignments of the offensive line.

All these stratagems have one thing in common: they are based on certain situations. And it is for specific situations that a defense must be prepared.

Some of the most frequent situations arising in a game are: third down and long yardage, calling for a pass or some sort of tricky running play; short yardage situations, calling for the offense's most powerful runner; sideline passes to conserve time in the late stages of a half; goal line plays, calling for only one man to handle the ball at best, no more than two; a pass or tricky running play on first down following a fumble or interception; and running to the wide side of the field when the ball is placed on either side hash mark.

To stop these plays, the defense has to adjust accordingly. In a passing situation, the linebackers and defensive halfbacks will drop back from the line of scrimmage an extra yard or two, but they may also blitz the quarterback, hoping to nail him for a loss or cause him to throw wildly. These will also work well against a tricky running play like a reverse or double reverse. On long yardage situations, a defense will also have its ends and tackle "X" or cross, having the tackle on the inside rush to the outside and the end on the outside rush to the inside, hoping to leave the offensive linemen without anyone to block.

On short yardage situations, the linemen will generally charge straight ahead, but the linebackers and halfbacks will often line up in tandem, one behind another, to cut down on the ways an offensive lineman can block them.

In a situation that calls for a sideline pass, the defense will often check a receiver at the line of scrimmage, hoping to throw the offense's timing off. "Checking" or an "Eagle Defense" usually places a linebacker and an end on the offensive end.

Goal line plays call for the defense to stack, as in the other short yardage situations. Stacking a defense also allows the linebackers more mobility, letting them close up a hole as fast as it's opened by the offensive linemen.

In situations where the ball is resting on a side hash mark, the defense will often slant toward the wide side of the field. Some teams, like St. Viator, will play their outside linebackers far to the wide side of the field, thus allowing no runner to get outside.

The defense also knows that certain men doing certain things mean a particular play. Here are some:

—If linemen go downfield, it is a running play.

—Whenever a guard pulls, the play will be in the direction he is pulling.

—If an offensive end tries to block a tackle to the inside, the play will be going outside the tackle.

—If the running backs block, the play will be going wide.

—If an end blocks an end, the play will either go to the outside or straight ahead.

—Whichever way the center moves, the play will go.

The key here is the offensive guard. With very few exceptions, the play will go the way the guard goes. If the guard (or guards) blocks straight ahead, it will be a running play up the middle. If the guards block straight ahead but do not go downfield, it's a pass. If the guards pull — leave their positions and run to the outside — the play will be to the outside, to that very spot where the guards block.

10 Years Old, 'Good Place'

by STEVE NOVICK
Ten years ago today Hoffman Estates was incorporated as a village.
At that time a new tract of homes, the now senior "Parcel A," made up the major portion of Hoffman Estates' population.
These residents and the old farm families of the area held an election on Sept. 19, 1959, to establish a new community. On Sept. 23 the votes were canvassed and Hoffman Estates was officially incorporated.
Ed Finger was the first village board president, a man who led during the initial years of growth.

HE WAS SUCCEEDED by Roy Jenkins, a local merchant whose leadership will have its greatest effect as Hoffman Estates approaches city proportions.
Frederick Downey now holds the position of village board president, and Hoffman Estates' 10th Anniversary brought comments from him about the community he leads.
"Hoffman Estates is a good place to live, if not, people wouldn't be here," Downey said. "When it comes time to buy a larger home, a lot of Hoffman Estates residents buy their second home right here."
"We have a good school system for both the elementary and high schools," said Downey, a former Dist. 54 board member. He added that Hoffman Estates is also well situated for transportation being near two commuter lines and the expressway.

"WE ALSO HAVE outstanding fire protection and a police department operating to serve the citizens and not to procure revenue," Downey said. Another Hoffman Estates attribute Downey offered is the wide variety of churches located here.
"And the people who live here are interested in the community and community organizations," he added.
Commerce in Hoffman Estates is "an area where Downey sees room for improvement. Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg will help, he added. He then boasted that Hoffman Estates is one of the few communities in the area that has its own movie theatre.

In the future, Downey sees many more apartments in Hoffman Estates. He added that apartments are not desired by the present village board, but that they will come from commitments made by the previous board.
"We're trying to bring a more business-like approach to government," Downey said. To accomplish this consultants will be hired in special areas as needed. A change of procedure for board activity is taking place too. Areas previously handled by one trustee or small committees will now be taken up by the entire board, Downey said.

Rent Vote Is Saturday

Dist. 54 residents will vote Saturday on a proposed $60,000 rent levy to repay a state loan for building classrooms. Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

If voters approve the levy, Dist. 54 will be able to obtain an interest-free loan from the Illinois School Building Commission (ISBC) for construction of 23 classrooms.

Last October Dist. 54 voters passed a five-part referendum which included a $70,000 rent levy to repay a loan from the ISBC to build 40 classrooms. The current application of Dist. 54 now before the ISBC calls for loans to build 63 classrooms, based on need.

THE CLASSROOM application of Dist. 54 will be processed Friday, Oct. 10.

If Saturday's referendum is passed, Dist. 54 can accelerate its classroom building schedule by about one year.

Building plans of the Schaumburg Township elementary district provide that three identical 21-room elementary schools will be constructed in the pie-shaped area bordered by Higgins and Golf, the Lancer subdivision of Schaumburg and Weathersfield Unit 14. These three schools will be named after the Apollo 11 astronauts.

"Saturday's referendum will decide whether the 23 classrooms will be built with interest-free loans from the ISBC or financed entirely with the school district's own funds," said Supt. Wayne Schaible.

DIST. 54 RESIDENTS will vote Saturday in the precinct in which they live. Voting will be held in the following eight precincts: Schaumburg, Twinbrook, Hillcrest, Hoffman, Campanelli, Hanover Highlands, MacArthur and Dr. Thomas Dooley schools.

All residents living west of Springingsuth Road and south of Schaumburg Road in Weathersfield will vote at Campanelli School. Residents living east of Springingsuth in Weathersfield will vote at Dr. Thomas Dooley School, Lowell and Norwood Lanes.

Hanover Park residents of Dist. 54 will cast ballots at the Hanover Highlands School, 1451 Cypress.

Tomorrow is the last day when voters may obtain absentee ballots in person from the Dist. 54 administrative office, 105 Audubon Place, Hoffman Estates. Ballots must be returned either in person or by mail, and must be marked in the presence of a notary public.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS must be returned to the Dist. 54 administrative office before Saturday.

Bid opening for contracts to construct the classrooms authorized for Dist. 54 has tentatively been scheduled for 8 p.m. Dec. 2.

The ISBC is a state agency created by the Illinois Legislature in 1957 to aid school districts with classroom needs that have exhausted their bonding power. This agency has the authority to lend money, interest-free, to school districts for building classrooms.

Buildings constructed with ISBC funds remain the property of the state until the principal is repaid over 16 2/3 years. Then title to school buildings reverts to local school districts.

"GROWING TO GREATNESS" is the motto of Hoffman Estates as the community celebrates its 10th anniversary today. Shopping districts and asphalt parking lots have replaced farms. This intersection, Golf and Roselle Roads, has become the crossroads of the township. For a glimpse at how Hoffman Estates looked 10 years ago, what residents think of their community today, the growth of the schools in the community and the green future of the village, see Page 2 of today's Herald.

Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

Con-Con Voting Today

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine Townships.

Four of the 16 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislative elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

Fewer than 20 per cent of the voters in the state are expected to go to the polls today. Although the number of candidates in the Third District indicates strong interest in the race, the voters themselves have been unresponsive.

ONLY ONE of the state's 58 districts has more candidates than the Third District, and in eight districts, fewer than four candidates are running, eliminating the need for the primary.

There are 475 candidates throughout the state.

This will be the first time in more than 30 years that Illinois has made attempts to rewrite its Constitution. The present document was adopted in 1870 and written at a convention that began Dec. 13, 1869 — five days less than 100 years before this convention will open.

CANDIDATES, in the order their names will appear on the ballot, are:

- Wilfred L. Robbins, 1808 W. Pheasant Trail, Mount Prospect.
- Robert A. Bush, 726 Dempster Street, Mount Prospect.

- Annis F. Bush, 107 E. Council Trail, Mount Prospect.
- Mary J. Carlson, 207 E. School Lane, Prospect Heights.
- Lester A. Bonaguro, 327 S. Forrest Ave., Arlington Heights.
- Douglas R. Cannon, 8 N. Louis Street, Mount Prospect.
- Eugene L. Griffin, 603 Thorntree Terrace, Arlington Heights.
- Thomas J. Johnson, 98 Hawthorne Road, Barrington.
- Donald F. Colby, 38 Glenbrook Drive, Prospect Heights.
- William R. Engelhardt, 416 N. Inverway Road, Inverness.
- John G. Woods, 214 S. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights.
- Virginia B. Macdonald, 515 S. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights.
- Winn C. Davidson, 649 N. Clark Drive, Palatine.
- Madeline Schroeder, 1923 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights.
- LeMoine D. Stitt, 501 N. Inverway Road, Inverness.
- Samuel A. LaSusa, 357 Roberts Road, Barrington.
- Herbert G. Klein, director of communications for the Nixon Administration, will keynote the annual banquet of the Hanover Township Regular Republican Organization Oct. 3.
- The banquet, to be at Villa Olivia Country Club in Bartlett, will be the area GOP's sixth annual fund-raising affair.

Klein To Speak Oct. 3 Before GOP

Jerome Mann, banquet chairman, said ticket sales have topped the 200 mark with more than two weeks to go — "An unprecedented preliminary response."

TOP POLITICAL FIGURES, both state and national, are in the vanguard of persons buying tickets for the event, Mann said. They include Congressman Robert McClory, Congresswoman Charlotte T. Reid, State Sen. John A. Graham, William N. Erickson, Cook County commissioner, State Reps. Eugene F. Schlickman and David J. Regner.

Harold E. Rainville, long time aide to the late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, is also expected at the head table.

Several of the candidates seeking the 13th U. S. Congressional seat vacated by Donald Rumsfeld will also attend.

All the hubbub is heightened by the prospect of seeing and being seen by President Nixon's close White House advisor.

THE FRIENDSHIP between the President and Klein began in 1948 during Nixon's first congressional campaign. Klein has worked in all of the President's campaigns since then.

Before being appointed to the new policy position, a cabinet-level post, by President Nixon, Klein was manager of communications for the Nixon-Agnew campaign. He had responsibility for campaign press and communications activities, and served as a key member of the Nixon strategy team.

Klein resigned as editor of the San Diego Union to assume his campaign duties. He began in newspapering in 1940 as a copy boy. He worked his way up to executive editor of the Union. In 1959, he became its editor.

DURING WORLD WAR II he served in the U.S. Navy. He recently retired from the Naval Reserve with the rank of commander.

Reservations for the Oct. 3 banquet Klein will address may be made at $15 per couple with Claudia Cato, Hanover Township committeewoman at 6 Big Oaks Road, Streamwood, 283-3664. Township committeeman for Hanover is Eugene T. Devitt.

Walsh Endorses Schlickman

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Schlickman's experience in local government, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

"Problems of zoning, flooding and elections have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington."

Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other representatives consider too controversial.

"His work in the areas of mental retardation and prison reform are well known and he is one of very few lawmakers to take creative and constructive action on the matter of public aid to nonpublic schools."

Schlickman said he is pleased to have Walsh endorse his candidacy, saying Walsh represents the third largest city in the 13th District.

At a meeting of the Des Plaines City Council, Shillington said he would ask his friends in the Elk Grove Township portion of Des Plaines to back Schlickman in the Oct. 7 primary election.

It's Time for Some Anniversary Thoughts

In Hoffman Estates it is easy to find men who moved here because they saw good home values close to work.

They look at the schools and see a good job being done considering the financial crisis that few suburban school district escape. They like their neighborhoods and their neighbors. When most of them leave it is because of job transfers or because they can now afford a home that cannot be found in the community.

Others have been here for a decade and will stay another decade or two.

BUT THEY ALL HAVE something to say about Hoffman Estates.

Gene Deshon had lived in Hoffman Estates for 14 years. He was a man in a hurry when approached by the Herald but took time to say he'd like to see a men's shop in Hoffman Estates that sells quality merchandise.

He wants a good shoe store too. Deshon believes that good businesses have been driven out of the community because of excessive rents.

Some one is passing up a good business opportunity because Gene Whitaker, a local Realtor, also sees a need for a good men's shop.

Whitaker said he likes Hoffman Estates very much. He is proud of his community and feels it has come a long way in the past decade.

"MOST PEOPLE GET OUT and vote. They take a serious interest in local government," he said. Whitaker himself has been active in several election campaigns.

Something he is not too happy about are the three-bedroom apartments coming into the area. "But they're not going to be as bad as people think," he added. "There will be some burden on the schools, but this has been exaggerated."

Michael Kaplan came to Hoffman Estates with his family two years ago from an integrated area in New Jersey.

"I miss having my children going to school with dark-faced children. I want my children to go to school with Negroes," he said.

"I know I'm in the minority. There's about 2 per cent of us who want to see an open-housing ordinance adopted. People are afraid of change," he added.

He also criticizes the slowness of industrial growth in Hoffman Estates.

"HOFFMAN ESTATES sits back and watches while Schaumburg grows," Kaplan said.

But things aren't all bad in Kaplan's eyes. He likes what he called "the country type living" in Hoffman Estates.

And he likes the schools. He sees they are in serious financial trouble, but they do a good job.

"My son has excellent teachers," Kaplan said. The boy attends Lakeview School.

"The village has been committed to being a city and it's time for people who live here to realize it rather than fight it," said Ed Frank, a past park commissioner in Hoffman Estates.

THE PEOPLE IN Hoffman Estates have an education level that is higher than in surrounding communities, but they are apathetic. If we could tap our talent source, we could be a major city in the United States," he added.

A very happy Hoffman Estates resident, Mrs. Robert Lott, said she has been here one year with her husband and their two young children.

"I wouldn't mind settling here permanently," she said. But her husband's job could bring a transfer in the next few years.

Mrs. Lott has heard about three kindergarten shifts in the schools and voiced the situation as her only gripe.

Jack Ekey was eating in a local restaurant with his two daughters when approached by the Herald. He is originally from Ohio and does not like Illinois schools in general.

EKEY HAS NO COMPLAINTS about the village or the service it provides. He likes the community and his neighbors.

He plans to live here for another three to five years. He will then move to another area because Hoffman Estates does not have the type of house he will want.

William Anderson, a community minded man, has lived in Hoffman Estates for four years. He said he would think twice before buying another home here.

"I dislike the disorganization of local groups, the lack of communications," he said.

He is in the Jaycees, on the park district advisory board and the Twinbrook YMCA board.

HE SEES A NEED for better programs to get youth involved in community and other organizations.

William Witty, a 10-year Hoffman Estates resident, said, "The schools are doing a pretty good job with the severe handicaps they face."

"We don't want to move," he said of his family with its three teenage children.

"I don't want to see too many apartments, but I guess it's too late," he added.

Phil Saletta has lived in Hoffman Estates since November and would buy another house here because "we like the people."

His criticisms: "There are no facilities for children to play and the shopping district could be better."

Space Will Abound

by MARY REIFSCHEIDER

Hoffman Estates will never lack for open space.

The community is blessed with more than 4,000 acres of forest preserve land. At its present size of 8,300 acres, there will be one acre of open space for every acre of development.

The Cook County Forest Preserve District has two major sites located within Hoffman Estates' corporate boundaries.

One is north of the Northwest Tollway, some 1,400 acres bounded by Roselle, Algonquin, Freeman and Central roads. The second is the 3,000-acre controversial Rosmoor tract located primarily in Hanover Township.

THE ROSMOOR tract is bounded by Barrington, Bode, Sutton roads and the Northwest Tollway.

The Forest Preserve District paid $11,081,159 for 2,508 acres of the Rosmoor property in 1968 and has added about 500 acres to it since then. The purchase was the largest ever made by the Forest Preserve District.

The district has tentatively named the Rosmoor property the Poplar Creek Preserve, said Richard Buck, FPD planner.

The FPD purchasing the Rosmoor tract was a bitter pill for former Mayor Roy Jenkins' administration. The coveted land was annexed to Hoffman Estates in 1963 over the protests of neighboring communities.

Developers announced plans to build a multi-million dollar retirement community to be known as "Leisure World" with a population of 50,000 elders.

The Rosmoor Corp. never started the development and Hoffman Estates will now be known to its neighbors as a recreation mecca instead of a retirement haven.

THE FOREST PRESERVE will be developing Poplar Creek Preserve within the next 10 years. A master plan is on the drawing boards now, Buck said.

A tiny portion of the preserve opened early this summer to the public, a 17-acre lake for fishing with parking for 110 cars is located half a mile west of Barrington Road on Bode Road.

Buck said the district is also removing existing structures on the preserve and has plans for reforestation of the land.

"Development will take a number of years, depending on how much money we receive," Buck said.

Tentative plans for development, announced last year, include equestrian paths, water-oriented recreation, walking paths, picnic areas, shelters, vast areas of trees and open play areas.

POPLAR CREEK, which winds through the tract, will be an asset to the development.

"Wherever we can create water by impoundment, we do. Water has a magnetic quality that the public seeks," Buck said.

The green belt that the preserves will create will be more appreciated in the next 10 years as high-density apartment complexes come to Schaumburg Township.

The forest preserve land won't take the place of neighborhood parks, but it will give local residents quick access to open areas that are quickly becoming extinct in Cook County.

The Poplar Creek Preserve is adjacent to another 1,400 acres of land owned by the district in western Hanover Township.

TEN YEARS AGO Hoffman Estates was a few homes, two gas stations, a small shopping center and a water tower. This aerial photo shows the intersection of Roselle and Higgins roads in the spring of 1959. Commercial development has removed the barns and farm houses. This intersection is now one of the busiest in Schaumburg Township, along with the Golf-Roselle Road intersection north of here.

Commercial Need Increases

by STEVE NOVICK

Nearly $16 million was spent on goods and services alone within Hoffman Estates during the last fiscal year.

For a perspective on commerce in the community, the Herald went to Art Kotler, manager of Golf-Rose Shopping Center and executive vice president of Hoffman Home Value Real Estate.

Kotler anticipates that with several thousand new apartments coming into Hoffman Estates, there will be a great demand for commercial space.

"WE ARE ALMOST unable to provide for the demand in Hoffman Estates, there is not much (commercial) land available," he said.

He added that most commercial growth will come on Golf Road heading west from Roselle Road. Other growth will be on Higgins Road east of Roselle Road and on Roselle Road, north of Golf toward the Northwest Tollway.

Places for all types of retail businesses are wanted, including a place for an additional auto dealer, he said.

Kotler added that because of the zig-zag border between Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg in the commercial district, some of the development will also be in Schaumburg.

The effect of Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg on businesses in Hoffman Estates will be comparable to what happened when Randhurst opened in Mount Prospect, Kotler predicted.

"FOR A SHORT PERIOD there will be a dampening effect, but we will quickly recover," he said.

The Hoffman Estates business district is close to Woodfield Shopping Center, to be the nation's largest.

"Woodfield, in the long run, will increase the population enough to offset merchants here," Kotler added.

He said the major advantage of doing business in your own community is service and convenience. "There is an intimate relationship between merchants and patrons," Kotler added.

AT THE SAME TIME, Hoffman Estates businesses draw from people on their way to and from Palatine, Elgin, Hanover Park and Streamwood, Kotler said.

He added that a major growth problem will be the geographic division caused between development north and south of the tollway.

Schools Grow Too

by DON BRANNAN

As Hoffman Estates has grown in the past 10 years, so has the number of schools in the village. The village is served by Elementary Dist. 54 and High School Dist. 211.

Nine of the present 17 school buildings in Dist. 54 serve pupils from Hoffman Estates. This includes eight elementary schools and Helen Keller Junior High, with a combined enrollment of about 5,600 pupils.

Elementary schools in Hoffman Estates are Blackhawk, Fairview, Hillcrest, Hoffman, Twinbrook, Lakeview, and MacArthur schools. The majority of pupils attending Winston Churchill School are also from Hoffman Estates, although that school is outside village boundaries.

THE AVERAGE COST of educating a Dist. 54 pupil is $541.28.

Since beginning home construction in 1955, Hoffman-Rosner Corp. (formerly F & S Construction Co.) has donated school sites, classrooms, and cash contributions totaling more than $1,328,000 to Dist. 54.

Four years before Hoffman Estates became incorporated, Hoffman-Rosner donated nearly seven acres for the Twinbrook School site on Ash Road. This site and eight classrooms built by the developer were valued at $153,000.

As the homes built by Hoffman-Rosner multiplied, the developer contributed sites and classrooms for Fairview, Hoffman, Blackhawk, Lakeview, Hillcrest and MacArthur elementary schools.

THE DEVELOPER has also donated seven acres for a 20-room elementary school in the triangle between Higgins and Golf roads. Dist. 54 plans to build a school on the site with loans from the Illinois School Building Commission.

In planning for future growth, Hoffman-Rosner has also indicated to Dist. 54 officials they would donate 11 acres for a school site on Jones Road, north of the present Churchill School. A fourth junior high for Dist. 54 may someday occupy this site.

Hoffman-Rosner contributed 44 classrooms to Dist. 54 before adopting a policy of giving $100 per unit.

HIGH SCHOOL students in Hoffman Estates attend J.B. Conant High School, which has an enrollment of slightly more than 3,000 this year. Conant first opened its doors in 1964.

Palatine-Schaumburg Township High School Dist. 211 has two schools in Schaumburg Township — Conant High and Schaumburg High School (now under construction on Schaumburg Road), plus sites for two other high schools.

One site for a future Dist. 211 high school is in Hoffman Estates, while the other is 1,320 feet north of Wise Road near the Wise-Mohawk intersection in unincorporated Schaumburg Township.

The 40-acre high school site in Hoffman Estates borders on Higgins Road, about 2,000 feet west of the intersection of Routes 72 and 58. It is bordered on the north by Chippendale Lane and on the west by Elmwood Lane.

SCHAUMBURG HIGH SCHOOL, which will open for students about January, 1971, will serve mainly pupils from Schaumburg. Meanwhile, Conant High will continue to serve Hoffman Estates high school pupils.

Lyle Johnson, Dist. 211 school board president, is a resident of Hoffman Estates.

About 850 pupils attend St. Hubert parochial school on Flagstaff Lane in Hoffman Estates.

CORNFIELDS HAVE steadily diminished in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg Township during the past 10 years. The first settlers of Hoffman Estates were surrounded by this sight, the sun sinking below a cornfield.

Village Grows from Farmland

Over the past 10 years, acres of once rolling and verdant farmland have been rapidly transformed into a still growing suburban community — Hoffman Estates.

Around 1850, shortly after immigrating from their native Germany, Fred and Caroline Gieseke purchased the original land from the United States government. This 165-acre tract comprises what is now the nucleus of the village. On this land they built a comfortable white farmhouse which, over the years, has become the historic landmark known as Hoffman Estates Village Hall.

AFTER THE SENIOR Gieseke's retirement from active farming, the operation was continued by John and Angie Gieseke until 1943, when they sold the land for $150 an acre to playwright Arthur Hammerstein and his wife, the former Dorothy Dalton of early 1900's movie fame.

Hammerstein, the uncle of Oscar Hammerstein, and his wife called their farm Headacres and raised pure-blooded Duroc Jersey hogs and Holstein dairy cattle.

After Hammerstein's death in 1954, the farm and several other pieces of property were acquired by Jack Hoffman of F&S Construction Co., an Arizona-based developer. At that time the Hammerstein home, which has been enlarged to its present size, became the field headquarters for the original builder of what was to become Hoffman Estates.

IN DECEMBER, 1955, the first families moved into homes north of Higgins Road. The builders original plan reserved sites for four schools, five churches and a shopping center at Higgins and Roselle roads.

By the following year more than 500 homes were occupied and in 1957 the new community had grown to about 1,100 families.

After much diligent work by a few pioneers, the village was incorporated in September, 1959, and the first village board was elected in November of that year. By this action residents consented to be governed by a president and six trustees and also elected a clerk and police magistrate.

Although the spring of 1960 found Pres. Edward Pinger busy exploring the possibility of merger with neighboring Schaumburg, efforts in this direction have been futile.

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES highlighted the first 10 years:

— The fledgling community has made big strides in the past 10 years. Hoffman Estates now covers more than 8,300 acres and has a population of more than 20,000.

— The community has its own water and sewer system, purchased in 1963 for $3,275,000 from the Citizens Utilities Co.

— Voters established a park district in 1964 and neighborhood parks are being developed in all sections of Hoffman Estates.

— A master plan for orderly development has been in preparation since 1965. Action is expected in the next few months.

— A street reconstruction program began in 1966 when voters approved a $1 million referendum.

— Hoffman Estates residents are treated annually to one of the area's best Independence Day celebrations. The Independence Day committee works year round to insure that the coming July 4 is better than the previous one.

Ghosts in the Sex Education Class Closet

by MURRAY DUBIN

(Some of what follows are excerpts from the August edition of the American School Board Journal which featured an 11-page article on sex education written by Joanne Zazzaro.)

Sex education. Two words that arouse emotion from Johnny's parents.

Two words that everyone has an opinion about.

Two words that many people don't understand.

Two words that have bent, baffled and broken America's school boards.

Who are today's critics of sex education?

What do they want?

What tactics do they use?

How should a school board react?

THESE POINTS were discussed in an 11-page article entitled "The War on Sex Education," which appeared in the American School Board Journal, a publication for school board members.

Before delving into each point, the journal admitted that the campaign against sex education is enjoying varying degrees of success.

"Boardmen in hamlets and cities from east to west shared with the journal their often painful, always frustrating experiences in fending off attacks on their districts' sex education programs and in attempting, under fire, to salvage as much as possible the objectives of the program."

THE JOURNAL STATED that classification of sex education opponents varies under local conditions, but four major types of people involved in the anti-sex education could be found:

— "Members of far-right groups such as the Christian Crusade and the John Birch Society. Although they are in the minority (for example, local Birch MOTOREDE committees, front groups representing the Movement to Restore Decency, are made up of 10 per cent Birchers and 90 per cent other citizens), they are highly organized and financed, can obtain necessary propaganda with hardly more than snapping their fingers, and have succeeded in enlisting uninformed, unsuspecting citizens in the movement."

— "Religious fundamentalists who consider school sex education not only anti-religious and anti-God, but sometimes a means to destroy religion as well. Sex education must be taught within the context of strict morality, they say; only the home and the church know how to teach morals. "HOW CAN TEACHERS and school boards who represent every shade of gray morality, to whom morality is all a matter of opinion, convey the proper values to their students, fundamentalists ask. This group usually abhors mention of premarital intercourse, petting, masturbation and homosexuality in sex education."

— "Parents who are shocked at even the most factual biological instruction in the human reproduction process and who make easy prey for organized critics. Clinical names of bodily organs horrify these opponents, who usually have not read books using clinical terms, have never seen analysis or description of anatomical or sexual functions, generally received no sex education as youngsters and claim to have achieved happiness without it."

— "Well-meaning parents, stable families, who always had faith in their school board until they were inundated at laundromats, service stations, beauty parlors and other places of business with materials distributed by sex education arch-opponents."

"They are frustrated, confused, disturbed and have begun to believe there must be something valid in the criticism leveled by 'all those' materials."

Some common claims made by sex education critics which the magazine listed are:

— "Sex education is a communist plot to destroy the morals of youth (a tenet of both the Christian Crusade and the John Birch Society)."

— "Sex education is an invasion of the privacy of the family, of the God-given right of parents alone to teach the subject."

— "Sex education in school is presented exclusively of God, moral values and clear delineation of 'rights' and 'wrongs.'"

— "Some sex education is good, but this particular program goes much too far, starts too early and may be psychologically damaging."

— "Schools don't have qualified personnel to teach so delicate a subject as sex education."

The journal article said behind most claims "is the fear that information about sex breaks down modesty and encourages early experimentation, that youngsters will try out everything they've learned about sex as soon as the opportunity presents itself."

THE JOURNAL SAID the tactics of sex education opponents vary very little. In a cross-country check of school districts involved in the sex education controversy, 13 elements in a pattern were spotted. They are:

1 — "Committees spring up. Some local anti-sex education committees arise from strictly local origin; others are front groups for far-right groups such as the John Birch Society. . . All of the committees are bent upon arousing the general public to dangers they see as inherent in school sex education."

2 — "Speakers arrive on the scene. Sex education opposition groups sponsor outside speakers to assist in spreading the alarm. . . . Seldom familiar with the sex education program locally, these speakers tend to direct their attacks at the much broader target of the very concept of sex education in schools."

3 — "Some churches give support. Especially in the Bible Belt states, sex education opposition frequently has originated with religious fundamentalists who consider sex a moral issue to be dealt with only by the home and the church."

4 — "MEETINGS ARE disrupted. If any one tactic is more prevalent than others used by sex education opponents, this is it."

5 — "Half-truths and dubious documentation start making the rounds. . . . Innuendo and inference cannot be tracked down and easily exposed as nothing more than the seeds of suspicion."

6 — "Emotional appeals are made. Seemingly throwing reason to the wind, many opponents prefer to discuss the local sex education program in terms of 'Communist plots,' 'moral degeneracy' and 'sexual indoctrination of youth.'"

7 — "Teachers and other school people become suspect. Time and time again, critics have accused school boards of 'lying' about or 'hiding' the 'real' materials to be used in a local sex education program especially when they can find nothing objectionable with materials they have been invited to review."

8 — "Publications are passed around. Probably the Christian Crusade booklet,

'Is the School House the Place to Teach Raw Sex?', has received the widest distribution of all anti-sex education propaganda, but John Birch Society and American Education Lobby materials would run a close second."

9 — "LETTER-WRITING starts. Local newspapers, especially the small town weeklies, enticed so often by the slightest sensationalism, have allotted plenty of space in their letters-to-the-editor columns for sex education critics to present their case."

10 — "Radio and TV get into the act."

11 — "Pressure is put on public officials. Agitating for passage of statutes prohibiting sex education in public schools, opponents have used every conceivable means—petitions, letters, telegrams, group visits—to exert enough pressure on public officials to provoke, at the very least, legislative hearings on certain established programs."

12 — "Dark hints of future evil are issued. Especially in school districts with limited pilot programs in sex education, opponents charge the models are 'just a beginning' in an all-out effort to put 'sex,'

'pornography,' 'dirty talk' in every classroom."

13 — "Threats and intimidation become commonplace. To silence disagreement and impose their views, sex education opponents have threatened school boards with lawsuits, recall elections, defeat of bond issues."

THE JOURNAL SUGGESTED that school board members have a first-hand knowledge of their own district's sex education program and maintain written policies on public hearings and written statements of complaints.

The journal also suggested that intensive in-service training for teachers who are to teach sex education is provided.

The 11-page article which is obviously for sex education in the schools, concludes by saying that sex education "will never mature and approach excellence until those who confuse sex education with subversion are stopped from stunting its growth."

Freak Auto Accident Kills 1

A 27-year-old woman was killed at 2:05 a.m. Saturday on the Northwest Tollway, just beneath the Higgins Road overpass, when a 20-pound rock was thrown through the windshield of the car in which she was riding. The overpass is near Hoffman Estates.

The victim was Mrs. Barbara Snyder, 122 S. Jackson, Batavia. She was riding in a car driven by a friend, Harold Dennon, 238 Rosewood, Aurora. Both had worked for the same employer at one time. The rock was thrown by an unknown subject, according to Dist. 15 State Police.

ANYONE TRAVELING on Higgins Road between Routes 53 and 59 Saturday between 1:30 and 2:30 a.m., who saw cars or persons near the Higgins overpass on the Northwest Tollway, is asked to call 654-3384 with all information.

Mrs. Snyder was pronounced dead at Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

Local Man Killed in Crash

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexicana Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

Arnold Freise, 1004 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, was unofficially reported killed in the crash.

Information on passengers injured or killed was not available yesterday afternoon from the airlines. Mexican authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

OTHER PASSENGERS from the area who were on the plane were Mrs. Arnold

Freise, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clausung, all from Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton from unincorporated Wheeling.

The three Arlington Heights couples were members of Club International, a vacation savings club. They had taken trips together before and were planning to go to Europe next year.

All the Arlington Heights residents are members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The Rev. Robert Bartz, pastor of the church, flew to Mexico City yesterday afternoon.

Freise, 53, was vice president and sales manager for Piepenbrink Movers in Rolling Meadows. He was recently appointed as a director of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. He was a former operator of Parkway Liquors, 17 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

AT ST. PETER LUTHERAN Church, Freise was the chairman of the board of elders and chairman of the Lutheran Layman's League.

He is survived by his wife, Verna, and two children, Mrs. Carol Schroeder and Roger, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in California.

Mrs. Freise reportedly helped another crash victim, Mrs. Meyer, out of her chair after the crash. Mrs. Freise was reportedly in a hospital.

Ralph Meyer, a building inspector for the Village of Arlington Heights, was reported missing. His wife, Elizabeth, "Libby," called home to tell her family that she was in the hospital and was all right. She said she didn't know where her husband was. They live at 706 N. Mitchell.

MEYER WAS ON the building committee when St. Peter's built its new church in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausung, 717 S. Evergreen Ave., were reported injured and in a hospital. Clausung used to be an auditor for the church books at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton were reported injured. They were married Saturday and were en route to Acapulco for their honeymoon.

The nonstop flight from Chicago to Mexico City included 118 persons. The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane crashed into a lake about a mile from the end of the runway. While attempting to land, the plane hit the ground and split into three pieces.

Honeymoon Trip Touches Tragedy

(Editor's note: The following account of Sunday's plane crash in Mexico City was written for United Press International by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton, who live at Lamplighter Apartments, 1409 South Wolf in unincorporated Wheeling, Charlton, an industrial engineer for United Air Lines in Chicago, and his wife, Judith, formerly a secretary there, were married Saturday. They were flying to Acapulco for their honeymoon aboard the Mexicana Airlines Boeing 707 which crashed.)

"This was our honeymoon flight. We were on our way to Acapulco."

As we approached the airport, we hit some turbulence. I would classify this as moderate turbulence.

The captain asked everyone over the loudspeaker to fasten seat belts. We could tell it was raining. I could see a dark rain cloud through a forward window and I remarked to Judy, "There goes the visibility."

At the same time, I heard the pilot give the plane full power, and the nose started to climb, but we hit three or four seconds later. The tail hit first and broke off. I think maybe the cockpit broke off, too. With our airline backgrounds, we both had our heads on our knees, but the force of the impact, with the seatbelts around our waists, would have doubled us over anyway.

I REALIZED that the plane had stopped and we had to get out, and that my left ankle was caught in something. Something slid slipped down in front of me. I smelled kerosene and realized we might all burn. Then we realized there was a big jagged hole right next to our seats. We started to climb out and a body floated by in the water.

It was the woman who had been sitting next to us. I pulled myself out and fell three feet into hip-deep water. I reached up and helped Judy out. It was not dark yet and we could see an adobe hut about 100 yards away.

"Let's try to get over there," I said, and we started walking with two men. I think we were the first four persons out of the plane.

WHEN WE REACHED the hut I had to lay down. I was bleeding heavily from a wound in the forehead. Judy and the other two men had to help me walk. Then somebody told us we were going the wrong way, and we should walk toward some car headlights. So we went back the way we came, but couldn't get out that way, and had to go back by the original route again.

An ambulance pulled up, and they put me on a stretcher, took me to an aid station, and then to the American Hospital.

Said Judy: The plane began to shake, and then we hit the ground. Either the ceiling came down or the floor came up because we were sandwiched between two layers of steel.

THERE WAS ABSOLUTE silence for about 15 seconds, and then people began to scream. There was broken glass, water, dirt and the smell of kerosene everywhere. All I could think of was fire. I thought the plane would be enveloped in fire any moment.

There were bodies floating in the water. We started for this mud hut, and as I looked back I could see the other passengers just standing around the plane, and I remember thinking, "They mustn't just stand there, they must get as far away as they can because there might be a fire."

But there was nothing I could do. It seemed like about 20 minutes before anyone arrived to help.

Tour New Centex Park

Trains, buses and helicopters were all used for broker's day at the opening of 600-acre Centex Schaumburg Industrial Park held recently.

The industrial park, largest in the village, is bounded by Wise, Rodenberg, Irving Park and Roselle roads. The park is being planned by Bennett and Kahnweiler, industrial developers.

More than 125 Chicago area real estate brokers were taken to Schaumburg on a special "Bennett and Kahnweiler express" train from the Loop to Roselle. Buses took brokers to site. At the park they were given helicopter rides to view the property and then heard a presentation by Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher and Marshall Bennett, Louis S. Kahnweiler and Jim Dana, all of B & K.

BROKERS HEARD HOW the same development team that put together Centex Industrial Park in El's Grove Village, Centex Corp. of Dallas, the Pritzker family of Chicago and Bennett and Kahnweiler, had again combined forces to open the new 600-acre park.

Brokers also heard how the new Elgin-O'Hare expressway will go through the center of the park. The first stage of the new highway is expected to be completed by 1971 and the second stage by 1973.

Atcher told the brokers that Schaumburg is the fastest growing population area in the state and that projections indicate that its population by 1980 will exceed 250,000, making it the second largest city in Illinois.

The mayor added that planned unit development has been an integral part of Schaumburg's master plan, limiting the ratio of population to industry.

BENNETT SAID the Centex people had looked toward Schaumburg as their next logical step in development as early as 1961 but felt that they should wait until they had developed Centex further. At present, 1,400 of the total 1,800 usable acres of Centex have been leased or sold. Bennett and Kahnweiler also manage 17 other industrial park developments in the Chicago area as well as the 600-acre Montebello Industrial Park in Denver, Col., adjacent to Stapleton International Airport.

They also were involved in brokerage business that has exceeded $50 million for each year of the past six years. The firm is 20 years old.

Deaths Elsewhere

Mrs. Helen D. Jenkins, 71, of Des Plaines, was pronounced dead on arrival Friday at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. Funeral services were held yesterday in Des Plaines, with the Rev. Ernest T. Grant presiding. Burial was in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Among survivors is a daughter, Mrs. Jean Engel of Long Grove.

FROM UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

3 Helicopters Downed

SAIGON — New fighting erupted yesterday in the battle-worn Que Son Valley and surrounding area south of Da Nang where the Communists launched assaults that downed three U.S. helicopters and caused 31 American casualties.

Military spokesman said the helicopters were ferrying troops of the 19th Light Infantry brigade into the foothills of the valley just south of Da Nang.

Barricades Removed

LONDONDERRY, NORTHERN IRELAND—Residents of Londonderry's Roman Catholic Ragside district began dismantling barricades yesterday and replacing them with white lines across the streets.

Troops stood by as eight barricades were removed and members of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association painted the lines without incident.

Con-Con Voting Today

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine Townships.

Four of the 16 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislature elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

IT'S AN UPSIDE-DOWN WORLD to these two youngsters at the Prospect Heights Nursery School in the Prospect Heights Community Church. A trip to the Hawthorne Maillody Farm is planned for the pre-schoolers tomorrow. The youngsters meet three times a week at the school, which began its 23rd year of operations last Monday.

Crash Kills Area Man

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexicana Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

This was our honeymoon flight. We were on our way to Acapulco.

New Board Starts Task

With Buffalo Grove's park district election campaign still fresh in their minds, the five new park district commissioners will meet tonight to begin organizing their new board.

The five commissioners each has his own idea of what must be the first step for the new district.

Val Bettin said yesterday that he considers the turnout as a "mandate from the people" for an improved recreation program. He said the vote showed a "clear decision" for the park district and concluded that the attendance at candidates nights had been small because "a lot of people obviously made up their minds prior to the meetings."

BETTIN SAID the commissioners will meet tonight to become acquainted. Their first move must be to "sit down and find out what we legally can do," he suggested. Sherwood Zwirn said he is "just delighted" about the election. Zwirn said yesterday that he considers the high number of "yes" votes as an indicator that the "community is taking a positive interest in its betterment."

He said the election is a sign that Buffalo Grove's citizens are becoming "civically aware" and are "more interested in what's going on."

Moreover, Zwirn said, the "unbelievable turnout" is a sign that the village voters are ready for more "affirmative action on other needs of the community."

Zwirn also sees a need for the candidates to "just get together." He said choosing a president and determining the length of the commissioners' terms must be the first order of business.

GENE MURYN is another commissioner who is "pleased and impressed by the turnout." Muryn scheduled the meeting tonight, which will be at his house. He said the board's first goal is "getting organized internally." Muryn explained that he called the meeting "because nobody else has, yet."

Mrs. Dede Armstrong, the only woman elected to the board, said yesterday the park commissioners must "start on a small scale and build on what we have." Mrs. Armstrong said that she is "pleased that the community voted in a park district and honored that I was elected as a commissioner." She noted that the new board must begin by organizing itself and by "finding out how much money we have to work with."

William Kiddle, the fifth commissioner questioned about the new district, said he is "quite pleased with the group of commissioners who were elected."

Kiddle said yesterday that he has "high hopes and great expectations" that the new board will "get the job done."

HE EXPLAINED that the board must now "educate itself and that materials from seminars, copies of state codes, and materials for the previous commission and the village must be distributed to each commissioner."

Board members also plan a meeting Thursday with the village board after tonight's organizational meeting.

Here's An Idea Of Job

In approving the formation of a park district Saturday, Buffalo Grove voters took a step that Wheeling residents took more than eight years ago.

Organized in the winter of 1960, Wheeling's park district had the unique honor one year later of being the only park district in the state without a park.

In spite of that, the district did have a complete program at various Dist. 21 school sites in and at Chamber of Commerce Park.

TO FINANCE ITSELF, the new district took out $8,000 in tax anticipation warrants (TAWs) until taxes began coming in, according to Gene Sackett, the district's first superintendent.

Sackett was hired in March, 1961, to run the district's summer recreation program that year. He is now an elected member of the park board.

At its first meeting following passage of the referendum, the park board appointed Roger Bjorvik as its attorney, drew slips for the length of terms, and appointed a president.

Like the Buffalo Grove Recreation Association, the Wheeling Athletic Association sponsored many of the recreation programs in the village before the park district was formed. It still runs a highly successful baseball program each summer.

Unlike Buffalo Grove, however, Wheeling voters had the additional problem of dis-annexing itself from an existing rural park district before they could form a district. Most of Wheeling east of the Soo Line R.R. tracks was part of that rural district. It took two years to get petitions signed by all of the landowners who wanted to drop out of the rural district.

A SPEAKER FROM the Illinois Association of Park Districts came to Wheeling in 1959 to give information on forming a park district, much as Arthur Schultz did in Buffalo Grove recently.

The district hired its first full-time superintendent, Ferd Arndt, in September, 1966.

Levitt Told: Stop Burning

Levitt and Sons Inc. has been ordered to stop burning trash in Buffalo Grove. In August the village board had granted the builder's request for the burning.

The board voted last week to end the burning after one trustee reported, "they're (Levitt's) burning everything." Under the terms of the agreement, Levitt was to burn only light trash such as cardboard boxes.

LEVITT ASKED for the burning privilege because it said hauling the trash away from the construction area would be difficult. Levitt officials also told the board that often the trash, instead of being hauled away, is covered with dirt.

Jaycees Schedule Candidates Night

A candidates night for the 13th District Congressional candidates will be held at 8 p.m. today in the Emmerich Park building in Buffalo Grove.

The event is sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees. The Jaycees, though they endorse no candidates, sponsor such nights to allow candidates to present their views on an equal basis to the public.

George Vrachnos, publicity director for the Jaycees, urged residents to attend tonight's meeting.

Students Add Foreign Flavor

by SUE CARSON

An international flavor is apparent at Wheeling High School this fall. Several students from countries throughout the world are enrolled at the school.

From South Africa comes Marilyn Janks, who is sponsored by the American Field Service organization. Marilyn is a senior this year.

Marilyn is staying with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Steinman and their family in Prospect Heights. Their daughter, Lynne, is a student at Wheeling High.

NORA VECCHI of Argentina, also a senior, is sponsored by the Wheeling Rotary Club. She is living with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Keene of Wheeling, who have two children enrolled at the high school.

Also enrolled, although not sponsored by any organization, are seniors Paul Greenblatt of England and Grace Yang of the Republic of China and junior Jorge Fernandez of Mexico. The latter three are staying with relatives in the area.

Grace and Jorge are starting their second year at Wheeling High this fall. The others are enrolled for the first time.

What do they think of the classes? Reactions on this topic were varied.

"CLASSES ARE MORE interesting here," commented Marilyn. "Teachers

here encourage their students to think for themselves more so than in South Africa.

"In my country, students are more 'spoon fed' since curriculum is standardized throughout the schools. This is because all students are given the same matriculation exam after 12 years of schooling.

"Also, classes here are more varied. Dramatics, sociology and economics, for example, are university courses in South Africa."

"Classes here are a lot easier than in China," Grace said. "I think it's because teachers in China force students to learn more."

NORA SAID THAT although "I've only been here 20 days, I'm really enjoying it."

Paul and Jorge agreed that classes seem to be easier in the United States than in their respective countries.

"In Mexico, students take more subjects. Eight subjects are offered each day and the classes are rotated during the week, so that not all are offered every day," Jorge explained.

Jorge said his father encouraged him to go to school in this country so he could learn to speak English well. "The only real way to learn a language is to live among the people," he said.

PAUL SAID THE English system of education is harder than the American. He said English students attend school until the age of 11. Then they must pass an examination if they are to attend a grammar school, which will prepare them to enroll in college.

What do they think of American people, particularly students?

Marilyn said she thought American boys seem "young."

"This is probably because South African girls are used to dating boys several years older than they are," she stated. She added that on the whole American students are "more individualistic and less reserved" than South Africans.

Grace said she thought the American boys were more mature than those in her country, but added that Chinese boys were more polite than Americans.

"THE AMERICAN girls are a bit more boisterous than the English ones," commented Paul.

Jorge said that on the whole the American people have been friendly to him. "There are places, though, in the South especially where there are signs saying

Yes, There Will Be Ice Skating

Wheeling's Park Board decided Thursday that there will be ice skating in at least one village park this winter despite work on retention basins for the flood program.

If the Heritage Park rink is unavailable, the park board will provide lighted skating at Chamber of Commerce Park. The board will also try to get Dist. 21 officials to agree to another rink on the east side of the park district, probably at Holmes Junior High School, and one on the west side, probably at Jack London Junior High School or at Mark Twain Elementary School.

The village hopes the ice rink at Heritage Park will be excavated for a retention basin beginning this fall, although work may not be complete in time for skating season.

The board also voted to pursue purchase of an $1,800 skating shelter which can be converted into an open pavilion.

Strike Continues At Ekco's Plant

Pickets continued to march and police continued to patrol the area outside of the Wheeling Ekco Products Co. plant yesterday.

More than 400 members of Local 2125 of the International Association of Machinists are on strike against the Wheeling plant demanding higher wages and additional fringe benefits. The strike is about a month old.

SATURDAY NIGHT A woman picket was treated for minor injuries after she was struck by a car driven by one of the plant's foremen. A witness said she stood in front of the foreman's car and refused to move. No charges were filed. The mishap occurred on the plant's property.

Clerical help and foremen at the plant continue to work.

Police allowed a truck to enter the plant yesterday morning after explaining to pickets that they could not legally stop anyone who wished to enter.

"No Negroes or Mexicans allowed," he said.

Plans for the future?

Marilyn will return to South Africa next summer and enroll in a university, where she plans to study dramatics. AFS students from South Africa almost always say they want to visit the United States again, though, and I'll probably feel the same when I return home," she said.

NORA ALSO PLANS to return to school in Argentina when her year in this country is over. "I would like to come back, though," she added.

Grace plans to be around for a while, as she hopes to attend the University of Illinois next fall.

Paul also hopes to attend an American college and perhaps even settle here permanently since, as he puts it, "I think there's more opportunity over here."

Jorge plans to study engineering at the University of Mexico, but "I would be glad to come back," he said.

Report Equipment Taken From School

Approximately $700 to $800 in equipment belonging to Wheeling High School was reported missing by a janitor Thursday.

Stolen from the press box above the bleachers at the football field was a 100-watt amplifier used to broadcast announcements and a switchboard panel which controls the scoreboard.

WHEELING PATROLMAN Clarence Trausch said the theft occurred between Sept. 12 and Sept. 18.

Trausch said the press box was locked following the Wheeling-Maine South football game Sept. 12. He said the burglar used a chisel to enter the box.

Cayce Movie Slated For Randhurst Hall

A movie explaining the current interest in the "Sleeping Prophet," Edgar Cayce, will be shown at the Randhurst Town Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The subject of the movie is an interview with Hugh Lynn Cayce, son of the man considered by some to have been a visionary.

Ed Sloan, chairman of the Chicago Council of ARE, a foundation organized to study Edgar Cayce's life, will discuss the work currently in progress at the group's Virginia Beach, Va., headquarters.

Study groups in the Arlington Heights area are sponsoring the showing of the movie. Admission charge will be $1 to the general public and 50 cents to members of study groups.

Teen Dance Scheduled

A teen dance will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Emerick Park building in Buffalo Grove. The "Long-Time Coming" will play.

Teenagers from the Buffalo Grove area are invited to the event, sponsored by the parks system. Admission to the dance is $1.50.

Two Charged With Theft

Elk Grove police Thursday charged two Arlington Heights youths with theft in connection with a burglary last weekend at a construction site at Gordon and Higgins Road.

Charged were Alan McVicker, 22, of 2315 E. Olive, and Jerry Poyner, 20, of 1227

AMERICAN STUDENTS are "more independent" than Chinese students, according to Grace Yang of the Republic of China. Grace started her second year at Wheeling High School this fall. Grace is one of six foreign students at Wheeling High this fall.

Walsh Backs Schlickman

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Schlickman's experience in local government, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

"Problems of zoning, flooding and elections have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington." Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other representatives consider too controversial.

"His work in the areas of mental retardation and prison reform are well known and he is one of very few lawmakers to take creative and constructive action on the matter of public aid to nonpublic schools."

Schlickman said he is pleased to have Walsh endorse his candidacy, saying Walsh represents the third largest city in the 13th District.

He Attends Reunion

John A. Snow, Jr. of Prospect Heights, a 1953 graduate of Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., recently returned to the school for its 45th annual reunion.

Snow was graduated from the School of horsemanship.

On WIU Dean's List

The summer session dean's list at Western Illinois University includes the names of two area students.

They are Lawrence F. Smith of 2812 Bel Air Drive, Arlington Heights, who is working on his master's degree, and Paul C. Flentge of 101 E. Clarendon St., Prospect Heights, a freshman.

Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

3 Helicopters Downed

SAIGON — New fighting erupted yesterday in the battle-worn Que Son Valley and surrounding area south of Da Nang where the Communists launched assaults that downed three U.S. helicopters and caused 31 American casualties.

Military spokesmen said the helicopters were ferrying troops of the 198th Light Infantry brigade into the foothills of the valley just south of Da Nang.

Barricades Removed

LONDONDERRY, NORTHERN IRELAND—Residents of Londonderry's Roman Catholic Ragside district began dismantling barricades yesterday and replacing them with white lines across the streets.

Troops stood by as eight barricades were removed and members of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association painted the lines without incident.

Con-Con Voting Today

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine Townships.

Four of the 18 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislature elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

IT'S AN UPSIDE-DOWN WORLD to these two youngsters at the Prospect Heights Nursery School in the Prospect Heights Community Church. A trip to the Hawthorne Mel-lody Farm is planned for the pre-schoolers tomorrow. The youngsters meet three times a week at the school, which began its 23rd year of operations last Monday.

Crash Kills Area Man

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexican Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

Arnold Freise, 1004 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, was unofficially reported killed in the crash.

Information on passengers injured or killed was not available yesterday afternoon from the airlines. Mexican authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

OTHER PASSENGERS from the area who were on the plane were Mrs. Arnold Freise, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Walker Clausen, all from Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton from unincorporated Wheeling.

The three Arlington Heights couples were members of Club International, a vacation savings club. They had taken trips together before and were planning to go to Europe next year.

All the Arlington Heights residents are members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The Rev. Robert Bartz, pastor of the church, flew to Mexico City yesterday afternoon.

Freise, 53, was vice president and sales manager for Piepenbrink Movers in Rolling Meadows. He was recently appointed as a director of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. He was a former operator of Parkway Liquors, 17 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

AT ST. PETER LUTHERAN Church, Freise was the chairman of the board of elders and chairman of the Lutheran Layman's League.

He is survived by his wife, Verna, and two children, Mrs. Carol Schroeder and Roger, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in California.

Mrs. Freise reportedly helped another crash victim, Mrs. Meyer, out of her chair after the crash. Mrs. Freise was reportedly in a hospital.

Ralph Meyer, a building inspector for the Village of Arlington Heights, was reported missing. His wife, Elizabeth, "Libby," called home to tell her family that she was in the hospital and was all right.

She said she didn't know where her husband was. They live at 706 N. Mitchell.

MEYER WAS ON the building committee when St. Peter's built its new church in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausen, 717 S. Evergreen Ave., were reported injured and in a hospital. Clausen used to be an auditor for the church books at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton were reported injured. They were married Saturday and were en route to Acapulco for their honeymoon.

The nonstop flight from Chicago to Mexico City included 118 persons. The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane crashed into a lake about a mile from the end of the runway. While attempting to land, the plane hit the ground and split into three pieces.

Newlyweds Tell of Tragedy

(Editor's note: The following account of Sunday's plane crash in Mexico City was written for United Press International by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton, who live at Lamplighter Apartments, 1409 South Wolf in unincorporated Wheeling. Charlton, an industrial engineer for United Air Lines in Chicago, and his wife, Judith, formerly a secretary there, were married Saturday. They were flying to Acapulco for their honeymoon aboard the Mexican Airlines Boeing 707 which crashed.)

This was our honeymoon flight. We were on our way to Acapulco.

As we approached the airport, we hit some turbulence. I would classify this as moderate turbulence.

The captain asked everyone over the loudspeaker to fasten seat belts. We could tell it was raining. I could see a dark rain cloud through a forward window and I remarked to Judy, "There goes the visibility."

At the same time, I heard the pilot give the plane full power, and the nose started to climb, but we hit three or four seconds later. The tail hit first and broke off. I think maybe the cockpit broke off, too. With our airline backgrounds, we both had our heads on our knees, but the force of the impact, with the seatbelts around our waists, would have doubled us over anyway.

I REALIZED that the plane had stopped and we had to get out, and that my left ankle was caught in something. Something solid slipped down in front of me. I smelled kerosene and realized we might all burn. Then we realized there was a big jagged hole right next to our seats. We started to climb out and a body floated by in the water.

It was the woman who had been sitting next to us. I pulled myself out and fell three feet into hip-deep water. I reached up and helped Judy out. It was not dark yet and we could see an adobe hut about 100 yards away.

"Let's try to get over there," I said, and we started walking with two men. I think we were the first four persons out of the plane.

WHEN WE REACHED the hut I had to

New Board Starts Task

With Buffalo Grove's park district election campaign still fresh in their minds, the five new park district commissioners will meet tonight to begin organizing their new board.

The five commissioners each has his own idea of what must be the first step for the new district.

Val Bettin said yesterday that he considers the turnout as a "mandate from the people" for an improved recreation program. He said the vote showed a "clear decision" for the park district and concluded that the attendance at candidates nights had been small because "a lot of people obviously made up their minds prior to the meetings."

BETTIN SAID the commissioners will meet tonight to become acquainted. Their first move must be to "sit down and find out what we legally can do," he suggested. Sherwood Zwirn said he is "just delighted" about the election. Zwirn said yesterday that he considers the high number of "yes" votes as an indicator that the "community is taking a positive interest in its betterment."

He said the election is a sign that Buffalo Grove's citizens are becoming "civically aware" and are "more interested in what's going on."

Moreover, Zwirn said, the "unbelievable turnout" is a sign that the village voters are ready for more "affirmative action on other needs of the community."

Zwirn also sees a need for the candidates to "just get together." He said choosing a president and determining the length of the commissioners' terms must be the first order of business.

GENE MURYN is another commissioner who is "pleased and impressed by the turnout." Muryn scheduled the meeting tonight, which will be at his house. He said the board's first goal is "getting organized internally." Muryn explained that he called the meeting "because nobody else has, yet."

Mrs. Dede Armstrong, the only woman elected to the board, said yesterday the park commissioners must "start on a small scale and build on what we have." Mrs. Armstrong said that she is "pleased that the community voted in a park district and honored that I was elected as a commissioner." She noted that the new board must begin by organizing itself and by "finding out how much money we have to work with."

William Kiddle, the fifth commissioner questioned about the new district, said he is "quite pleased with the group of commissioners who were elected."

Kiddle said yesterday that he has "high hopes and great expectations" that the new board will "get the job done."

HE EXPLAINED that the board must now "educate itself and that materials from seminars, copies of state codes, and materials for the previous commission and the village must be distributed to each commissioner."

Board members also plan a meeting Thursday with the village board after tonight's organizational meeting.

Here's An Idea Of Job

In approving the formation of a park district Saturday, Buffalo Grove voters took a step that Wheeling residents took more than eight years ago.

Organized in the winter of 1960, Wheeling's park district had the unique honor one year later of being the only park district in the state without a park.

In spite of that, the district did have a complete program at various Dist. 21 school sites in and at Chamber of Commerce Park.

TO FINANCE ITSELF, the new district took out $8,000 in tax anticipation warrants (TAWs) until taxes began coming in, according to Gene Sackett, the district's first superintendent.

Sackett was hired in March, 1961, to run the district's summer recreation program that year. He is now an elected member of the park board.

At its first meeting following passage of the referendum, the park board appointed Roger Bjorvik as its attorney, drew slips for the length of terms, and appointed a president.

Like the Buffalo Grove Recreation Association, the Wheeling Athletic Association sponsored many of the recreation programs in the village before the park district was formed. It still runs a highly successful baseball program each summer.

Unlike Buffalo Grove, however, Wheeling voters had the additional problem of dis-annexing itself from an existing rural park district before they could form a district. Most of Wheeling east of the Soo Line R.R. tracks was part of that rural district. It took two years to get petitions signed by all of the landowners who wanted to drop out of the rural district.

A SPEAKER FROM the Illinois Association of Park Districts came to Wheeling in 1959 to give information on forming a park district, much as Arthur Schultz did in Buffalo Grove recently.

The district hired its first full-time superintendent, Ferd Arndt, in September, 1966.

Levitt Told: Stop Burning

Levitt and Sons Inc. has been ordered to stop burning trash in Buffalo Grove. In August the village board had granted the builder's request for the burning.

The board voted last week to end the burning after one trustee reported, "they're (Levitt) burning everything." Under the terms of the agreement, Levitt was to burn only light trash such as cardboard boxes.

LEVITT ASKED for the burning privilege because it said hauling the trash away from the construction area would be difficult. Levitt officials also told the board that often the trash, instead of being hauled away, is covered with dirt.

Jaycees Schedule Candidates Night

A candidates night for the 13th District Congressional candidates will be held at 8 p.m. today in the Emmerich Park building in Buffalo Grove.

The event is sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees. The Jaycees, though they endorse no candidates, sponsor such nights to allow candidates to present their views on an equal basis to the public.

George Vrachnos, publicity director for the Jaycees, urged residents to attend tonight's meeting.

Fund Month Is Oct.

Dan Colby, chairman of the Prospect Heights Annual Appeal, has announced that October will be fund month in that area. The fund raising drive, with a goal of $12,500 will begin Oct. 1.

The Prospect Heights Annual Appeal is one of 88 suburban fund drives participating in the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Students Add Foreign Flavor

by SUE CARSON

An international flavor is apparent at Wheeling High School this fall. Several students from countries throughout the world are enrolled at the school.

From South Africa comes Marilyn Janks, who is sponsored by the American Field Service organization. Marilyn is a senior this year.

Marilyn is staying with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Steinman and their family in Prospect Heights. Their daughter, Lynne, is a student at Wheeling High.

NORA VECCHI of Argentina, also a senior, is sponsored by the Wheeling Rotary Club. She is living with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Keene of Wheeling, who have two children enrolled at the high school.

Also enrolled, although not sponsored by any organization, are seniors Paul Greenblatt of England and Grace Yang of the Republic of China and junior Jorge Fernandez of Mexico. The latter three are staying with relatives in the area.

Grace and Jorge are starting their second year at Wheeling High this fall. The others are enrolled for the first time.

What do they think of the classes? Reactions on this topic were varied.

"CLASSES ARE MORE interesting here," commented Marilyn. "Teachers

here encourage their students to think for themselves more so than in South Africa.

"In my country, 'students are more 'spoon fed' since curriculum is standardized throughout the schools. This is because all students are given the same matriculation exam after 12 years of schooling."

"Also, classes here are more varied. Dramatics, sociology and economics, for example, are university courses in South Africa."

"Classes here are a lot easier than in China," Grace said. "I think it's because teachers in China force students to learn more."

NORA SAID THAT although "I've only been here 20 days, I'm really enjoying it."

Paul and Jorge agreed that classes seem to be easier in the United States than in their respective countries.

"In Mexico, students take more subjects. Eight subjects are offered each day and the classes are rotated during the week, so that not all are offered every day," Jorge explained.

Jorge said his father encouraged him to go to school in this country so he could learn to speak English well. "The only real way to learn a language is to live among the people," he said.

PAUL SAID THE English system of education is harder than the American. He said English students attend school until the age of 11. Then they must pass an examination if they are to attend a grammar school, which will prepare them to enroll in college.

What do they think of American people, particularly students?

Marilyn said she thought American boys seem "young."

"This is probably because South African girls are used to dating boys several years older than they are," she stated. She added that on the whole American students are "more individualistic and less reserved" than South Africans.

Grace said she thought the American boys were more mature than those in her country, but added that Chinese boys were more polite than Americans.

"THE AMERICAN girls are a bit more boisterous than the English ones," commented Paul.

Jorge said that on the whole the American people have been friendly to him. "There are places, though, in the South especially where there are signs saying

"No Negroes or Mexicans allowed," he said.

Plans for the future?

Marilyn will return to South Africa next summer and enroll in a university, where she plans to study dramatics. AFS students from South Africa almost always say they want to visit the United States again, though, and I'll probably feel the same when I return home," she said.

NORA ALSO PLANS to return to school in Argentina when her year in this country is over. "I would like to come back, though," she added.

Grace plans to be around for a while, as she hopes to attend the University of Illinois next fall.

Paul also hopes to attend an American college and perhaps even settle here permanently since, as he puts it, "I think there's more opportunity over here."

Jorge plans to study engineering at the University of Mexico, but "I would be glad to come back," he said.

Report Equipment Taken From School

Approximately $760 to $800 in equipment belonging to Wheeling High School was reported missing by a janitor Thursday.

Stolen from the press box above the bleachers at the football field was a 100-watt amplifier used to broadcast announcements and a switchboard panel which controls the scoreboard.

WHEELING PATROLMAN Clarence Trausch said the theft occurred between Sept. 12 and Sept. 18.

Trausch said the press box was locked following the Wheeling-Maine South football game Sept. 12. He said the burglar used a chisel to enter the box.

Cayce Movie Slated For Randhurst Hall

A movie explaining the current interest in the "Sleeping Prophet," Edgar Cayce, will be shown at the Randhurst Town Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The subject of the movie is an interview with Hugh Lynn Cayce, son of the man considered by some to have been a visionary.

Ed Sloan, chairman of the Chicago Council of ARE, a foundation organized to study Edgar Cayce's life, will discuss the work currently in progress at the group's Virginia Beach, Va., headquarters.

Study groups in the Arlington Heights area are sponsoring the showing of the movie. Admission charge will be $1 to the general public and 50 cents to members of study groups.

Teen Dance Scheduled

A teen dance will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Emerich Park building in Buffalo Grove. The "Long-Time Coming" will play.

Teenagers from the Buffalo Grove area are invited to the event, sponsored by the parks system. Admission to the dance is $1.50.

Two Charged With Theft

Elk Grove police Thursday charged two Arlington Heights youths with theft in connection with a burglary last weekend at a construction site at Gordon and Higgins Road.

Charged were Alan McVicker, 22, of 2315 E. Olive, and Jerry Poyner, 20, of 1227

AMERICAN STUDENTS are "more independent" than Chinese students, according to Grace Yang of the Republic of China. Grace started her second year at Wheeling High School this fall. Grace is one of six foreign students at Wheeling High this fall.

Emerick Is Pastoral Intern

James Emerick, of Millersburg, Pa., has begun his year as an intern pastor at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 1111 N. Elmhurst Road, in Prospect Heights.

Emerick is a graduate of Gettysburg College in Gettysburg, Pa. He has completed two years at the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago.

FOLLOWING HIS year as an intern pastor at the church, he will return to the seminary for one more year. Upon graduation, he will be ordained.

His wife, Mrs. Laura Emerick, is a teacher at the new Henry Wadsworth Longfellow School in Buffalo Grove.

School Sets Fun Fair

A fun fair, sponsored by the Louisa May Alcott School PTA, will be held Friday at the school, 530 Bernard Drive, Buffalo Grove.

The fair will be held from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. Games and refreshments will be available.

Walsh Backs Schlickman

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Schlickman's experience in local government, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

"Problems of zoning, flooding and elections have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington."

Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other representatives consider too controversial.

"His work in the areas of mental retardation and prison reform are well known and he is one of very few lawmakers to take creative and constructive action on the matter of public aid to nonpublic schools."

Schlickman said he is pleased to have Walsh endorse his candidacy, saying Walsh represents the third largest city in the 13th District.

Walsh Backs Schlickman

Ar a meeting of the Des Plaines City Council, Shillington said he would ask his friends in the Elk Grove Township portion of Des Plaines to back Schlickman in the Oct. 7 primary election.

"I have known Gene since I became a municipal official in 1963," Shillington said. "He has become a most efficient and able legislator, concerned with his district. And he is the only state representative or candidate to have shown interest in our problems in Des Plaines."

"He is a man who has known our area and our problems," the alderman said. "We should vote for a man who has done something for us. And I ask, 'What has anyone else done?' The candidate endorsed by the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization has done nothing at all."

Meyer said, "As mayor of Rolling Meadows and as a municipal official for the past nine years, I believe that people who have served at the local level know the needs of the towns better than those who have not."

"Gene Schlickman is the only candidate who has this qualification as well as experience at the state level. I think he can best serve our needs and desires."

He Attends Reunion

John A. Snow, Jr. of Prospect Heights, a 1953 graduate of Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., recently returned to the school for its 45th annual reunion.

Snow was graduated from the School of horsemanship.

On WIU Dean's List

The summer session dean's list at Western Illinois University includes the names of two area students.

They are Lawrence F. Smith of 2812 Bel Aire Drive, Arlington Heights, who is working on his master's degree, and Paul C. Flentge of 101 E. Clarendon St., Prospect Heights, a freshman.

Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

3 Helicopters Downed

SAIGON — New fighting erupted yesterday in the battle-worn Que Son Valley and surrounding area south of Da Nang where the Communists launched assaults that downed three U.S. helicopters and caused 31 American casualties.

Military spokesman said the helicopters were ferrying troops of the 106th Light Infantry brigade into the foothills of the valley just south of Da Nang.

Barricades Removed

LONDONDERRY, NORTHERN IRELAND—Residents of Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside district began dismantling barricades yesterday and replacing them with white lines across the streets.

Troops stood by as eight barricades were removed and members of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association painted the lines without incident.

Con-Con Voting Today

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine Townships.

Four of the 16 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislature elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

IT'S AN UPSIDE-DOWN WORLD to these two youngsters at the Prospect Heights Nursery School in the Prospect Heights Community Church. A trip to the Hawthorne Mel-lody Farm is planned for the pre-schoolers tomorrow. The youngsters meet three times a week at the school, which began its 23rd year of operations last Monday.

Crash Kills Area Man

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexicana Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

Arnold Freise, 1004 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, was unofficially reported killed in the crash.

Information on passengers injured or killed was not available yesterday afternoon from the airlines. Mexican authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

OTHER PASSENGERS from the area who were on the plane were Mrs. Arnold Freise, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clausung, all from Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton from unincorporated Wheeling.

The three Arlington Heights couples were members of Club International, a vacation savings club. They had taken trips together before and were planning to go to Europe next year.

All the Arlington Heights residents are members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The Rev. Robert Bartz, pastor of the church, flew to Mexico City yesterday afternoon.

Freise, 52, was vice president and sales manager for Piepenbrink Movers in Rolling Meadows. He was recently appointed as a director of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. He was a former operator of Parkway Liquors, 17 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

AT ST. PETER LUTHERAN Church, Freise was the chairman of the board of elders and chairman of the Lutheran Layman's League.

He is survived by his wife, Verna, and two children, Mrs. Carol Schroeder and Roger, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in California.

Mrs. Freise reportedly helped another crash victim, Mrs. Meyer, out of her chair after the crash. Mrs. Freise was reportedly in a hospital.

Ralph Meyer, a building inspector for the Village of Arlington Heights, was reported missing. His wife, Elizabeth, "Libby," called home to tell her family that she was in the hospital and was all right.

She said she didn't know where her husband was. They live at 706 N. Mitchell.

MEYER WAS ON the building committee when St. Peter's built its new church in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausung, 717 S. Evergreen Ave., were reported injured and in a hospital. Clausung used to be an auditor for the church books at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton were reported injured. They were married Saturday and were en route to Acapulco for their honeymoon.

The nonstop flight from Chicago to Mexico City included 118 persons. The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane crashed into a lake about a mile from the end of the runway. While attempting to land, the plane hit the ground and split into three pieces.

Newlyweds Tell of Tragedy

(Editor's note: The following account of Sunday's plane crash in Mexico City was written for United Press International by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton, who live at Lamplighter Apartments, 1409 South Wolf in unincorporated Wheeling. Charlton, an industrial engineer for United Air Lines in Chicago, and his wife, Judith, formerly a secretary there, were married Saturday. They were flying to Acapulco for their honeymoon aboard the Mexicana Airlines Boeing 707 which crashed.)

This was our honeymoon flight. We were on our way to Acapulco.

As we approached the airport, we hit some turbulence. I would classify this as moderate turbulence.

The captain asked everyone over the loudspeaker to fasten seat belts. We could tell it was raining. I could see a dark rain cloud through a forward window and I remarked to Judy, "There goes the visibility."

At the same time, I heard the pilot give the plane full power, and the nose started to climb, but we hit three or four seconds later. The tail hit first and broke off. I think maybe the cockpit broke off, too. With our airline backgrounds, we both had our heads on our knees, but the force of the impact, with the seatbelts around our waists, would have doubled us over anyway.

I REALIZED that the plane had stopped and we had to get out, and that my left ankle was caught in something. Something solid slipped down in front of me. I smelled kerosene and realized we might all burn. Then we realized there was a big jagged hole right next to our seats. We started to climb out and a body floated by in the water.

It was the woman who had been sitting next to us. I pulled myself out and fell three feet into hip-deep water. I reached up and helped Judy out. It was not dark yet and we could see an adobe hut about 100 yards away.

"Let's try to get over there," I said, and we started walking with two men. I think we were the first four persons out of the plane.

WHEN WE REACHED the hut I had to

New Board Starts Task

With Buffalo Grove's park district election campaign still fresh in their minds, the five new park district commissioners will meet tonight to begin organizing their new board.

The five commissioners each has his own idea of what must be the first step for the new district.

Val Bettin said yesterday that he considers the turnout as a "mandate from the people" for an improved recreation program. He said the vote showed a "clear decision" for the park district and concluded that the attendance at candidates' nights had been small because "a lot of people obviously made up their minds prior to the meetings."

BETTIN SAID the commissioners will meet tonight to become acquainted. Their first move must be to "sit down and find out what we legally can do," he suggested. Sherwood Zwirn said he is "just delighted" about the election. Zwirn said yesterday that he considers the high number of "yes" votes as an indicator that the "community is taking a positive interest in its betterment."

He said the election is a sign that Buffalo Grove's citizens are becoming "civically aware" and are "more interested in what's going on."

Moreover, Zwirn said, the "unbelievable turnout" is a sign that the village voters are ready for more "affirmative action on other needs of the community."

Zwirn also sees a need for the candidates to "just get together." He said choosing a president and determining the length of the commissioners' terms must be the first order of business.

GENE MURYN is another commissioner who is "pleased and impressed by the turnout." Muryn scheduled the meeting tonight, which will be at his house. He said the board's first goal is "getting organized internally." Muryn explained that he called the meeting "because nobody else has, yet."

Mrs. Dede Armstrong, the only woman elected to the board, said yesterday the park commissioners must "start on a small scale and build on what we have." Mrs. Armstrong said that she is "pleased that the community voted in a park district and honored that I was elected as a commissioner." She noted that the new board must begin by organizing itself and by "finding out how much money we have to work with."

William Kiddle, the fifth commissioner questioned about the new district, said he is "quite pleased with the group of commissioners who were elected."

Kiddle said yesterday that he has "high hopes and great expectations" that the new board will "get the job done."

HE EXPLAINED that the board must now "educate itself and that materials from seminars, copies of state codes, and materials for the previous commission and the village must be distributed to each commissioner."

Board members also plan a meeting Thursday with the village board after tonight's organizational meeting.

Here's An Idea Of Job

In approving the formation of a park district Saturday, Buffalo Grove voters took a step that Wheeling residents took more than eight years ago.

Organized in the winter of 1960, Wheeling's park district had the unique honor one year later of being the only park district in the state without a park.

In spite of that, the district did have a complete program at various Dist. 21 school sites in and at Chamber of Commerce Park.

TO FINANCE ITSELF, the new district took out $8,000 in tax anticipation warrants (TAWs) until taxes began coming in, according to Gene Sackett, the district's first superintendent.

Sackett was hired in March, 1961, to run the district's summer recreation program that year. He is now an elected member of the park board.

At its first meeting following passage of the referendum, the park board appointed Roger Bjorvik as its attorney, drew slips for the length of terms, and appointed a president.

Like the Buffalo Grove Recreation Association, the Wheeling Athletic Association sponsored many of the recreation programs in the village before the park district was formed. It still runs a highly successful baseball program each summer.

Unlike Buffalo Grove, however, Wheeling voters had the additional problem of dis-annexing itself from an existing rural park district before they could form a district. Most of Wheeling east of the Soo Line R.R. tracks was part of that rural district. It took two years to get petitions signed by all of the landowners who wanted to drop out of the rural district.

A SPEAKER FROM the Illinois Association of Park Districts came to Wheeling in 1959 to give information on forming a park district, much as Arthur Schultz did in Buffalo Grove recently.

The district hired its first full-time superintendent, Ferd Arndt, in September, 1966.

Levitt Told: Stop Burning

Levitt and Sons Inc. has been ordered to stop burning trash in Buffalo Grove. In August the village board had granted the builder's request for the burning.

The board voted last week to end the burning after one trustee reported, "they're (Levitt) burning everything." Under the terms of the agreement, Levitt was to burn only light trash such as cardboard boxes.

LEVITT ASKED for the burning privilege because it said hauling the trash away from the construction area would be difficult. Levitt officials also told the board that often the trash, instead of being hauled away, is covered with dirt.

Jaycees Schedule Candidates Night

A candidates night for the 13th District Congressional candidates will be held at 8 p.m. today in the Emmerich Park building in Buffalo Grove.

The event is sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees. The Jaycees, though they endorse no candidates, sponsor such nights to allow candidates to present their views on an equal basis to the public.

George Vrachnos, publicity director for the Jaycees, urged residents to attend tonight's meeting.

Fund Month Is Oct.

Dan Colby, chairman of the Prospect Heights Annual Appeal, has announced that October will be fund month in that area. The fund raising drive, with a goal of $12,500 will begin Oct. 1.

The Prospect Heights Annual Appeal is one of 38 suburban fund drives participating in the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Students Add Foreign Flavor

by SUE CARSON

An international flavor is apparent at Wheeling High School this fall. Several students from countries throughout the world are enrolled at the school.

From South Africa comes Marilyn Janks, who is sponsored by the American Field Service organization. Marilyn is a senior this year.

Marilyn is staying with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Steinman and their family in Prospect Heights. Their daughter, Lynne, is a student at Wheeling High.

NORA VECCHI of Argentina, also a senior, is sponsored by the Wheeling Rotary Club. She is living with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Keene of Wheeling, who have two children enrolled at the high school.

Also enrolled, although not sponsored by any organization, are seniors Paul Greenblatt of England and Grace Yang of the Republic of China and junior Jorge Fernandez of Mexico. The latter three are staying with relatives in the area.

Grace and Jorge are starting their second year at Wheeling High this fall. The others are enrolled for the first time.

What do they think of the classes? Reactions on this topic were varied.

"CLASSES ARE MORE interesting here," commented Marilyn. "Teachers

here encourage their students to think for themselves more so than in South Africa.

"In my country, students are more 'spoon fed' since curriculum is standardized throughout the schools. This is because all students are given the same matriculation exam after 12 years of schooling.

"Also, classes here are more varied. Dramatics, sociology and economics, for example, are university courses in South Africa."

"Classes here are a lot easier than in China," Grace said. "I think it's because teachers in China force students to learn more."

NORA SAID THAT although "I've only been here 20 days, I'm really enjoying it."

Paul and Jorge agreed that classes seem to be easier in the United States than in their respective countries.

"In Mexico, students take more subjects. Eight subjects are offered each day and the classes are rotated during the week, so that not all are offered every day," Jorge explained.

Jorge said his father encouraged him to go to school in this country so he could learn to speak English well. "The only real way to learn a language is to live among the people," he said.

PAUL SAID THE English system of education is harder than the American. He said English students attend school until the age of 11. Then they must pass an examination if they are to attend a grammar school, which will prepare them to enroll in college.

What do they think of American people, particularly students?

Marilyn said she thought American boys seem "young."

"This is probably because South African girls are used to dating boys several years older than they are," she stated. She added that on the whole American students are "more individualistic and less reserved" than South Africans.

Grace said she thought the American boys were more mature than those in her country, but added that Chinese boys were more polite than Americans.

"THE AMERICAN girls are a bit more boisterous than the English ones," commented Paul.

Jorge said that on the whole the American people have been friendly to him. "There are places, though, in the South especially where there are signs saying

"No Negroes or Mexicans allowed," he said.

Plans for the future?

Marilyn will return to South Africa next summer and enroll in a university, where she plans to study dramatics. AFS students from South Africa almost always say they want to visit the United States again, though, and I'll probably feel the same when I return home," she said.

NORA ALSO PLANS to return to school in Argentina when her year in this country is over. "I would like to come back, though," she added.

Grace plans to be around for a while, as she hopes to attend the University of Illinois next fall.

Paul also hopes to attend an American college and perhaps even settle here permanently since, as he puts it, "I think there's more opportunity over here."

Jorge plans to study engineering at the University of Mexico, but "I would be glad to come back," he said.

Report Equipment Taken From School

Approximately $700 to $800 in equipment belonging to Wheeling High School was reported missing by a janitor Thursday.

Stolen from the press box above the bleachers at the football field was a 100-watt amplifier used to broadcast announcements and a switchboard panel which controls the scoreboard.

WHEELING PATROLMAN Clarence Trausch said the theft occurred between Sept. 12 and Sept. 18.

Trausch said the press box was locked following the Wheeling-Maine South football game Sept. 12. He said the burglar used a chisel to enter the box.

Cayce Movie Slated For Randhurst Hall

A movie explaining the current interest in the "Sleeping Prophet," Edgar Cayce, will be shown at the Randhurst Town Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The subject of the movie is an interview with Hugh Lynn Cayce, son of the man considered by some to have been a visionary.

Ed Sloan, chairman of the Chicago Council of ARE, a foundation organized to study Edgar Cayce's life, will discuss the work currently in progress at the group's Virginia Beach, Va., headquarters.

Study groups in the Arlington Heights area are sponsoring the showing of the movie. Admission charge will be $1 to the general public and 50 cents to members of study groups.

Teen Dance Scheduled

A teen dance will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Emerich Park building in Buffalo Grove. The "Long-Time Coming" will play.

Teenagers from the Buffalo Grove area are invited to the event, sponsored by the parks system. Admission to the dance is $1.50.

Two Charged With Theft

Elk Grove police Thursday charged two Arlington Heights youths with theft in connection with a burglary last weekend at a construction site at Gordon and Higgins Road.

Charged were Alan McVicker, 22, of 2315 E. Olive, and Jerry Poyner, 20, of 1227

Emerick Is Pastoral Intern

James Emerick, of Millersburg, Pa., has begun his year as an intern pastor at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 1111 N. Elmhurst Road, in Prospect Heights.

Emerick is a graduate of Gettysburg College in Gettysburg, Pa. He has completed two years at the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago.

FOLLOWING HIS year as an intern pastor at the church, he will return to the seminary for one more year. Upon graduation, he will be ordained.

His wife, Mrs. Laura Emerick, is a teacher at the new Henry Wadsworth Longfellow School in Buffalo Grove.

School Sets Fun Fair

A fun fair, sponsored by the Louisa May Alcott School PTA, will be held Friday at the school, 530 Bernard Drive, Buffalo Grove.

The fair will be held from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. Games and refreshments will be available.

Walsh Backs Schlickman

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Schlickman's experience in local government, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

"Problems of zoning, flooding and elections have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington."

Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other representatives consider too controversial.

"His work in the areas of mental retardation and prison reform are well known and he is one of very few lawmakers to take creative and constructive action on the matter of public aid to nonpublic schools."

Schlickman said he is pleased to have Walsh endorse his candidacy, saying Walsh represents the third largest city in the 13th District.

Ar a meeting of the Des Plaines City Council, Shillington said he would ask his friends in the Elk Grove Township portion of Des Plaines to back Schlickman in the Oct. 7 primary election.

"I have known Gene since I became a municipal official in 1963," Shillington said. "He has become a most efficient and able legislator, concerned with his district. And he is the only state representative or candidate to have shown interest in our problems in Des Plaines."

"He is a man who has known our area and our problems," the alderman said. "We should vote for a man who has done something for us. And I ask, 'What has anyone else done?' The candidate endorsed by the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization has done nothing at all."

Meyer said, "As mayor of Rolling Meadows and as a municipal official for the past nine years, I believe that people who have served at the local level know the needs of the towns better than those who have not."

"Gene Schlickman is the only candidate who has this qualification as well as experience at the state level. I think he can best serve our needs and desires."

He Attends Reunion

John A. Snow, Jr. of Prospect Heights, a 1953 graduate of Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., recently returned to the school for its 45th annual reunion.

Snow was graduated from the School of horsemanship.

On WIU Dean's List

The summer session dean's list at Western Illinois University includes the names of two area students.

They are Lawrence F. Smith of 2812 Bel Aire Drive, Arlington Heights, who is working on his master's degree, and Paul C. Florio of 101 E. Clarendon St., Prospect Heights, a freshman.

Yes, There Will Be Ice Skating

Wheeling's Park Board decided Thursday that there will be ice skating in at least one village park this winter despite work on retention basins for the flood program.

If the Heritage Park rink is unavailable, the park board will provide lighted skating at Chamber of Commerce Park. The board will also try to get Dist. 21 officials to agree to another rink on the east side of the park district, probably at Holmes Junior High School, and one on the west side, probably at Jack London Junior High School or at Mark Twain Elementary School.

The village hopes the ice rink at Heritage Park will be excavated for a retention basin beginning this fall, although work may not be complete in time for skating season.

The board also voted to pursue purchase of an $1,800 skating shelter which can be converted into an open pavilion.

Strike Continues At Ekco's Plant

Pickets continued to march and police continued to patrol the area outside of the Wheeling Ekco Products Co. plant yesterday.

More than 400 members of Local 2125 of the International Association of Machinists are on strike against the Wheeling plant demanding higher wages and additional fringe benefits. The strike is about a month old.

SATURDAY NIGHT A woman picket was treated for minor injuries after she was struck by a car driven by one of the plant's foremen. A witness said she stood in front of the foreman's car and refused to move. No charges were filed. The mishap occurred on the plant's property.

Clerical help and foremen at the plant continue to work.

Police allowed a truck to enter the plant yesterday morning after explaining to pickets that they could not legally stop anyone who wished to enter.

Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

3 Helicopters Downed

SAIGON — New fighting erupted yesterday in the battle-worn Que Son Valley and surrounding area south of Da Nang where the Communists launched assaults that downed three U.S. helicopters and caused 31 American casualties.

Military spokesman said the helicopters were ferrying troops of the 10th Light Infantry brigade into the foothills of the valley just south of Da Nang.

Barricades Removed

LONDONDERRY, NORTHERN IRELAND—Residents of Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside district began dismantling barricades yesterday and replacing them with white lines across the streets.

Troops stood by as eight barricades were removed and members of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association painted the lines without incident.

Local Man Killed in Crash

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexicana Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

Arnold Freise, 1004 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, was unofficially reported killed in the crash.

Information on passengers injured or killed was not available yesterday afternoon from the airlines. Mexican authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

OTHER PASSENGERS from the area who were on the plane were Mrs. Arnold Freise, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clausen, all from Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton from unincorporated Wheeling.

The three Arlington Heights couples were members of Club International, a vacation savings club. They had taken trips together before and were planning to go to Europe next year.

All the Arlington Heights residents are members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The Rev. Robert Bartz, pastor of the church, flew to Mexico City yesterday afternoon.

Freise, 53, was vice president and sales manager for Piepenbrink Movers in Rolling Meadows. He was recently appointed as a director of the Rolling Meadows

Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. He was a former operator of Parkway Liquors, 17 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

AT ST. PETER LUTHERAN Church, Freise was the chairman of the board of elders and chairman of the Lutheran Layman's League.

He is survived by his wife, Verna, and two children, Mrs. Carol Schroeder and Roger, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in California.

Mrs. Freise reportedly helped another crash victim, Mrs. Meyer, out of her chair after the crash. Mrs. Freise was reportedly in a hospital.

Ralph Meyer, a building inspector for the Village of Arlington Heights, was reported missing. His wife, Elizabeth, "Libby," called home to tell her family that she was in the hospital and was all right. She said she didn't know where her husband was. They live at 706 N. Mitchell.

MEYER WAS ON the building committee when St. Peter's built its new church in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausen, 717 S. Evergreen Ave., were reported injured and in a hospital. Clausen used to be an auditor for the church books at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton were reported injured. They were married Saturday and were en route to Acapulco for their honeymoon.

The nonstop flight from Chicago to Mexico City included 118 persons. The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane crashed into a lake about a mile from the end of the runway. While attempting to land, the plane hit the ground and split into three pieces.

Touches Tragedy

(Editor's note: The following account of Sunday's plane crash in Mexico City was written for United Press International by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton, who live at Lamplighter Apartments, 1409 South Wolf in unincorporated Wheeling. Charlton, an industrial engineer for United Air Lines in Chicago, and his wife, Judith, formerly a secretary there, were married Saturday. They were flying to Acapulco for their honeymoon aboard the Mexicana Airlines Boeing 767 which crashed.)

This was our honeymoon flight. We were on our way to Acapulco.

As we approached the airport, we hit some turbulence. I would classify this as moderate turbulence.

The captain asked everyone over the loudspeaker to fasten seat belts. We could tell it was raining. I could see a dark rain cloud through a forward window and I remarked to Judy, "There goes the visibility."

At the same time, I heard the pilot give the plane full power, and the nose started to climb, but we hit three or four seconds later. The tail hit first and broke off. I think maybe the cockpit broke off, too. With our airline backgrounds, we both had our heads on our knees, but the force of the impact, with the seatbelts around our waists, would have doubled us over anyway.

I REALIZED that the plane had stopped and we had to get out, and that my left ankle was caught in something. Something solid slipped down in front of me. I smelled kerosene and realized we might all burn. Then we realized there was a big jagged hole right next to our seats. We started to climb out and a body floated by in the water.

It was the woman who had been sitting next to us. I pulled myself out and fell

Vote Today For Con-Con

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine Townships.

Four of the 16 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislative elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

Local polling places are listed inside today's Herald.

Fewer than 20 per cent of the voters in the state are expected to go to the polls today. Although the number of candidates in the Third District indicates strong interest in the race, the voters themselves have been unresponsive.

ONLY ONE of the state's 58 districts has more candidates than the Third District, and in eight districts, fewer than four candidates are running, eliminating the need for the primary.

There are 475 candidates throughout the state.

This will be the first time in more than 30 years that Illinois has made attempts to rewrite its Constitution. The present document was adopted in 1870 and written at a convention that began Dec. 13, 1869 — five days less than 100 years before this convention will open.

CANDIDATES, in the order their names will appear on the ballot, are:

— Wilfred L. Robbins, 1808 W. Pheasant Trail, Mount Prospect.
— Robert A. Bush, 726 Dempster Street, Mount Prospect.

— Annis F. Bush, 107 E. Council Trail, Mount Prospect.

— Mary J. Carlson, 207 E. School Lane, Prospect Heights.

— Lester A. Bonaguro, 327 S. Forrest Ave., Arlington Heights.

— Douglas R. Cannon, 8 N. Louis Street, Mount Prospect.

— Eugene L. Griffin, 603 Thorntree Terrace, Arlington Heights.

— Thomas J. Johnson, 98 Hawthorne Road, Barrington.

— Donald F. Colby, 38 Glenbrook Drive, Prospect Heights.

— William R. Engelhardt, 416 N. Inverway Road, Inverness.

— John G. Woods, 214 S. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights.

— Virginia B. Macdonald, 515 S. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights.

— Winn C. Davidson, 649 N. Clark Drive, Palatine.

— Madeline Schroeder, 1923 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights.

— LeMoine D. Stitt, 501 N. Inverway Road, Inverness.

— Samuel A. LaSusa, 357 Roberts Road, Barrington.

Council Sets First Meeting

Palatine's Community Council will hold its first fall meeting tomorrow evening in the village hall.

Composed of more than 30 local community organizations, the council will discuss coming projects. Scheduled for discussion tomorrow night is a proposed facility for the Palatine Historical Society.

FRANCES REGAN, past president of the historical group, will give a presentation about finding a permanent home for the society and ask for the council's support.

Also scheduled for discussion is support of a fund-raising campaign for the Palatine Village Band. The money would go toward payment of the bandshell which was put into use during the summer concerts. The council's meeting begins at 8 p.m.

Split Sessions To End

Split sessions at Virginia Lake School, Palatine, will end Monday, Oct. 6, when students assigned to Lake Louise School will move to their own building.

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Elementary Dist. 15 administrators say the contractor, Kiendl Construction Co., will be done with the building and site gradings by the Oct. 1 deadline set by the district in late August.

"We will be moving textbooks, supplies and equipment from Virginia Lake School to Lake Louise School as soon as the afternoon session is over Friday, Oct. 3," Dist. 15 Supt. E. S. Castor says.

A SCHOOL DISTRICT maintenance crew is already in the building cleaning floors and setting up furniture. "The second floor is complete and ready for the children," Castor said.

By waiting until Oct. 6 to begin classes in the new building, children will not miss class days and the district will have time to get the building ready for school.

"We would have to move all the textbooks and materials in one night if we moved the children in Oct. 1," Castor said.

Teachers will have the weekend to get their rooms ready. "The transition will be as smooth as possible. I don't think it will be difficult."

Administrative personnel will begin moving into the Lake Louise School office next week.

"WE WON'T HAVE access to the basement or the multi-purpose room yet. The classroom wing and the office area will be occupied, though," Castor said.

An inspection of the building by Joe Kiszka, assistant superintendent, yesterday morning showed that ceiling tile, one of the materials which prevented completion of the building by the opening day of school in September, has been installed in the academic wing. The ceiling grid which holds the tile is being installed in the main entrance and the office this week.

Grading for the blacktop playground and parking lot will be finished next week.

"We expect to have the blacktop poured by next Thursday," Kiszka said.

FURNITURE FOR THE building has been delivered and is being stored in other schools until it is needed. As the contractors move out of the academic wing and the office, we begin moving in," Kiszka says.

A newsletter explaining schedule changes, bus routes, and lunch program will be sent to parents of students in both Lake Louise and Virginia Lake schools next week.

Woman's Club Seeking Names of Vietnam GIs

The names of local servicemen stationed in Vietnam are sought by the Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club.

Church Projects New Attitude

by MARK COHEN

Designed to comply with the religious changes instituted by the Vatican II Council, the newly constructed St. Thomas of Villanova Church of Palatine projects new attitudes in Catholicism.

Cut into a stone wall behind the altar is a three-dimensional resurrected Christ. A departure from the crucifixion, it marks a new trend in Catholic ideology.

The natural cut stone altar is so placed to allow the priest to face the congregation as he conducts the mass.

THE TABERNACLE IS removed from the sanctuary in a Blessed Sacrament Chapel that beams an almost monastic reverence.

The new church, at William and Anderson drives, will cost $434,000. Designed by the Chicago architectural firm of James R. Cronin and Associates, it will seat over 1,100 people.

The seats radiate out from the altar in a pie shape, allowing parishioners to sit closer to the priest. In the common rectilinear plan, the rows usually would stretch out over 120 feet isolating worshippers in the back of the church. Here, everyone is brought within sixty feet of the altar.

Blue tinted glass windows and deep blue carpeting create a mystic and devotional atmosphere. Conforming to the religious function of the floor plan, the walls are staggered to allow light to enter the building at an angle adding to the sense of mystery.

THE CLINKER BRICK walls heighten the monastic feeling of the structure.

A triangular skylight captures the natural light, casting its rays upon the cut stone altar. For the Catholic, this signifies the light of Christ's sacrifice to man.

The dedication of the church next Sunday will end nine years of parish struggle for their own house of worship. In 1961, when the parish was first established, Mass was held at the Winston Park School on Palatine Road.

Since 1963 services have been held in a hall built to house six classrooms. The sterile hall was transformed into a wood-paneled, carpeted sanctuary where parishioners prayed.

ACCORDING TO SISTER Patricia Ann of the St. Thomas of Villanova School, the new church could provide the needed room for 1,500 first and second grade students who have been unable to attend the school because of lack of room.

However, no decision has been made on what to do with the additional space.

Sister Patricia Ann suggested that the hall might be used for a needed library or perhaps to house the teacher training program.

She said the new church will heighten religious activity within the parish, serving as a center of religious life to the Catholic community.

To the children of St. Thomas, "it provides a place to hold liturgical services and a chapel where they can go to pray during their free moments," the Sister said.

In front of the church stands a stone sculpture of the Spanish archbishop, St. Thomas of Villanova, the church's patron saint. With coin in one hand he stands as a symbol of concern for the poor. His presence adds an archaic touch to the church that represents major changes in the Catholic world.

3 Children Hurt

An 82-year-old man, in an attempt to elude police, ran over three children playing on the lawn of a Palatine apartment complex last night, according to Palatine police.

The driver, identified by police as Ernest G. Hanna, 2310 Lakeshore Drive, Cary, has been charged with speeding, eluding a police officer, reckless driving and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident.

The children were identified as 2-year-old Christopher Gillan, 225 S. Rohlwing Road, who suffered a fractured skull and leg; his brother, Thomas Gillan, 6, who was taken to the hospital and later released, and 6-year-old Julie Anne Paulsen, who suffered a fractured spine.

THE PAULSEN CHILD and Gillan were hospitalized at Northwest Community Hospital. All are from the same address, police said.

Investigating officers James Baran and Lt. Harold Nehmzow said Hanna was southbound on Rohlwing Road when he was clocked on radar going 15 miles an hour over the speed limit. When the squad car pulled out behind Hanna and the lights were turned on, Hanna speeded up and turned into the parking lot of Willow Creek Apartments at Rohlwing and Route 14 where the children lived, according to police.

"Apparently the driver tried to hide his car among those in the parking lot," Nehmzow told the Herald.

The squad car turned into the lot and Baran found the Hanna vehicle and approached it. The police officer took a driver's license from Hanna and, while he was reading it, the car pulled away again, he said.

Police said the car ran over a curb and cut across a lawn where about 10 or 15 children were playing.

The vehicle hit the children, went around the building and again turned southbound on Rohlwing.

"At this time he came to a halt," Nehmzow said, "because of two flat tires. He got out of the car and went toward the apartment building."

At this point, police said, Hanna's grandson, Ronald O. Denz, came out of the apartments and told police that Hanna was with him.

Police arrested Hanna and placed charges against him at the Palatine Police Department.

Tell Tragedy

three feet into hip-deep water. I reached up and helped Judy out. It was not dark yet and we could see an adobe hut about 100 yards away.

"Let's try to get over there," I said, and we started walking with two men. I think we were the first four persons out of the plane.

WHEN WE REACHED the hut I had to lay down. I was bleeding heavily from a wound in the forehead. Judy and the other two men had to help me walk. Then somebody told us we were going the wrong way, and we should walk toward some car headlights. So we went back the way we came, but couldn't get out that way, and had to go back by the original route again.

An ambulance pulled up, and they put me on a stretcher, took me to an aid station, and then to the American Hospital.

Said Judy: The plane began to shake, and then we hit the ground. Either the ceiling came down or the floor came up because we were sandwiched between two layers of steel.

THERE WAS ABSOLUTE silence for about 15 seconds, and then people began to scream. There was broken glass, water, dirt and the smell of kerosene everywhere. All I could think of was fire. I thought the plane would be enveloped in fire any moment.

There were bodies floating in the water.

We started for this mud hut, and as I looked back I could see the other passengers just standing around the plane, and I remember thinking, "They mustn't just stand there, they must get as far away as they can because there might be a fire." But there was nothing I could do. It seemed like about 20 minutes before anyone arrived to help.

Dundee Is Closed

Dundee Road, also Route 68, Elia to Barrington roads will be closed this morning at 8:30 a.m. It will re-open by midnight of Sept. 25.

The road will be closed for emergency repair work which includes repaving of three sections of the highway, according to officials of the state highway department.

An alternate route will be marked at each end of the closed area of Dundee Road. The detour stretches from Elia Road south to Palatine Road, then west to Barrington Road and north to Dundee.

Consultant Speaks

Central Road School Parent Teachers' Association, Rolling Meadows, will hear Mrs. Joann Broz, testing consultant for Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, speak on the Stanine method of reporting group test scores at its meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the school.

Mrs. Carl Couve, president, will introduce the PTA board and Robert Anderson, school principal, will present the teaching staff.

The evening program will also include Phyllis Diller's PTA filmstrip, "What the PTA Is All About."

Book Club Will Meet

The Palatine Book Review Club will hold its first luncheon meeting of the season today at Uncle Andy's Cow Palace.

"Jennie" by Ralph Martin will be reviewed by Mrs. Merlin Berry.

With the start of a new season, group has room for more members. Interested persons should call Mrs. John Murphy at 358-3668 or Mrs. Michael Radigan at 358-4764.

Walsh Backs Schlickman

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Scratches, Burns Select Officers

Upcoming projects and election of officers was on the agenda for the Scratches and Burns 4-H Club at its September meeting.

Sandra La Mountain was elected president of the club. Other officers elected were Ted Frey as vice president, Kathy Lytner as secretary, Teri Teasdale as treasurer, Tom Frey as reporter, Toby Frey as historian, and Maria Rechter and Mark Scalapone as recreation leaders.

In conjunction with National 4-H Club Week Oct. 4 through 11, the club will participate in the Cook County 4-H club window display contest. A service project of the club will be older members helping with the handicapped swim program at the YMCA in Des Plaines.

The Scratches and Burns softball team has played the Cherokees and Evergreen Elms 4-H clubs in softball games. Next game is Oct. 5 at the north Cook County 4-H picnic to be held at Deer Grove Forest Preserve in Palatine.

The club's next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 10 at the home of Janine Nelson, 513 Stuart Lane, Palatine.

Leisure Club Goes

To The Shady Lane

Members of the Palatine Leisure Club went on an outing Sept. 10, to Shady Lane for lunch and to see the stage play "Twin Beds."

Traveling by bus, the group left at 10 a.m. and returned in late afternoon. Palatine Park District Recreation Director Tony DiCello arranged the outing.

Fall activities of the Leisure Club include another outing and election of officers at the Sept. 23 meeting. The group meets at 11 a.m. on the second and fourth Tuesdays at the Palatine Savings and Loan Bank.

ment, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

"Problems of zoning, flooding and elections have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington."

Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other representatives consider too controversial.

"His work in the areas of mental retardation and prison reform are well known and he is one of very few lawmakers to take creative and constructive action on the matter of public aid to nonpublic schools."

Schlickman said he is pleased to have Walsh endorse his candidacy, saying Walsh represents the third largest city in the 13th District.

At a meeting of the Des Plaines City Council, Shillington said he would ask his friends in the Elk Grove Township portion of Des Plaines to back Schlickman in the Oct. 7 primary election.

"I have known Gene since I became a municipal official in 1963," Shillington said. "He has become a most efficient and able legislator, concerned with his district. And he is the only state representative or candidate to have shown interest in our problems in Des Plaines."

"He is a man who has known our area and our problems," the alderman said. "We should vote for a man who has done something for us. And I ask, 'What has anyone else done?' The candidate endorsed by the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization has done nothing at all."

Meyer said, "As mayor of Rolling Meadows and as a municipal official for the past nine years, I believe that people who have served at the local level know the needs of the towns better than those who have not."

"Gene Schlickman is the only candidate who has this qualification as well as experience at the state level. I think he can best serve our needs and desires."

Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

3 Helicopters Downed

SAIGON — New fighting erupted yesterday in the battle-worn Que Son Valley and surrounding area south of Da Nang where the Communists launched assaults that downed three U.S. helicopters and caused 31 American casualties.

Military spokesman said the helicopters were ferrying troops of the 196th Light Infantry brigade into the foothills of the valley just south of Da Nang.

Barricades Removed

LONDONDERRY, NORTHERN IRELAND—Residents of Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside district began dismantling barricades yesterday and replacing them with white lines across the streets.

Troops stood by as eight barricades were removed and members of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association painted the lines without incident.

Split Sessions To End

Split sessions at Virginia Lake School, Palatine, will end Monday, Oct. 6, when students assigned to Lake Louise School will move to their own building.

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Elementary Dist. 15 administrators say the contractor, Kienit Construction Co., will be done with the building and site gradings by the Oct. 1 deadline set by the district in late August.

"We will be moving textbooks, supplies and equipment from Virginia Lake School to Lake Louise School as soon as the afternoon session is over Friday, Oct. 3," Dist. 15 Supt. E. S. Castor says.

A SCHOOL DISTRICT maintenance crew is already in the building cleaning floors and setting up furniture. "The second floor is complete and ready for the children," Castor said.

By waiting until Oct. 6 to begin classes in the new building, children will not miss class days and the district will have time to get the building ready for school.

"We would have to move all the textbooks and materials in one night if we

Local Man Killed in Crash

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexicana Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

Arnold Freise, 1004 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, was unofficially reported killed in the crash.

Information on passengers injured or killed was not available yesterday afternoon from the airlines. Mexican authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

OTHER PASSENGERS from the area who were on the plane were Mrs. Arnold Freise, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clausen, all from Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton from unincorporated Wheeling.

The three Arlington Heights couples were members of Club International, a vacation savings club. They had taken trips together before and were planning to go to Europe next year.

All the Arlington Heights residents are members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The Rev. Robert Bartz, pastor of the church, flew to Mexico City yesterday afternoon.

Freise, 53, was vice president and sales manager for Piepenbrink Movers in Rolling Meadows. He was recently appointed as a director of the Rolling Meadows

Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. He was a former operator of Parkway Liquors, 17 E. Catapell, Arlington Heights.

AT ST. PETER LUTHERAN Church, Freise was the chairman of the board of elders and chairman of the Lutheran Layman's League.

He is survived by his wife, Verna, and two children, Mrs. Carol Schroeder and Roger, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in California.

Mrs. Freise reportedly helped another crash victim, Mrs. Meyer, out of her chair after the crash. Mrs. Freise was reportedly in a hospital.

Ralph Meyer, a building inspector for the Village of Arlington Heights, was reported missing. His wife, Elizabeth, "Libby," called home to tell her family that she was in the hospital and was all right. She said she didn't know where her husband was. They live at 706 N. Mitchell.

MEYER WAS ON the building committee when St. Peter's built its new church in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausen, 717 S. Evergreen Ave., were reported injured and in a hospital. Clausen used to be an auditor for the church books at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton were reported injured. They were married Saturday and were en route to Acapulco for their honeymoon.

The nonstop flight from Chicago to Mexico City included 118 persons. The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane crashed into a lake about a mile from the end of the runway. While attempting to land, the plane hit the ground and split into three pieces.

Touches Tragedy

(Editor's note: The following account of Sunday's plane crash in Mexico City was written for United Press International by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton, who live at Lamplighter Apartments, 1409 South Wolf in unincorporated Wheeling, Charlton, an industrial engineer for United Air Lines in Chicago, and his wife, Judith, formerly a secretary there, were married Saturday. They were flying to Acapulco for their honeymoon aboard the Mexicana Airlines Boeing 707 which crashed.)

This was our honeymoon flight. We were on our way to Acapulco.

As we approached the airport, we hit some turbulence. I would classify this as moderate turbulence.

The captain asked everyone over the loudspeaker to fasten seat belts. We could tell it was raining. I could see a dark rain cloud through a forward window and I remarked to Judy, "There goes the visibility."

At the same time, I heard the pilot give the plane full power, and the nose started to climb, but we hit three or four seconds later. The tail hit first and broke off. I think maybe the cockpit broke off, too. With our airline backgrounds, we both had our heads on our knees, but the force of the impact, with the seatbelts around our waists, would have doubled us over anyway.

I REALIZED that the plane had stopped and we had to get out, and that my left ankle was caught in something. Something solid slipped down in front of me. I smelled kerosene and realized we might all burn. Then we realized there was a big jagged hole right next to our seats. We started to climb out and a body floated by in the water.

It was the woman who had been sitting next to us. I pulled myself out and fell

Vote Today For Con-Con

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine Townships.

Four of the 16 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislature elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

Local polling places are listed inside today's Herald.

Fewer than 20 per cent of the voters in the state are expected to go to the polls today. Although the number of candidates in the Third District indicates strong interest in the race, the voters themselves have been unresponsive.

ONLY ONE of the state's 58 districts has more candidates than the Third District, and in eight districts, fewer than four candidates are running, eliminating the need for the primary.

There are 475 candidates throughout the state.

This will be the first time in more than 30 years that Illinois has made attempts to rewrite its Constitution. The present document was adopted in 1870 and written at a convention that began Dec. 13, 1869 — five days less than 100 years before this convention will open.

CANDIDATES, in the order their names will appear on the ballot, are:

— Wilfred L. Robbins, 1808 W. Pheasant Trail, Mount Prospect.
— Robert A. Bush, 726 Dempster Street, Mount Prospect.

— Annis F. Bush, 107 E. Council Trail, Mount Prospect.

— Mary J. Carlson, 207 E. School Lane, Prospect Heights.

— Lester A. Bonaguro, 327 S. Forrest Ave., Arlington Heights.

— Douglas R. Cannon, 8 N. Louis Street, Mount Prospect.

— Eugene L. Griffin, 603 Thorntree Terrace, Arlington Heights.

— Thomas J. Johnson, 98 Hawthorne Road, Barrington.

— Donald F. Colby, 33 Glenbrook Drive, Prospect Heights.

— William R. Engelhardt, 416 N. Inverway Road, Inverness.

— John G. Woods, 214 S. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights.

— Virginia B. Macdonald, 515 S. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights.

— Winn C. Davidson, 649 N. Clark Drive, Palatine.

— Madeline Schroeder, 1923 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights.

— LeMoine D. Stitt, 501 N. Inverway Road, Inverness.

— Samuel A. LaSusa, 357 Roberts Road, Barrington.

Council Sets First Meeting

Palatine's Community Council will hold its first fall meeting tomorrow evening in the village hall.

Composed of more than 30 local community organizations, the council will discuss coming projects. Scheduled for discussion tomorrow night is a proposed facility for the Palatine Historical Society.

FRANCES REGAN, past president of the historical group, will give a presentation about finding a permanent home for the society and ask for the council's support.

Also scheduled for discussion is support of a fund-raising campaign for the Palatine Village Band. The money would go toward payment of the bandshell which was put into use during the summer concerts. The council's meeting begins at 8 p.m.

Church Projects New Attitude

by MARK COHEN

Designed to comply with the religious changes instituted by the Vatican II Council, the newly constructed St. Thomas of Villanova Church of Palatine projects new attitudes in Catholicism.

Cut into a stone wall behind the altar is a three-dimensional resurrected Christ. A departure from the crucifixion, it marks a new trend in Catholic ideology.

The natural cut stone altar is so placed to allow the priest to face the congregation as he conducts the mass.

THE TABERNACLE IS removed from the sanctuary in a Blessed Sacrament Chapel that beams an almost monastic reverence.

The new church, at William and Anderson drives, will cost $434,000. Designed by the Chicago architectural firm of James R. Cronin and Associates, it will seat over 1,100 people.

The seats radiate out from the altar in a pie shape, allowing parishioners to sit closer to the priest. In the common rectilinear plan, the rows usually would stretch out over 120 feet isolating worshippers in the back of the church. Here, everyone is brought within sixty feet of the altar.

Blue tinted glass windows and deep blue carpeting create a mystic and devotional atmosphere. Conforming to the religious function of the floor plan, the walls are staggered to allow light to enter the building at an angle adding to the sense of mystery.

THE CLINKER BRICK walls heighten the monastic feeling of the structure.

A triangular skylight captures the natural light, casting its rays upon the cut stone altar. For the Catholic, this signifies the light of Christ's sacrifice to man.

The dedication of the church next Sunday will end nine years of parish struggle for their own house of worship. In 1961, when the parish was first established, Mass was held at the Winston Park School on Palatine Road.

Since 1963 services have been held in a hall built to house six classrooms. The sterile hall was transformed into a wood-paneled, carpeted sanctuary where parishioners prayed.

ACCORDING TO SISTER Patricia Ann of the St. Thomas of Villanova School, the new church could provide the needed room for 1,500 first and second grade students who have been unable to attend the school because of lack of room.

However, no decision has been made on what to do with the additional space.

Sister Patricia Ann suggested that the hall might be used for a needed library or perhaps to house the teacher training program.

She said the new church will heighten religious activity within the parish, serving as a center of religious life to the Catholic community.

To the children of St. Thomas, "it provides a place to hold liturgical services and a chapel where they can go to pray during their free moments," the Sister said.

In front of the church stands a stone sculpture of the Spanish archbishop, St. Thomas of Villanova, the church's patron saint. With coin in one hand he stands as a symbol of concern for the poor. His presence adds an archaic touch to the church that represents major changes in the Catholic world.

3 Children Hurt

An 82-year-old man, in an attempt to elude police, ran over three children playing on the lawn of a Palatine apartment complex last night, according to Palatine police.

The driver, identified by police as Ernest G. Hanna, 2310 Lakeshore Drive, Cary, has been charged with speeding, eluding a police officer, reckless driving and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident.

The children were identified as 2-year-old Christopher Gillan, 225 S. Rohlwing Road, who suffered a fractured skull and leg; his brother, Thomas Gillan, 6, who was taken to the hospital and later released, and 6-year-old Julie Anne Paulsen, who suffered a fractured spine.

THE PAULSEN CHILD and Gillan were hospitalized at Northwest Community Hospital. All are from the same address, police said.

Investigating officers James Baran and Lt. Harold Nehmzow said Hanna was southbound on Rohlwing Road when he was clocked on radar going 15 miles an hour over the speed limit. When the squad car pulled out behind Hanna and the lights were turned on, Hanna sped up and turned into the parking lot of Willow Creek Apartments at Rohlwing and Route 14 where the children lived, according to police.

"Apparently the driver tried to hide his car among those in the parking lot," Nehmzow told the Herald.

The squad car turned into the lot and Baran found the Hanna vehicle and approached it. The police officer took a driver's license from Hanna and, while he was reading it, the car pulled away again, he said.

Police said the car ran over a curb and cut across a lawn where about 10 or 15 children were playing.

The vehicle hit the children, went around the building and again turned southbound on Rohlwing.

"At this time he came to a halt," Nehmzow said, "because of two flat tires. He got out of the car and went toward the apartment building."

At this point, police said, Hanna's grandson, Ronald O. Denz, came out of the apartments and told police that Hanna was with him.

Police arrested Hanna and placed charges against him at the Palatine Police Department.

Tell Tragedy

three feet into hip-deep water. I reached up and helped Judy out. It was not dark yet and we could see an adobe hut about 100 yards away.

"Let's try to get over there," I said, and we started walking toward two men. I think we were the first four persons out of the plane.

WHEN WE REACHED the hut I had to lay down. I was bleeding heavily from a wound in the forehead. Judy and the other two men had to help me walk. Then somebody told us we were going the wrong way, and we should walk toward some car headlights. So we went back the way we came, but couldn't get out that way, and had to go back by the original route again. An ambulance pulled up, and they put me on a stretcher, took me to an aid station, and then to the American Hospital.

Said Judy: The plane began to shake, and then we hit the ground. Either the ceiling came down or the floor came up because we were sandwiched between two layers of steel.

THERE WAS ABSOLUTE silence for about 15 seconds, and then people began to scream. There was broken glass, water, dirt and the smell of kerosene everywhere. All I could think of was fire. I thought the plane would be enveloped in fire any moment.

There were bodies floating in the water. We started for this mud hut, and as I looked back I could see the other passengers just standing around the plane, and I remember thinking, 'They mustn't just stand there, they must get as far away as they can because there might be a fire.' But there was nothing I could do. It seemed like about 20 minutes before anyone arrived to help.

Dundee Is Closed

Dundee Road, also Route 68, Elia to Barrington roads will be closed this morning at 8:30 a.m. It will re-open by midnight of Sept. 25.

The road will be closed for emergency repair work which includes repaving of three sections of the highway, according to officials of the state highway department.

An alternate route will be marked at each end of the closed area of Dundee Road. The detour stretches from Elia Road south to Palatine Road, then west to Barrington Road and north to Dundee.

Consultant Speaks

Central Road School Parent Teachers' Association, Rolling Meadows, will hear Mrs. Joann Broz, testing consultant for Palatine-Rolling Meadows District 15, speak on the Stanine method of reporting group test scores at its meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the school.

Mrs. Carl Couve, president, will introduce the PTA board and Robert Anderson, school principal, will present the teaching staff.

The evening program will also include Phyllis Diller's PTA filmstrip, "What the PTA Is All About."

Book Club Will Meet

The Palatine Book Review Club will hold its first luncheon meeting of the season today at Uncle Andy's Cow Palace.

"Jeanie" by Ralph Martin will be reviewed by Mrs. Merlin Berry.

With the start of a new season, group has room for more members. Interested persons should call Mrs. John Murphy at 358-3668 or Mrs. Michael Radigan at 358-4764.

Walsh Backs Schlickman

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Schlickman's experience in local government, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

"Problems of zoning, flooding and elections have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington."

Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other representatives consider too controversial.

"His work in the areas of mental retardation and prison reform are well known and he is one of very few lawmakers to take creative and constructive action on the matter of public aid to nonpublic schools."

Schlickman said he is pleased to have Walsh endorse his candidacy, saying Walsh represents the third largest city in the 13th District.

Ar a meeting of the Des Plaines City Council, Shillington said he would ask his friends in the Elk Grove Township portion of Des Plaines to back Schlickman in the Oct. 7 primary election.

"I have known Gene since I became a municipal official in 1963," Shillington said. "He has become a most efficient and able legislator, concerned with his district. And he is the only state representative or candidate to have shown interest in our problems in Des Plaines."

"He is a man who has known our area and our problems," the alderman said. "We should vote for a man who has done something for us. And I ask, 'What has anyone else done?' The candidate endorsed by the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization has done nothing at all."

Meyer said, "As mayor of Rolling Meadows and as a municipal official for the past nine years, I believe that people who have served at the local level know the needs of the towns better than those who have not."

"Gene Schlickman is the only candidate who has this qualification as well as experience at the state level. I think he can best serve our needs and desires."

Scratches, Burns Select Officers

Upcoming projects and election of officers was on the agenda for the Scratches and Burns 4-H Club at its September meeting.

Sandra La Mountain was elected president of the club. Other officers elected were Ted Frey as vice president, Kathy Lytner as secretary, Teri Teasdale as treasurer, Tom Frey as reporter, Toby Frey as historian, and Maria Rechter and Mark Scalpone as recreation leaders.

In conjunction with National 4-H Club Week Oct. 4 through 11, the club will participate in the Cook County 4-H club window display contest. A service project of the club will be older members helping with the handicapped swim program at the YMCA in Des Plaines.

The Scratches and Burns softball team has played the Cherokees and Evergreen Elms 4-H clubs in softball games. Next game is Oct. 5 at the north Cook County 4-H picnic to be held at Deer Grove Forest Preserve in Palatine.

The club's next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 10 at the home of Janine Nelson, 513 Stuart Lane, Palatine.

Leisure Club Goes To The Shady Lane

Members of the Palatine Leisure Club went on an outing Sept. 10, to Shady Lane for lunch and to see the stage play "Twin Beds."

Traveling by bus, the group left at 10 a.m. and returned in late afternoon. Palatine Park District Recreation Director Tony DiCello arranged the outing.

Fall activities of the Leisure Club include another outing and election of officers at the Sept. 23 meeting. The group meets at 11 a.m. on the second and fourth Tuesdays at the Palatine Savings and Loan Bank.

Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

3 Helicopters Downed

SAIGON — New fighting erupted yesterday in the battle-worn Que Son Valley and surrounding area south of Da Nang where the Communists launched assaults that downed three U.S. helicopters and caused 31 American casualties.

Military spokesman said the helicopters were ferrying troops of the 196th Light Infantry brigade into the foothills of the valley just south of Da Nang.

Barricades Removed

LONDONDERRY, NORTHERN IRELAND—Residents of Londonderry's Roman Catholic Ragside district began dismantling barricades yesterday and replacing them with white lines across the streets.

Troops stood by as eight barricades were removed and members of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association painted the lines without incident.

Con-Con Voting Today

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine Townships.

Four of the 16 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislature elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

MRS. RONALD FOURNIER of 595 Birchwood, Elk Grove Village, recently gave a demonstration before Salt Creek School students on how to make a tissue paper collage. A member of the Des Plaines Art Guild, Mrs. Fournier is giving demonstrations in all Dist. 59 schools. She will be at Robert Frost School today.

Local Man Killed in Crash

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexicana Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

Arnold Freise, 1004 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, was unofficially reported killed in the crash.

Information on passengers injured or killed was not available yesterday afternoon from the airlines. Mexican authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

OTHER PASSENGERS from the area who were on the plane were Mrs. Arnold Freise, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clausung, all from Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton from unincorporated Wheeling.

The three Arlington Heights couples were members of Club International, a vacation savings club. They had taken trips together before and were planning to go to Europe next year.

All the Arlington Heights residents are members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The Rev. Robert Bartz, pastor of the church, flew to Mexico City yesterday afternoon.

Freise, 53, was vice president and sales manager for Piepenbrink Movers in Rolling Meadows. He was recently appointed as a director of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. He was a former operator of Parkway Liquors, 17 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

AT ST. PETER LUTHERAN Church, Freise was the chairman of the board of elders and chairman of the Lutheran Layman's League.

He is survived by his wife, Verna, and two children, Mrs. Carol Schroeder and Roger, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in California.

Mrs. Freise reportedly helped another crash victim, Mrs. Meyer, out of her chair after the crash. Mrs. Freise was reportedly in a hospital.

Ralph Meyer, a building inspector for the Village of Arlington Heights, was reported missing. His wife, Elizabeth, "Libby," called home to tell her family that she was in the hospital and was all right. She said she didn't know where her husband was. They live at 706 N. Mitchell.

MEYER WAS ON the building committee when St. Peter's built its new church in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausung, 717 S. Evergreen Ave., were reported injured and in a hospital. Clausung used to be an auditor for the church books at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton were reported injured. They were married Saturday and were en route to Acapulco for their honeymoon.

The nonstop flight from Chicago to Mexico City included 118 persons. The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane crashed into a lake about a mile from the end of the runway. While attempting to land, the plane hit the ground and split into three pieces.

Touches Tragedy

(Editor's note: The following account of Sunday's plane crash in Mexico City was written for United Press International by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton, who live at Lamplighter Apartments, 1409 South Wolf in unincorporated Wheeling. Charlton, an industrial engineer for United Air Lines in Chicago, and his wife, Judith, formerly a secretary there, were married Saturday. They were flying to Acapulco for their honeymoon aboard the Mexicana Airlines Boeing 707 which crashed.)

This was our honeymoon flight. We were on our way to Acapulco.

As we approached the airport, we hit some turbulence. I would classify this as moderate turbulence.

The captain asked everyone over the loudspeaker to fasten seat belts. We could tell it was raining. I could see a dark rain cloud through a forward window and I remarked to Judy, "There goes the visibility."

At the same time, I heard the pilot give the plane full power, and the nose started to climb, but we hit three or four seconds later. The tail hit first and broke off. I think maybe the cockpit broke off, too. With our airline backgrounds, we both had our heads on our knees, but the force of the impact, with the seatbelts around our waists, would have doubled us over anyway.

I REALIZED that the plane had stopped and we had to get out, and that my left

Fun Fair Is Oct. 4

A fun fair, sponsored by the Westbrook School PTA, will be held from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 4 at the school.

The fair, called "Wild Westbrook Day," will feature pony rides, antique car rides, bean bag tosses and a variety of games.

Tickets for fair will be made available at the school Wednesday and also Oct. 1 at 3:30 p.m. They may also be purchased at the fair. If it rains, the games will be moved inside the school.

Park-Youth Gap Closes

by GERRY DeZONNA

Mount Prospect came one step closer Saturday to cleaning up the communication gap and controversy over student activities at Weller Creek near Council Trail and the Mount Prospect Country Club.

Representatives from the village administration, park district and youth commission met for a round-table discussion with residents and students to find a solution to "teenage rowdiness" at the Weller Creek park site.

The meeting was called by Mayor Robert Teichert following complaints from residents who charged students were misbehaving on park district property, as well as abusing the privileges for which the park is intended. They complained the "large student gatherings" at the Weller Creek site resulted in personal property damage and invasion of privacy.

THE STUDENTS APPEALED to the village board last month for equal time and an opportunity to cooperate with village officials and residents in seeking some solution to the problem and understanding for the students who have no place to meet with their friends.

Saturday's meeting heralded one solid suggestion from Robert Jackson, chairman of the park board, who will investigate the possibilities of opening a youth center at the Mount Prospect Country Club for the students.

"We all realize that there's been a problem at Weller Creek, but closing the park and prohibiting students to use the park as a meeting place is not the solution to the problem. These students have a very good point. Where can they go in town to meet as a group?" Jackson asked.

"I'm all in favor of opening the community center for youth activities. If we can give them the facilities and the opportunity to plan the social activities that they want, then I think this is a big step in solving the problem."

"WE'RE GOING TO TRY as soon as possible to open the community center to these students, but it will take some time, unfortunately. We have to find someone to supervise the building and then there'll be some juggling of the schedule. The community center is used almost 100 per cent of the time, which will present a small scheduling problem," Jackson said.

ankle was caught in something. Something solid slipped down in front of me. I smelled kerosene and realized we might all burn. Then we realized there was a big jagged hole right next to our seats. We started to climb out and a body floated by in the water.

It was the woman who had been sitting next to us. I pulled myself out and fell three feet into hip-deep water. I reached up and helped Judy out. It was not dark yet and we could see an adobe hut about 100 yards away.

"Let's try to get over there," I said, and we started walking with two men. I think we were the first four persons out of the plane.

WHEN WE REACHED the hut I had to lay down. I was bleeding heavily from a wound in the forehead. Judy and the other two men had to help me walk. Then somebody told us we were going the wrong way, and we should walk toward some car headlights. So we went back the way we came, but couldn't get out that way, and had to go back by the original route again.

An ambulance pulled up, and they put me on a stretcher, took me to an aid station, and then to the American Hospital.

Said Judy: The plane began to shake, and then we hit the ground. Either the ceiling came down or the floor came up because we were sandwiched between two layers of steel.

THERE WAS ABSOLUTE silence for about 15 seconds, and then people began to scream. There was broken glass, water, dirt and the smell of kerosene everywhere. All I could think of was fire. I thought the plane would be enveloped in fire any moment.

There were bodies floating in the water. We started for this mud hut, and as I looked back I could see the other passengers just standing around the plane, and I remember thinking, "They mustn't just stand there, they must get as far away as they can because there might be a fire." But there was nothing I could do. It seemed like about 20 minutes before anyone arrived to help.

Jackson and Paul Caldwell, assistant superintendent of parks and recreation, told the commission that the parks would not be closed at night because there's been trouble at the Weller Creek site.

"The parks are open 24 hours and this is the way it should be. If you want to take a walk in the park at 2 a.m., then you should have that right. It would be like telling people to get off the streets by 10 p.m. to avoid any trouble, rowdiness or accidents. It's just not right and park district property isn't any different," Jackson said.

"We all agree that Mount Prospect needs a youth center badly and I think the park facilities can help solve the problem. The next thing is that we must realize that we can't create everybody in our own image. We have to give these students the opportunity to plan their own social lives," he said.

JACKSON ALSO ADDED that residents are too quick to assume that whenever teenagers gather in large numbers they're behaving immorally and indecently. "We can't make rules to deprive the majority of students from having fun because 1 per cent of them happens to be rowdy or loud."

"Just because there may be a few bad apples in the barrel we can't restrict the freedom of all the students in the town. Those individuals who need police action because they're disorderly and rowdy should pay their own dues, but not at the expense of every student in town."

Jackson termed the meeting "good and productive," because it established contacts between representatives of the village administration, park district, youth commission and residents.

The representatives agreed they would cooperate with each other in solving the problem, which is not the total responsibility of one department.

VILLAGE MGR. Virgil Barnett pledged the administration would handle its responsibilities as soon as possible, such as filling in pot-holes on the south side of Council Trail which residents complained were a result of the student gatherings at Weller Creek. Barnett will also investigate installing an additional street light and no parking signs on Council Trail.

Barnett also told commission members, especially the residents living near the creek on Council Trail, that they must file complaints and support their complaints if they expect police action.

"Residents have complained that the police are not doing their jobs in controlling vandalism, speeding and drag racing in that area. But if the police arrive after the damage is done and the students are quiet, they can't act without a formal complaint which residents have refused to do in the past," Barnett said.

BARNETT SAID THAT another meeting has not been scheduled and hopefully it will not be necessary.

Officials who attended Saturday's meeting included Jackson, Caldwell, Teichert, Trustee George Reiter, Barnett and John Gatto and Jack Costello from the youth commission.

Charge Youth In Pot Case

A Mount Prospect youth was charged with possession of marijuana by Mount Prospect police Thursday afternoon in Meadows Park.

The youth had several plastic bags filled with marijuana tucked in his pants' pocket, according to police.

Mount Prospect Det. Richard Pascoe and Sgt. Joe Bopp found a brown paper bag containing more marijuana hidden in a clump of bushes in the youth's backyard.

He told police the marijuana had been found in Chicago. Detectives found at least six marijuana plants growing in the vicinity described by the youth and a field test at the Mount Prospect station identified the plants.

The case will be referred to juvenile court, according to police.

Fleeing Driver Hits Three

An 82-year-old man, in an attempt to elude police, ran over three children playing on the lawn of a Palatine apartment complex last night, according to Palatine police.

The driver, identified by police as Ernest G. Hanna, 2310 Lakeshore Drive, Cary, has been charged with speeding, eluding a police officer, reckless driving and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident.

The children were identified as 2-year-old Christopher Gillan, 225 S. Rohlwing Road, who suffered a fractured skull and leg; his brother, Thomas Gillan, 6, who was taken to the hospital and later released, and 6-year-old Julie Anne Paulsen, who suffered a fractured spine.

THE PAULSEN CHILD and Gillan were hospitalized at Northwest Community Hospital. All are from the same address, police said.

Investigating officers James Baran and Lt. Harold Nehmzow said Hanna was southbound on Rohlwing Road when he was clocked on radar going 15 miles an hour over the speed limit. When the squad car pulled out behind Hanna and the lights were turned on, Hanna speeded up and turned into the parking lot of Willow Creek Apartments at Rohlwing and Route 14 where the children lived, according to police.

"Apparently the driver tried to hide his car among those in the parking lot," Nehmzow told the Herald.

The squad car turned into the lot and Baran found the Hanna vehicle and approached it. The police officer took a driver's license from Hanna and, while he was reading it, the car pulled away again, he said.

Police said the car ran over a curb and cut across a lawn where about 10 or 15 children were playing.

The vehicle hit the children, went around the building and again turned southbound on Rohlwing.

"At this time he came to a halt," Nehmzow said, "because of two flat tires. He got out of the car and went toward the apartment building."

At this point, police said, Hanna's grandson, Ronald O. Denz, came out of the apartments and told police that Hanna was with him.

Police arrested Hanna and placed charges against him at the Palatine Police Department.

Book Nook Will Have Open House Sunday

The Mount Prospect Book Nook, 119 S. Emerson, will hold an open house this Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Guests expected to attend the occasion are Fred Reimann, assistant superintendent for Cook County schools, James Paulus, dean of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, Harold Patton, director of the Sears Vincent Price Gallery of Fine Art, and Paul Pinson, an instructor at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts.

214 OKs Budget

After a public hearing last night, High School Dist. 214 approved a $21.6 million budget for 1969-70.

Residents questioned minor allocations in the budget, which reflects an increase of less than $1 million from last year's budget.

About $8 million is earmarked for teachers salaries, included in the $15.6 education fund. The building fund contributes another $2.5 million to the $21.6 million total.

THE BUDGET hearing is necessary to meet state requirements. The Illinois school code requires such a budget and sets down requirements for public hearings, public inspection and the date of adoption.

The 1969-70 budget does not conform exactly to the operating budget, which is already in effect for the 1969-70 year.

Budget figures are based on four assumptions — an assessed valuation of $900 million, a projected enrollment this year of 15,000, projected enrollment for 1970-71 of 16,350, and 1970-71 salaries about 5 per cent over this year's figures.

THE BOARD previously made a change in the tentative budget to permit the purchase of $38,000 worth of additional bleachers for Arlington, Prospect and Wheeling high schools. Several items from the education fund were deleted.

Income for the district is derived from tax levy, federal and state aid and income from food services.

For last year's budget of $20,479,271, a tax levy of about $2.03 was set. Expenditures in the 1968-69 educational budget were estimated at $12,214,929. This year's estimates for the education budget total $15,619,370.

Walsh Endorses Schlickman

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Schlickman's experience in local government, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

"Problems of zoning, flooding and elections have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington."

Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other representatives consider too controversial.

"His work in the areas of mental retardation and prison reform are well known and he is one of very few lawmakers to take creative and constructive action on the matter of public aid to nonpublic schools."

Report Theft of Clubs

Byron Lebow of Arlington Heights told Mount Prospect police Saturday that golf clubs and equipment, valued at $625, were stolen from his car while it was parked at the Old Orchard Country Club according to police.

Lebow told police the equipment belonged to him and William Donald, also of Arlington Heights. Entrance to the car was made by using a coat hanger to pry the door lock open, according to police.

Lighted School Ready

"We feel like producers of a Broadway show before opening night," said Leah Cummins. She was referring to the preparations for the final meeting of Elk Grove Village residents on the lighted schoolhouse program.

Mrs. Cummins, director of community education, and Suzanne Olson, Supt. of park district recreation, finalized plans Monday for the project presentation today at Mark Hopkins School at 8 p.m. The two groups are co-sponsors.

The purpose of the lighted schoolhouse program is to convert school buildings from the traditional use to a community civic center at night for almost any use for children and adults.

AT LEAST FIVE coffee hours were held throughout the summer to determine direction of the interests in the program. From the suggestions, Mrs. Cummins and Miss Olson have compiled a schedule of courses to meet the interests of the community. The schedule will be presented tonight. Interested persons may register for a course before leaving.

Courses to be offered are ballet and tap

dancing, crafts, couples recreation, rapid reading, local government, typing, slide rule, marriage and family, first aid and ceramics.

A film, "To Touch A Child," produced by the Mott Foundation of Flint, Mich., will be shown prior to the sign-up period. The film reveals activities of the lighted schoolhouse program in Flint.

This type of program was established there 30 years ago where 5 per cent of additional tax money provides all the schools in the area with 50 per cent more operation time for the community.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Cummins, the program does not just provide way-out courses. It is something that relates to the quality of living and the strengthening of individuals.

The courses have been specially designed to the interests of the people in the Mark Hopkins area.

"They will have first options on signing up and then the program will be offered to everyone in Dist. 59," Mrs. Cummins said. "They're getting first crack because it is the pilot school," she explained.

Speech Class Is Scheduled

An eight-week program in the fundamentals of oral communications and leadership is being planned for young people in the Mount Prospect area.

The program, called youth leadership, will be presented at no charge to students by members of the Randhurst Toastmasters Club.

EDWARD HOFFMANN, president of the local toastmasters club, said the youth leadership course has been developed by Toastmasters International, a world-wide public speaking organization, specifically for young people.

The program, he said, offers young people an opportunity to learn effective speaking, analytical listening, and critical thinking. It also provides practice in properly conducting a conference, committee or meeting.

The class will meet Oct. 9, in St. Mark Lutheran Church, 200 S. Wille, Mount Prospect, at 7:00 p.m. It is open to all young people of junior high or high school age.

Hoffman said that class registration will close on Oct. 6 and that young people interested in participating in the program may contact Arthur E. Wiebe at CL 3-7077 or Arlen Holmen, St. Mark Lutheran Church, at CL 3-0631.

To Observe Holiday

The Maine Township Jewish Congregation will celebrate the Festival of Sukkot beginning Sept. 26 at 8:30 p.m. at the Maine Township Synagogue, 8800 Ballard Road, Des Plaines.

Services Saturday and Sunday will be held at 9:30 a.m. with special services for the junior congregation at 10 a.m. Kiddush refreshments will be served in the Synagogue Sukkah-hut following each service.

Pension Fund To Meet

The board of trustees for the Mount Prospect policemen's pension fund will meet with members of the police department tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the village hall to nominate candidates to fill one vacancy on the board.

Police will nominate men from the department to represent the interests of the police force on the pension board. The election date is expected to be set at tomorrow night's meeting.

Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

3 Helicopters Downed

SAIGON — New fighting erupted yesterday in the battle-worn Que Son Valley and surrounding area south of Da Nang where the Communists launched assaults that downed three U.S. helicopters and caused 31 American casualties.

Military spokesman said the helicopters were ferrying troops of the 198th Light Infantry brigade into the foothills of the valley just south of Da Nang.

Barricades Removed

LONDONDERRY, NORTHERN IRELAND—Residents of Londonderry's Roman Catholic Rogside district began dismantling barricades yesterday and replacing them with white lines across the streets.

Troops stood by as eight barricades were removed and members of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association painted the lines without incident.

Con-Con Voting Today

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine Townships.

Four of the 16 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislature elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

MRS. RONALD FOURNIER of 595 Birchwood, Elk Grove Village, recently gave a demonstration before Salt Creek School students on how to make a tissue paper collage. A member of the Des Plaines Art Guild, Mrs. Fournier is giving demonstrations in all Dist. 59 schools. She will be at Robert Frost School today.

Local Man Killed in Crash

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexicana Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

Arnold Freise, 1004 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, was unofficially reported killed in the crash.

Information on passengers injured or killed was not available yesterday afternoon from the airlines. Mexican authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

OTHER PASSENGERS from the area who were on the plane were Mrs. Arnold Freise, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clausung, all from Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton from unincorporated Wheeling.

The three Arlington Heights couples were members of Club International, a vacation savings club. They had taken trips together before and were planning to go to Europe next year.

All the Arlington Heights residents are members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The Rev. Robert Bartz, pastor of the church, flew to Mexico City yesterday afternoon.

Freise, 53, was vice president and sales manager for Piepenbrink Movers in Rolling Meadows. He was recently appointed as a director of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. He was a former operator of Parkway Liquors, 37 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

AT ST. PETER LUTHERAN Church, Freise was the chairman of the board of elders and chairman of the Lutheran Layman's League.

He is survived by his wife, Verna, and two children, Mrs. Carol Schroeder and Roger, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in California.

Mrs. Freise reportedly helped another crash victim, Mrs. Meyer, out of her chair after the crash. Mrs. Freise was reportedly in a hospital.

Ralph Meyer, a building inspector for the Village of Arlington Heights, was reported missing. His wife, Elizabeth, "Libby," called home to tell her family that she was in the hospital and was all right. She said she didn't know where her husband was. They live at 706 N. Mitchell.

MEYER WAS ON the building committee when St. Peter's built its new church in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausung, 717 S. Evergreen Ave., were reported injured and in a hospital. Clausung used to be an auditor for the church books at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton were reported injured. They were married Saturday and were en route to Acapulco for their honeymoon.

The nonstop flight from Chicago to Mexico City included 118 persons. The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane crashed into a lake about a mile from the end of the runway. While attempting to land, the plane hit the ground and split into three pieces.

Touches Tragedy

(Editor's note: The following account of Sunday's plane crash in Mexico City was written for United Press International by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton, who live at Lamplighter Apartments, 1409 South Wolf in unincorporated Wheeling. Charlton, an industrial engineer for United Air Lines in Chicago, and his wife, Judith, formerly a secretary there, were married Saturday. They were flying to Acapulco for their honeymoon aboard the Mexicana Airlines Boeing 707 which crashed.)

This was our honeymoon flight. We were on our way to Acapulco.

As we approached the airport, we hit some turbulence. I would classify this as moderate turbulence.

The captain asked everyone over the loudspeaker to fasten seat belts. We could tell it was raining. I could see a dark rain cloud through a forward window and I remarked to Judy, "There goes the visibility."

At the same time, I heard the pilot give the plane full power, and the nose started to climb, but we hit three or four seconds later. The tail hit first and broke off. I think maybe the cockpit broke off, too. With our airline backgrounds, we both had our heads on our knees, but the force of the impact, with the seatbelts around our waists, would have doubled us over anyway.

I REALIZED that the plane had stopped and we had to get out, and that my left

Fun Fair Is Oct. 4

A fun fair, sponsored by the Westbrook School PTA, will be held from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 4 at the school.

The fair, called "Wild Westbrook Day," will feature pony rides, antique car rides, bean bag tosses and a variety of games.

Tickets for fair will be made available at the school Wednesday and also Oct. 1 at 3:30 p.m. They may also be purchased at the fair. If it rains, the games will be moved inside the school.

Park-Youth Gap Closes

by GERRY DEZONNA

Mount Prospect came one step closer Saturday to cleaning up the communication gap and controversy over student activities at Weller Creek near Council Trail and the Mount Prospect Country Club.

Representatives from the village administration, park district and youth commission met for a round-table discussion with residents and students to find a solution to "teenage rowdiness" at the Weller Creek park site.

The meeting was called by Mayor Robert Teichert following complaints from residents who charged students were misbehaving on park district property, as well as abusing the privileges for which the park is intended. They complained the "large student gatherings" at the Weller Creek site resulted in personal property damage and invasion of privacy.

THE STUDENTS APPEALED to the village board last month for equal time and an opportunity to cooperate with village officials and residents in seeking some solution to the problem and understanding for the students who have no place to meet with their friends.

Saturday's meeting heralded one solid suggestion from Robert Jackson, chairman of the park board, who will investigate the possibilities of opening a youth center at the Mount Prospect Country Club for the students.

"We all realize that there's been a problem at Weller Creek, but closing the park and prohibiting students to use the park as a meeting place is not the solution to the problem. These students have a very good point. Where can they go in town to meet as a group?" Jackson asked.

"I'm all in favor of opening the community center for youth activities. If we can give them the facilities and the opportunity to plan the social activities that they want, then I think this is a big step in solving the problem."

"WE'RE GOING TO TRY as soon as possible to open the community center to these students, but it will take some time, unfortunately. We have to find someone to supervise the building and then there'll be some juggling of the schedule. The community center is used almost 100 per cent of the time, which will present a small scheduling problem," Jackson said.

ankle was caught in something. Something solid slipped down in front of me. I smelled kerosene and realized we might all burn. Then we realized there was a big jagged hole right next to our seats. We started to climb out and a body floated by in the water.

It was the woman who had been sitting next to us. I pulled myself out and fell three feet into hip-deep water. I reached up and helped Judy out. It was not dark yet and we could see an adobe hut about 100 yards away.

"Let's try to get over there," I said, and we started walking with two men. I think we were the first four persons out of the plane.

WHEN WE REACHED the hut I had to lay down. I was bleeding heavily from a wound in the forehead. Judy and the other two men had to help me walk. Then someone told us we were going the wrong way, and we should walk toward some car headlights. So we went back the way we came, but couldn't get out that way, and had to go back by the original route again. An ambulance pulled up, and they put me on a stretcher, took me to an aid station, and then to the American Hospital.

Said Judy: The plane began to shake, and then we hit the ground. Either the ceiling came down or the floor came up because we were sandwiched between two layers of steel.

THERE WAS ABSOLUTE silence for about 15 seconds, and then people began to scream. There was broken glass, water, dirt and the smell of kerosene everywhere. All I could think of was fire. I thought the plane would be enveloped in fire any moment.

There were bodies floating in the water.

We started for this mud hut, and as I looked back I could see the other passengers just standing around the plane, and I remember thinking, "They mustn't just stand there, they must get as far away as they can because there might be a fire." But there was nothing I could do. It seemed like about 20 minutes before anyone arrived to help.

Jackson and Paul Caldwell, assistant superintendent of parks and recreation, told the commission that the parks would not be closed at night because there's been trouble at the Weller Creek site.

"The parks are open 24 hours and this is the way it should be. If you want to take a walk in the park at 2 a.m., then you should have that right. It would be like telling people to get off the streets by 10 p.m. to avoid any trouble, rowdiness or accidents. It's just not right and park district property isn't any different," Jackson said.

"We all agree that Mount Prospect needs a youth center badly and I think the park facilities can help solve the problem. The next thing is that we must realize that we can't create everybody in our own image. We have to give these students the opportunity to plan their own social lives," he said.

JACKSON ALSO ADDED that residents are too quick to assume that whenever teenagers gather in large numbers they're behaving immorally and indecently. "We can't make rules to deprive the majority of students from having fun because 1 per cent of them happens to be rowdy or loud."

"Just because there may be a few bad apples in the barrel we can't restrict the freedom of all the students in the town. Those individuals who need police action because they're disorderly and rowdy should pay their own dues, but not at the expense of every student in town."

Jackson termed the meeting "good and productive," because it established contacts between representatives of the village administration, park district, youth commission and residents.

The representatives agreed they would cooperate with each other in solving the problem, which is not the total responsibility of one department.

VILLAGE MGR. Virgil Barnett pledged the administration would handle its responsibilities as soon as possible, such as filling in pot-holes on the south side of Council Trail which residents complained were a result of the student gatherings at Weller Creek. Barnett will also investigate installing an additional street light and no parking signs on Council Trail.

Barnett also told commission members, especially the residents living near the creek on Council Trail, that they must file complaints and support their complaints if they expect police action.

"Residents have complained that the police are not doing their jobs in controlling vandalism, speeding and drag racing in that area. But if the police arrive after the damage is done and the students are quiet, they can't act without a formal complaint which residents have refused to do in the past," Barnett said.

BARNETT SAID THAT another meeting has not been scheduled and hopefully it will not be necessary.

Officials who attended Saturday's meeting included Jackson, Caldwell, Teichert, Trustee George Reiter, Barnett and John Gatto and Jack Costello from the youth commission.

James Scott and Mrs. Lois Insolia represented those residents living on Council Trail at Weller Creek. Student representatives included Dean Ennes, Karol Ballou, Brian DeKoatz, John Baty, Dave Pope and Heather Erickson.

Charge Youth In Pot Case

A Mount Prospect youth was charged with possession of marijuana by Mount Prospect police Thursday afternoon in Meadows Park.

The youth had several plastic bags filled with marijuana tucked in his pants' pocket, according to police.

Mount Prospect Det. Richard Pascoe and Sgt. Joe Bopp found a brown paper bag containing more marijuana hidden in a clump of bushes in the youth's backyard.

He told police the marijuana had been found in Chicago. Detectives found at least six marijuana plants growing in the vicinity described by the youth and a field test at the Mount Prospect station identified the plants.

The case will be referred to juvenile court, according to police.

Fleeing Driver Hits Three

An 82-year-old man, in an attempt to elude police, ran over three children playing on the lawn of a Palatine apartment complex last night, according to Palatine police.

The driver, identified by police as Ernest G. Hanna, 2310 Lakeshore Drive, Cary, has been charged with speeding, eluding a police officer, reckless driving and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident.

The children were identified as 2-year-old Christopher Gillan, 225 S. Rohlwing Road, who suffered a fractured skull and leg; his brother, Thomas Gillan, 6, who was taken to the hospital and later released, and 6-year-old Julie Anne Paulsen, who suffered a fractured spine.

THE PAULSEN CHILD and Gillan were hospitalized at Northwest Community Hospital. All are from the same address, police said.

Investigating officers James Baran and Lt. Harold Nehmzow said Hanna was southbound on Rohlwing Road when he was clocked on radar going 15 miles an hour over the speed limit. When the squad car pulled out behind Hanna and the lights were turned on, Hanna sped up and turned into the parking lot of Willow Creek Apartments at Rohlwing and Route 14 where the children lived, according to police.

"Apparently the driver tried to hide his car among those in the parking lot," Nehmzow told the Herald.

The squad car turned into the lot and Baran found the Hanna vehicle and approached it. The police officer took a driver's license from Hanna and, while he was reading it, the car pulled away again, he said.

Police said the car ran over a curb and cut across a lawn where about 10 or 15 children were playing.

The vehicle hit the children, went around the building and again turned southbound on Rohlwing.

"At this time he came to a halt," Nehmzow said, "because of two flat tires. He got out of the car and went toward the apartment building."

At this point, police said, Hanna's grandson, Ronald O. Denz, came out of the apartments and told police that Hanna was with him.

Police arrested Hanna and placed charges against him at the Palatine Police Department.

Book Nook Will Have Open House Sunday

The Mount Prospect Book Nook, 119 S. Emerson, will hold an open house this Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Guests expected to attend the occasion are Fred Reimann, assistant superintendent for Cook County schools, James Paulus, dean of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, Harold Patton, director of the Sears Vincent Price Gallery of Fine Art, and Paul Pinson, an instructor at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts.

214 OKs Budget

After a public hearing last night, High School Dist. 214 approved a $21.6 million budget for 1969-70.

Residents questioned minor allocations in the budget, which reflects an increase of less than $1 million from last year's budget.

About $8 million is earmarked for teachers salaries, included in the $15.6 education fund. The building fund contributes another $2.5 million to the $21.6 million total.

THE BUDGET hearing is necessary to meet state requirements. The Illinois school code requires such a budget and sets down requirements for public hearings, public inspection and the date of adoption.

The 1969-70 budget does not conform exactly to the operating budget, which is already in effect for the 1969-70 year.

Budget figures are based on four assumptions — an assessed valuation of $800 million, a projected enrollment this year of 15,000, projected enrollment for 1970-71 of 16,350, and 1970-71 salaries about 5 percent over this year's figures.

THE BOARD previously made a change in the tentative budget to permit the purchase of $38,000 worth of additional bleachers for Arlington, Prospect and Wheeling high schools. Several items from the education fund were deleted.

Income for the district is derived from tax levy, federal and state aid and income from food services.

For last year's budget of $20,479,271, a tax levy of about $2.03 was set. Expenditures in the 1968-69 educational budget were estimated at $12,214,920. This year's estimates for the education budget total $15,619,370.

Walsh Endorses Schlickman

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Schlickman's experience in local government, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

"Problems of zoning, flooding and elections have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington."

Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other representatives consider too controversial.

"His work in the areas of mental retardation and prison reform are well known and he is one of very few lawmakers to take creative and constructive action on the matter of public aid to nonpublic schools."

WHILE THE TOP BRASS Band played several arrangements from Herb Alpert's "Tijuana Brass" album at the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce's dinner-dance Saturday, Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert and Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett chatted over the din with Stuart R. Paddock Jr., president of Paddock Publications. The dinner-dance was held in the Jimmy Durante Room of the Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

Schlickman said he is pleased to have Walsh endorse his candidacy, saying Walsh represents the third largest city in the 13th District.

At a meeting of the Des Plaines City Council, Shillington said he would ask his friends in the Elk Grove Township portion of Des Plaines to back Schlickman in the Oct. 7 primary election.

"I have known Gene since I became a municipal official in 1963," Shillington said. "He has become a most efficient and able legislator, concerned with his district. And he is the only state representative or candidate to have shown interest in our problems in Des Plaines."

"He is a man who has known our area and our problems," the alderman said. "We should vote for a man who has done something for us. And I ask, 'What has anyone else done?' The candidate endorsed by the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization has done nothing at all."

Meyer said, "As mayor of Rolling Meadows and as a municipal official for the past nine years, I believe that people who have served at the local level know the needs of the towns better than those who have not."

"Gene Schlickman is the only candidate who has this qualification as well as experience at the state level. I think he can best serve our needs and desires."

Report Theft of Clubs

Byron Lebow of Arlington Heights told Mount Prospect police Saturday that golf clubs and equipment, valued at $625, were stolen from his car while it was parked at the Old Orchard Country Club according to police.

Lebow told police the equipment belonged to him and William Donald, also of Arlington Heights. Entrance to the car was made by using a coat hanger to pry the door lock open, according to police.

Lighted School Ready

"We feel like producers of a Broadway show before opening night," said Leah Cummins. She was referring to the preparations for the final meeting of Elk Grove Village residents on the lighted schoolhouse program.

Mrs. Cummins, director of community education, and Suzanne Olson, Supt. of park district recreation, finalized plans Monday for the project presentation today at Mark Hopkins School at 8 p.m. The two groups are co-sponsors.

The purpose of the lighted schoolhouse program is to convert school buildings from the traditional use to a community civic center at night for almost any use for children and adults.

AT LEAST FIVE coffee hours were held throughout the summer to determine direction of the interests in the program. From the suggestions, Mrs. Cummins and Miss Olson have compiled a schedule of courses to meet the interests of the community. The schedule will be presented tonight. Interested persons may register for a course before leaving.

Courses to be offered are ballet and tap dancing, crafts, couples recreation, rapid reading, local government, typing, slide rule, marriage and family, first aid and ceramics.

A film, "To Touch A Child," produced by the Mott Foundation of Flint, Mich., will be shown prior to the sign-up period. The film reveals activities of the lighted schoolhouse program in Flint.

This type of program was established there 30 years ago where 5 per cent of additional tax money provides all the schools in the area with 50 per cent more operation time for the community.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Cummins, the program does not just provide way-out courses. It is something that relates to the quality of living and the strengthening of individuals.

The courses have been specially designed to the interests of the people in the Mark Hopkins area.

"They will have first options on signing up and then the program will be offered to everyone in Dist. 59," Mrs. Cummins said. "They're getting first crack because it is the pilot school," she explained.

Speech Class Is Scheduled

An eight-week program in the fundamentals of oral communications and leadership is being planned for young people in the Mount Prospect area.

The program, called youth leadership, will be presented at no charge to students by members of the Randhurst Toastmasters Club.

EDWARD HOFFMANN, president of the local toastmasters club, said the youth leadership course has been developed by Toastmasters International, a world-wide public speaking organization, specifically for young people.

The program, he said, offers young people an opportunity to learn effective speaking, analytical listening, and critical thinking. It also provides practice in properly conducting a conference, committee or meeting.

The class will meet Oct. 9, in St. Mark Lutheran Church, 200 S. Wille, Mount Prospect, at 7:00 p.m. It is open to all young people of junior high or high school age.

Hoffman said that class registration will close on Oct. 6 and that young people interested in participating in the program may contact Arthur E. Wiebe at CL 3-7077 or Arlen Holmen, St. Mark Lutheran Church, at CL 3-0631.

ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP Committeeman Carl Hansen and Sam Young, a GOP candidate for the 13th Congressional District seat, talked politics, naturally, at the annual dinner-dance sponsored by the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce Saturday, at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

To Observe Holiday

The Maine Township Jewish Congregation will celebrate the Festival of Sukkot beginning Sept. 26 at 8:30 p.m. at the Maine Township Synagogue, 8800 Ballard Road, Des Plaines.

Services Saturday and Sunday will be held at 9:30 a.m. with special services for the junior congregation at 10 a.m. Kiddush refreshments will be served in the Synagogue Sukkah-hut following each service.

Pension Fund To Meet

The board of trustees for the Mount Prospect policemen's pension fund will meet with members of the police department tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the village hall to nominate candidates to fill one vacancy on the board.

Police will nominate men from the department to represent the interests of the police force on the pension board. The election date is expected to be set at tomorrow night's meeting.

Creates Labor Board

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday created a commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strife and tension in the construction industry.

Nixon authorized the commission to intercede in any labor dispute likely to have "significant impact" on construction, but said it will not force compulsory arbitration or limit the right to strike or lock out.

Ready for Arms Talks

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is ready to announce Russian agreement to begin negotiations with the United States on limiting strategic arms, diplomatic sources reported yesterday.

They said the official Soviet reply to U.S. proposals for such talks probably would be delivered to Secretary of State William Rogers at an informal dinner last night.

3 Helicopters Downed

SAIGON — New fighting erupted yesterday in the battle-worn Que Son Valley and surrounding area south of Da Nang where the Communists launched assaults that downed three U.S. helicopters and caused 31 American casualties.

Military spokesmen said the helicopters were ferrying troops of the 196th Light Infantry brigade into the foothills of the valley just south of Da Nang.

Barricades Removed

LONDONDERRY, NORTHERN IRELAND—Residents of Londonderry's Roman Catholic Ragside district began dismantling barricades yesterday and replacing them with white lines across the streets.

Troops stood by as eight barricades were removed and members of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association painted the lines without incident.

Con-Con Voting Today

Polls will be open until 6 p.m. today as voters in the Third Senatorial District, and throughout the state, begin to select delegates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sixteen candidates are competing for the two delegate seats in this district, comprised of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships and parts of Northfield and Maine Townships.

Four of the 16 candidates will survive the primary to compete for the two seats in the general election Nov. 18.

VOTERS CAN CAST votes for two candidates today. However, the state's cumulative voting system used in legislature elections is not in effect and a voter casting his ballot for only one candidate only gives that candidate one vote.

Today's election is an open primary, which means voters do not have to be registered in one of the political parties, nor do they have to declare a party preference. The major political parties have endorsed candidates, but the election is nonpartisan and the party affiliation will not be listed on the ballot.

WILSON SCHOOL students listen attentively to violin concert given by Mrs. Betty Haag yesterday. The new instrumental music teacher in Arlington Heights schools will teach third graders as well as junior high school pupils. She has worked with Shinichi Suzuki, Japanese educator and violinist, and has taught pre-schoolers as well as college students.

214 Budget Set At $21.6 Million

Two-Way To Stay

One-way streets in downtown Arlington Heights were rejected last night by the village board committee of the whole.

Trustees Frank Palmatier, Charles Bennett, Burt Thompson and Dwight Walton favored continuing the two-way traffic flow in the downtown business district.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh was the only proponent of one-way traffic.

Thompson said, "Frankly, I don't see the necessity of one-way streets at this juncture."

BENNETT CONCURRED and said, "I have been a strong believer in one-way streets but I don't think we need them now."

"I do think we should rebuild the intersection of Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway."

Palmatier said, "No one seems to want one-way streets and we shouldn't ram it down their throats." Walton summed up most everyone's feelings by saying, "Let's leave it as it is."

Walsh, the long dissenter, was not swayed by the other trustees and said, "I feel one-way streets would be desirable if one side of the streets downtown had diagonal parking."

There was a consensus that diagonal parking should be kept in the area.

IN OTHER ACTION, Donald C. McElfresh, associate of T. Y. Lin and Associates, engineers, architects and parking consultants, submitted a model of a proposed four-level parking lot on Dunton court to the committee.

The lot would hold 332 cars and cost the village $648,000. Provisions for two more levels and 190 more spaces would cost an additional $25,000. Walsh directed Village Mgr. L. A. Hansen to study the means by which a project like this could be financed.

McElfresh told the committee that construction costs are going up one per cent per month and that construction time for the proposed decked lot would be six months.

NEW MUSIC TEACHER for Arlington Heights School Dist. 25, Mrs. Betty Haag entertained children at Wilson School yesterday. A former teacher at Indiana University, Mrs. Haag has also played with the Atlanta Symphony and Civic Ballet orchestra and the Dayton and Elmhurst Symphonies. She has toured the eastern section of the country and appeared at Carnegie Hall.

Schlickman Has Walsh's Endorsement

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh has endorsed the Arlington Heights candidate for 13th District congressman — Eugene Schlickman.

Schlickman, a state representative and past Arlington Heights trustee, is one of nine Republican candidates on the Oct. 7 primary ballot for congressman. He was endorsed last week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Des Plaines eighth Ward Alderman Edward Shillington.

Walsh has agreed to head a committee, Local Government Officials for Schlickman, and has promised four other prominent officials in the 13th District will endorse Schlickman this week.

Schlickman's experience in local government, serving as trustee from 1959 to 1964, is cited as an appeal for his candidacy. He is the only candidate from the district's western four townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

"Having served as a trustee for six years in Arlington Heights, and then as its mayor, I know what a help Gene has been to those of us in municipal government who needed assistance in Springfield," Walsh said of Schlickman.

Local Man Killed in Crash

Three couples from Arlington Heights and a newlywed couple from Wheeling were passengers on the Mexicana Airlines jet plane which crashed Sunday in a swamp near Mexico City.

Arnold Freise, 1064 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, was unofficially reported killed in the crash.

Information on passengers injured or killed was not available yesterday afternoon from the airlines. Mexican authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

OTHER PASSENGERS from the area who were on the plane were Mrs. Arnold Freise, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clausen, all from Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton from unincorporated Wheeling.

The three Arlington Heights couples were members of Club International, a vacation savings club. They had taken trips together before and were planning to go to Europe next year.

All the Arlington Heights residents are members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The Rev. Robert Bartz, pastor of the church, flew to Mexico City yesterday afternoon.

Freise, 53, was vice president and sales manager for Piepenbrink Movers in Rolling Meadows. He was recently appointed as a director of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. He was a former operator of Parkway Liquors, 17 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

AT ST. PETER LUTHERAN Church, Freise was the chairman of the board of elders and chairman of the Lutheran Layman's League.

He is survived by his wife, Verna, and two children, Mrs. Carol Schroeder and Roger, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in California.

Mrs. Freise reportedly helped another crash victim, Mrs. Meyer, out of her chair after the crash. Mrs. Freise was reportedly in a hospital.

Ralph Meyer, a building inspector for the Village of Arlington Heights, was reported missing. His wife, Elizabeth, "Libby," called home to tell her family that she was in the hospital and was all right. She said she didn't know where her husband was. They live at 706 N. Mitchell.

MEYER WAS ON the building committee when St. Peter's built its new church in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausen, 717 S. Evergreen Ave., were reported injured and in a hospital. Clausen used to be an auditor for the church books at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton were reported injured. They were married Saturday and were en route to Acapulco for their honeymoon.

The nonstop flight from Chicago to Mexico City included 118 persons. The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane crashed into a lake about a mile from the end of the runway. While attempting to land, the plane hit the ground and split into three pieces.

Newlyweds' Tale

(Editor's note: The following account of Sunday's plane crash in Mexico City was written for United Press International by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Charlton, who live at Lamplighter Apartments, 1409 South Wolf in unincorporated Wheeling. Charlton, an industrial engineer for United Air Lines in Chicago, and his wife, Judith, formerly a secretary there, were married Saturday. They were flying to Acapulco for their honeymoon aboard the Mexicana Airlines Boeing 707 which crashed.)

This was our honeymoon flight. We were on our way to Acapulco.

As we approached the airport, we hit some turbulence. I would classify this as moderate turbulence.

The captain asked everyone over the loudspeaker to fasten seat belts. We could tell it was raining. I could see a dark rain cloud through a forward window and I remarked to Judy, "There goes the visibility."

At the same time, I heard the pilot give

Fleeing Driver Hits Three

An 82-year-old man, in an attempt to elude police, ran over three children playing on the lawn of a Palatine apartment complex last night, according to Palatine police.

The driver, identified by police as Ernest G. Hanna, 2310 Lakeshore Drive, Cary, has been charged with speeding, eluding a police officer, reckless driving and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident.

The children were identified as 2-year-old Christopher Gillan, 225 S. Rohlwing Road, who suffered a fractured skull and leg; his brother, Thomas Gillan, 6, who was taken to the hospital and later released, and 6-year-old Julie Anne Paulsen, who suffered a fractured spine.

THE PAULSEN CHILD and Gillan were hospitalized at Northwest Community Hospital. All are from the same address, police said.

Investigating officers James Baran and Lt. Harold Nehmzow said Hanna was southbound on Rohlwing Road when he was clocked on radar going 15 miles an hour over the speed limit. When the squad car pulled out behind Hanna and the lights were turned on, Hanna speeded up and turned into the parking lot of Willow Creek Apartments at Rohlwing and Route 14 where the children lived, according to police.

"Apparently the driver tried to hide his car among those in the parking lot," Nehmzow told the Herald.

The squad car turned into the lot and Baran found the Hanna vehicle and approached it. The police officer took a driver's license from Hanna and, while he was reading it, the car pulled away again, he said.

Police said the car ran over a curb and cut across a lawn where about 10 or 15 children were playing.

The vehicle hit the children, went around the building and again turned southbound on Rohlwing.

"At this time he came to a halt," Nehmzow said, "because of two flat tires. He got out of the car and went toward the apartment building."

At this point, police said, Hanna's grandson, Ronald O. Denz, came out of the apartments and told police that Hanna was with him.

Police arrested Hanna and placed charges against him at the Palatine Police Department.

Board Cuts Buying

School Dist. 25 board members toured Rand Junior High School last night and lopped $955 from purchases recommended for the school.

The cost of formica shelving, planned to cover locker tops at the school, was questioned at a previous board session this month and the administration was requested to seek a less expensive substitute. At last night's board meeting Supt. Donald Strong said that plywood alternatives would also cost the district $955.

AFTER THE FIRST-HAND inspection the board decided that the lockers were satisfactory as they are and that students could use the regular tops for books and supplies while they were in the locker area.

The board approved, however, acoustical ceiling tiles for the art, shop, music and home economics areas of Rand. The ceilings were not scheduled to be finished at this time as more construction is planned and tiles must be removed for pipe installation.

The noise level in the rooms is waiting through the building and as most of the tiles can be salvaged later, the board agreed to take advantage of today's prices and install the ceilings now.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board approved the employment of a professional consulting firm at $5,700 to assist the district with a new supplementary budget system.

Called a planning programming budget system (PPBS) the new format is designed to give teachers greater decision-making power and to put school funds to more effective use. In the future, staff members will be asked to think in terms of specific programs when estimating financial needs.

The first step of the program calls for a task force of administrators, principals and teachers to survey and compile district needs. The second stage will include a computerized budget. The facts and findings of PPBS will serve as a guide when annual legal budgets are made up.

Walsh Backs Schlickman

tions have been brought to Gene by mayors, managers and trustees," Walsh continued. "More often than not, he's been able to help us solve them. That's the kind of responsiveness we need in Washington."

Walsh said Schlickman has handled in the state legislature many bills that other representatives consider too controversial.

"His work in the areas of mental retardation and prison reform are well known and he is one of very few lawmakers to take creative and constructive action on the matter of public aid to nonpublic schools."

Schlickman said he is pleased to have Walsh endorse his candidacy, saying Walsh represents the third largest city in the 13th District.

At a meeting of the Des Plaines City Council, Shillington said he would ask his friends in the Elk Grove Township portion of Des Plaines to back Schlickman in the Oct. 7 primary election.

"I have known Gene since I became a municipal official in 1963," Shillington said. "He has become a most efficient and able legislator, concerned with his district. And he is the only state representative or candidate to have shown interest in our problems in Des Plaines."

"He is a man who has known our area and our problems," the alderman said. "We should vote for a man who has done something for us. And I ask, 'What has anyone else done?' The candidate endorsed by the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization has done nothing at all."

Meyer said, "As mayor of Rolling Meadows and as a municipal official for the past nine years, I believe that people who have served at the local level know the needs of the towns better than those who have not."

"Gene Schlickman is the only candidate who has this qualification as well as experience at the state level. I think he can best serve our needs and desires."

Newlyweds Tell of Tragedy

the plane full power, and the nose started to climb, but we hit three or four seconds later. The tail hit first and broke off. I think maybe the cockpit broke off, too. With our airline backgrounds, we both had our heads on our knees, but the force of the impact, with the seatbelts around our waists, would have doubled us over anyway.

I REALIZED that the plane had stopped and we had to get out, and that my left ankle was caught in something. Something solid slipped down in front of me. I smelled kerosene and realized we might all burn. Then we realized there was a big jagged hole right next to our seats. We started to climb out and a body floated by in the water.

It was the woman who had been sitting next to us. I pulled myself out and fell three feet into hip-deep water. I reached up and helped Judy out. It was not dark yet and we could see an adobe hut about 100 yards away.

"Let's try to get over there," I said, and we started walking with two men. I think we were the first four persons out of the plane.

WHEN WE REACHED the hut I had to lay down. I was bleeding heavily from a wound in the forehead. Judy and the other two men had to help me walk. Then somebody told us we were going the wrong way, and we should walk toward some car headlights. So we went back the way we came, but couldn't get out that way, and had to go back by the original route again.

An ambulance pulled up, and they put me on a stretcher, took me to an aid station, and then to the American Hospital.

Said Judy: The plane began to shake, and then we hit the ground. Either the ceiling came down or the floor came up because we were sandwiched between two layers of steel.

THERE WAS ABSOLUTE silence for about 15 seconds, and then people began to scream. There was broken glass, water, dirt and the smell of kerosene everywhere. All I could think of was fire. I thought the plane would be enveloped in fire any moment.

There were bodies floating in the water.

We started for this mud hut, and as I looked back I could see the other passengers just standing around the plane, and I remember thinking, 'They mustn't just stand there, they must get as far away as they can because there might be a fire.' But there was nothing I could do. It seemed like about 20 minutes before anyone arrived to help.

Park Faces Delays

First it was the weather and now it's labor problems.

The latter was given as the excuse for delays in the Arlington Heights Park District's construction program.

Park board members were told last night that the development program is behind schedule as much as a month on buildings and swimming pools and two and a half months on site development.

During the early part of the summer, delays in construction were blamed on rainy weather. Last night building architect Joe Bennett said that the contractors under his jurisdiction were having severe labor shortage problems and the contractors had not made up the time lost during the rainy weather.

In other action board members generally agreed on a new fieldhouse use policy, but deferred a final decision until their next meeting.

The major change in the policy would be to charge non-profit organizations a $3.50 per hour fee to cover the cost of custodial help. Previously groups have had free use of park district facilities.

The policy change will not effect groups consisting of persons under age 18, such as the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts. Free use will also still be granted to senior citizens groups.

A different fee schedule will be decided upon for private parties or profit-making organizations. Although private parties have generally been discouraged in the past, park officials feel that with the completion of the four new field houses this type of revenue producing activity should be encouraged.

To Form Hockey League

With dreams of future Bobby Hulls from Arlington Heights in their heads, the Jaycees are planning to form an ice hockey league here.

Tentatively slated to start Nov. 15, the program will include 12 teams of boys, 8 to 14-years-old. The local Jaycees are presently negotiating for an indoor location in the Northwest suburbs for the league.

THE TWO PRESENTATIONS will include a film of Stanley Cup playoff action and "Here's Hockey," a film showing how boys progress in hockey playing ability.

Hospital Offers Marriage Advice

Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge is inviting engaged couples to a premarital institute conducted by the pastoral care department.

A physician, psychiatrist, social worker, a financial adviser and chaplains will participate in the three Monday evening institute sessions which begin Oct. 6.

Gravel Lot Is Approved

A zoning variation allowing for a gravel parking lot near the Illinois Bell office on Vail Street in Arlington Heights was granted by the zoning board of appeals (ZBA) last night.

Board members approved the variation which will allow a gravel parking lot on the Walter Aronson property until June 30, 1970.

Normal village regulations call for all parking lots to be blacktopped, but the variation was granted because of the expected short-term use of the lot.

VFW Post Collecting Gifts for Patients

The Arlington VFW Post 981 is collecting donations of books, puzzles and 33 rpm records, to give to patients at Downey Hospital in Great Lakes.

Persons wishing to donate the above items may call Joe Anzalone at 358-5329 or Tuition, which covers books and instructional material, is $10 per couple. Interested persons should contact an area clergyman or the pastoral care department at Lutheran General.

Station Is Robbed

A Marathon service station at 215 N. Arlington Heights Road was burglarized of an estimated $90 in cash yesterday, according to police reports.

Jay Holt, 1716 Cora Street, Des Plaines, owner of the station, told police he found the money missing when he opened the station yesterday morning.

Police reported they found a seven-foot ladder at the back of the station beneath a broken window. Holt told police the money was $60 in bills and $30 in cash.

Abandoned House Goes Up in Smoke

An old abandoned building went up in smoke yesterday and drew three units of the Arlington Heights Fire Department out into the night.

An abandoned farm building near the junction of Golf Road and Route 62 was apparently set ablaze about 8:45 p.m. yesterday, according to L.W. Calderwood, Fire Chief. Units from the fire department went into the building and brought the blaze under control.

Arlington Heights police blocked traffic on Golf Road between Algonquin and Arlington Heights Road for the period of the fire.
